executive engineers Swapan Chakma, Mohammad Shawkat Ullah, Mohammad Fazlul Haque, Abdul Kader Chowdhury, Afsar Uddin, Illias Ahmed, and Fazlul Haque Modhu; and deputy assistant engineer Ali Akbar Sarkar.

They have been asked to appear before the ACC on December 18, 19 and 23.

ACC Director Sayed Iqbal Hossain sent the summon letter to PWD's chief engineer.

"A seven-member team has been formed to investigate allegations against GK Shamim of bribing government officials to get public works, misappropriating government money, and earning money through illegal casino business," reads the letter.

Shamim is known to be an influential contractor of PWD and various other government organisations. His firm, GKB & Company (Pvt) Ltd, handles 15 major construction projects of the government worth around Tk 3,000 crore, including the Rapid Action Battalion (Rab) Headquarters in Ashkona and the Revenue Building in Agargaon.

ACC filed a case against Shamim and his mother on October 21 for amassing Tk 297.08 crore wealth beyond known sources of income.

On charges of extortion and tender manipulation, Rab members arrested Shamim and seven of his bodyguards on September 20 from the capital's Niketan.

formulation of the Indigenous Peoples' Rights Act is very necessary, added Prof Mesbah, also chairperson of RDC.

He said that RDC with help of other NGOs and rights organisations prepared a draft of the act and submitted it to the government.

He hoped that the government would consider their expectations.

Prof Mizanur Rahman of law department at Dhaka University said many rights issues of the indigenous communities, including right to land, will be solved if the act is approved. It will also give them a permanent recognition as citizens, he added.

"I sincerely request the prime minister not to let division based on ethnicity happen anymore in the country," said Prof Mizanur, also former chairman of National Human Rights Commission.

Echoing Mizanur, Workers Party President Rashed Khan Menon said it is high time to stand against the division, so that it cannot escalate.

"If the government wants to make the ongoing development sustainable, politics of division will have to end," he said.

Bangladesh Adivasi Forum General Secretary Sanjeeb Drong said such division cannot be expected from a civilised country like Bangladesh.

"As the existing laws failed to protect the rights of the indigenous people, we need a separate law," he said, urging the government to empathise with their situation.

Lawmaker Mustafa Lutfullah and Lutfun Nessa Khan, and RDC General Secretary Zannat-E-Ferdousi also spoke at the programme, among others.

language properly.

Bangladeshi Ovibashi Mohila Sramik Association General Secretary Sheikh Rumana said the government's existing training facility is inadequate.

Hosne Ara Lutfia Dalia, co-chair of National Parliamentarians' Caucus on Migration and Development, said female workers have to be "more vocal" to stop torture against them while it is the duty of their male counterparts to assist them in this regard.

She asked tortured female workers to submit allegations to the caucus so that it can address their sufferings before the parliament and seek remedy.

National Domestic Women Workers' Union Adviser Abul Hossain said female workers have to be united to ensure their due rights.

WARBE Chairman Syed Saiful Haque said it is not expected that the government would stop sending female workers abroad. However, it has to ensure their safety, he said.

WARBE Grievance Receiving Officer Suhrawardhy Hossain said ratifying the ILO conventions will help government stop female migrant workers' sufferings.

EXPAT MINISTRY'S INITIATIVE

Meanwhile, Expatriates Welfare and Overseas Employment Ministry issued a notice yesterday, citing a number of initiatives to ensure "further protection" for female migrant workers.

Of the initiatives, training for female migrant workers will be fully residential and for 30 days, said the notice, signed by the ministry's Joint Secretary Zahid Hossain.

Bureau of Manpower, Employment and Training (BMET) will update the housekeeping course curriculum and take the ministry's approval to make it effective within a month of issuing the notice.

To provide proper training, principals of technical training centres will prepare a study plan, including a 24-hour work plan, for each training course.

List of successful participants will be sent to the ministry and BMET's "female workers' protection cell". BMET will conduct the evaluation of female workers' training through a third party.

Max Hospital sued

of reaching the hospital; there was no time to contact Dr Afroza," he said.

Contacted, Dr Sumaya Rafique, who received the couple and performed delivery in Chattogram Metropolitan Hospital, said the woman gave birth to a dead baby within five minutes of coming to the hospital around 1:25pm on December 3.

"By the time she arrived, it was too late," she said.

The doctor also said she did not tell the baby's father that the baby had died several days ago.

When contacted on the phone, Dr Afroza denied to comment on the matter, and asked this correspondent to visit her at her chamber.

Contacted, Dr Liakat Ali Khan, managing director of Max Hospital, said, "The ultrasonogram was performed by Dr Rakibul, who is one of the leading sonologists of the country. Dr Afroza is a very experienced gynaecologist who never stood second in her academic career."

This newspaper has obtained a copy of the ultrasonogram -- with a delivery date of December 2 -- in which the condition of the fetus is seen to be normal.

MAX HOSPITAL REFUTES ALLEGATIONS
Meanwhile, Max Hospital authorities in a press conference yesterday claimed that the hospital was not liable for the death of the baby, as the delivery took place in another hospital without supervision of Dr Afroza.

In reply to a question, Liakat said patients die in most hospitals in the port city almost every day, but any trifling incident at Max Hospital is made big and highlighted. A motivated quarter might be involved behind the scene, he claimed.

NOT THE FIRST TIME

On November 21, parents of a one-year-old alleged that their baby died in Max Hospital soon after an antibiotic injection had been administered.

Banker couple Shameem Sarwar and Mohsena Jharna alleged of "wrong treatment" behind the death, and filed a complaint with Chattogram Civil Surgeon in this connection on December 1.

Contacted, Civil Surgeon Dr Sheikh Mohammad Rabbi said he forwarded the application to Dr Hasan Shahriar Kabir, director (Chattogram division) of Directorate General of Health Services, for further steps.

Mentionable, three-year-old Rafida Khan Raifa died at Max Hospital during treatment on June 2 last year. A government investigation led by the Chattogram civil surgeon found negligence of doctors in treating her.

However, the whole spectrum of smart city concept can be fully explored to make the best use of opportunities provided by this type of urbanisation for inclusive development in future, he added.

A smart city is a place where the needs of local communities, the quality of environment (citizens' well-being) and economic development are put forward -- considering the overall sustainability with the integration of available technologies, Habibur said.

Smart learning is necessary for a smart city and to achieve it, personalised learning in classroom, collaboration and engagement are required, said Prof Dr Munaz Ahmed Noor.

Dhaka North City Corporation Mayor Atiqul Islam said they are taking different initiatives related to moving towards a smart city.

Speaking as the chief guest, LGRD Minister Md Tajul Islam said Dhaka has been developed in an unplanned way because of which it has less than seven percent roads.

Among others, Dr Md Hossain Mansur and Md Abdus Sabur, chairman and member secretary of Science and Technology Affairs Sub-committee of Awami League, addressed the seminar.
