

MINISTERS IN AL COMMITTEE

Presidium asks Hasina to decide

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The newly-constituted Awami League presidium, the highest policy-making body of the party, yesterday left it to AL President Sheikh Hasina to decide whether seven ministers would be included in the 81-member central executive committee.

The seven, among the 12 ministers who were in the previous committee, do not feature in the partially-formed Awami League Central Working Committee, which was announced during the AL's triannual council held between December 20-21.

Party insiders, at the time, said they viewed the move as an effort to separate the party from the government, although four ministers were selected in the central committee.

Presidium members yesterday discussed the issue of the seven minister's at their first meeting held at the Gono Bhaban in the capital yesterday night with Hasina in the chair, said sources.

The members gave Hasina the responsibility to take the decision in this regard.

The seven ministers of the Hasina-led 47-member cabinet, who were not named in the committee yet, are Housing and Public Works Minister SM Rezaul Karim, its former legal affairs secretary;

Commerce Minister Tipu Munshi, former finance secretary of the party; three former organising secretaries in the previous committee: State Minister for Shipping Khalid Mahmud Chowdhury, Deputy Minister for Water Resources AKM Enamul Haque Shamim and Deputy Minister for Education Mohibul Hasan Chowdhury; State Minister for Religious Affairs Sheikh Muhammad Abdullah, former religious affair secretary; and State Minister for Women and Children Affairs Fazilatun Nessa Indira, former women affairs secretary.

Four ministers -- Obaidul Quader, road transport and bridges minister; Adbur Razaque, agriculture minister; Dipu Moni, education minister; and Hasan Mahmud, information minister -- were elected in the central executive committee.

Hasina was elected AL president for the ninth consecutive time, while Quader was elected her deputy for his second term.

After the meeting, Quader told reporters at Gono Bhaban gate that the full committee would be announced on Thursday.

Following the council, AL elected 42 office bearers in the 81-member central working committee, while names of the other 11 office bearers and 28 members are yet to be announced.

deep shock at the brutal attack on Nur and others. They demanded exemplary punishment of the culprits.

Meanwhile, DU students yesterday put forward a three-point demand.

The demands include resignation of DU proctor for his failure to protect the students, recovery of the CCTV footage of the attack, and immediate trial of the attackers.

The demands were declared at a programme organised under the banner of Santrash Birodhi Chhatra Oikya at the base of Raju Memorial Sculpture.

A number of teachers, journalists and politicians expressed solidarity with the demands.

Mohammad Tanzimuddin Khan, associate professor at DU's international relations department, said, "The university authorities and the proctorial team did not take proper steps to stop the attack even though they were informed."

"It is clear that the attack was a play jointly staged by the authorities and the Chhatra League."

Former Ducusu VP ASM Abdur Rob, Mujahidul Islam Selim, Mahmudur Rahman Manna, Aman Ullah Aman, renowned Photo Journalist Shahidul Alam, Convener of Gono Samhati Andolon Zonayed Saki and Jahangirnagar University teacher Prof Said Ferdous also spoke at the programme.

3 MONCHO LEADERS ON REMAND

A Dhaka court yesterday placed three leaders of Muktijuddho Moncho on a three-day remand in connection with a case filed over attacking Nur on Sunday.

Al Mamun, general secretary of the Mamun's central unit, Yeasir Arafat Turjo, general secretary of its Dhaka University unit and Mehedi Hasan Shanto, office secretary of the platform's DU unit, were accused in a case filed with Shahbagh Police Station early yesterday.

Metropolitan Magistrate Md Moinal Islam passed the order after law enforcers produced Mamun, Turjo and Mehedi Hasan Shanto, office secretary of the Muktijuddho Moncho faction.

The three were put on remand a day after they were arrested at the capital's Shahbagh.

In another development, Nur yesterday filed a complaint with the Shahbagh Police Station accusing Chhatra League DU unit President Sanjit Chandra Das and General Secretary Saddam Hussain, 27, other BCL leaders and eight Moncho leaders for an "attempt to murder him".

Ducusu Social Service Affairs Secretary Akhtar Hossen filed the complaint on behalf of Nur, said Abul Hasan, officer-in-charge of Shahbagh Police Station.

"We have received the complaint and will add information of this complaint to the previous case," he added.

Smugglers of zero line

the same amount."

A wooden slope is set up on the border fence to push a bike onto Bangladesh side after the border is found secure.

"We used to smuggle around eight to 10 bikes almost daily but the situation is tougher now after police arrested six of our members," he said.

This newspaper talked to some other sources, including syndicate members, and some locals who bought smuggled bikes, to get an insight into the illegal trade.

If any customer wants to get a licence number and registration, the smugglers handover the bike to another group working in Cumilla and Chunarughat in Habiganj, close to Brahmanbaria border.

This group removes the chassis number and replaces it with the number of an officially imported bike that was sold from an authorised shop. For this, they collect sale reports from showrooms.

For the entire process regarding the so-called licence and registration, the smugglers take additional Tk five to seven thousand. The customers would get some forged papers alongside a number.

On Indian side, the syndicates sometimes register a bike using a local's ID card -- known as Aadhar. Then a complaint is filed with a police station claiming that the bike was stolen, said a Bangladeshi youth, who is linked with the syndicate.

"They file the complaint so that they can get their bike back if it is seized by border guards, claiming it to be a lost property," he said, requesting not to be named.

The Daily Star could not independently verify this claim.

Lt Col Iqbal Hossain, commanding officer of BGB-60 Battalion, told The Daily Star that most of the motorbikes that run in the district are smuggled from India.

As the documents are not checked properly, there is an increasing tendency among youths to buy smuggled bikes, he observed.

"We often got information about the smuggled motorbikes but the smugglers kept those in the houses built on zero line. We have no authorisation to conduct drives there," said the commanding officer.

"We often express our concerns to our counterparts at flag meetings."

Sources working for law enforcement agencies say the syndicates mainly use Hakor, Badla, Madla and Bayek border points to smuggle in the bikes.

According to sources working for law enforcement agencies, one of the rackets is run by Wasim Miah of Ganganagar village and Hosen Miah of Ramchandrapur village in Cumilla. Shipon Miah of Gourangona area in Kasba is working closely with the duo.

Some other syndicate members in Brahmanbaria are Jahir Miah of Gopinathpur village, Billal Member of Dhojanagar, Rubel Mastar and Sadek Sarder of Nayanpur Bazar and Kamal Miah of Madla village.

Apart from police sources, local political leaders confirmed these names but none of the alleged smugglers were available for comments.

Md Lukman Hossain, officer-in-charge of Kasba Police Station, said they were trying their best to identify the syndicate members. "We also warned police officials to work sincerely as stern action will be taken if anyone of them is found guilty."

Replying to a query, Lt Col Iqbal refused the allegation of BGB men being involved in smuggling. He said they always remain active and conduct drives whenever they found information.

THE ARREST

According to police, six people, including four Indian nationals, were arrested on May 11 after they entered Bangladesh for a bike consignment.

The arrestees were identified as Amzad Hossain Shawon, 22, and Hasibul Hasan Anik, 19, of Bangladesh, and Sanjit Devnath, 23, Nirmolendu Chowdhury, 32, Sankar Sarkar, 31, and Bimol Das, 33, of India.

Police also recovered one pistol, two pipe guns, six magazines, two walkie-talkies with a charger, one reflective vest, three pairs of leg guards and one pair of hand gloves from them.

Abdul Karim, the then assistant superintendent of police (ASP) of Kasba circle, said the gang used walkie-talkies as mobile network didn't always work properly at the border.

ASP Karim, who got transferred to Khulna on October 27, in a statement had said Shawon was a professional smuggler accused in two cases including one for murder. The Indian nationals were also professional smugglers.

But, claimed a local source close to law enforcers, police submitted the charge sheet in a hurry on July 26, without explaining these details to save other syndicate members in Bangladesh.

ASP Karim refuted the claim. He told The Daily Star on October 10 that police did not find any other people's involvement, so they submitted the charge sheet against only the six. "We needed to submit the charge sheet within 60 working days as required by the law."

Sources said police arrested the six following a lead they got while investigating a murder that took place on Kasba border on February 26.

Mazharul Islam Tanim, 30, was killed because of internal feud of a smuggling racket, said Sub-Inspector Md Faruk, the investigation officer of the case.

"We have found involvement of nine people behind the killing and three are already in custody," he said.

Biman's 787 'Achin Pakhi' arrives

UNB, Dhaka

Biman's brand new Boeing 787-9 Dreamliner "Achin Pakhi" arrived in Dhaka from Seattle, USA, last night.

The aircraft, which left Boeing Everett Delivery Centre at 2:30pm (local time), landed at Hazrat Shahjalal International Airport around 8:19pm, said Tasnim Akhtar, public relations manager of Biman.

The Dreamliner was named by Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina.

Biman's first and second Dreamliners -- "Akash Beena" and "Hangsabalaka" -- arrived in August and December last year. The third one -- "Gaangchil" arrived in July, "Rajhansa" in September and "Sonar Tori" in December this year.

Hong Kong marks Christmas Eve with clashes and tear gas

AFP, Hong Kong

Hong Kong marked Christmas Eve with tear gas and mall clashes yesterday night as battles between democracy activists and riot police swept through a major shopping district.

The evening's unrest was the most sustained in what has otherwise been a few weeks of comparative calm for a city upended by more than six months of violent protests.

Thousands of black-clad protesters -- some wearing Santa hats and reindeer antlers -- took to the streets of Tsim Sha Tsui, a usually bustling tourist district.

Clashes soon erupted with riot police firing multiple rounds of tear gas to disperse protesters throughout the evening, including outside the famous Peninsula Hotel.

Police said a "large group of rioters" had built barricades, damaged traffic lights and dug up bricks on the area's major thoroughfares.

Meanwhile, flashmob rallies were held in multiple malls across the financial hub, with protesters chanting anti-government slogans.

In Harbour City, a luxury mall, police used pepper spray and batons when a group of plainclothes officers were discovered and surrounded, an AFP reporter on the scene said.

The plainclothes officers made multiple arrests as the crowds threw objects and heckled them.

Riot police quickly arrived at the scene, one aiming a shotgun at protesters as shops quickly shuttered.

Flashmob rallies formed in at least four other locations on Tuesday night with riot police trying to disperse crowds shouting chants and heckling officers.

Footage posted on social media from a mall in Yuen Long district showed a man barging into a police officer and leaping one storey below in a bid to avoid arrest.

In a statement, police said officers were responding to reports protesters were vandalising shops in the mall and that the man who fell was taken to hospital in a conscious state and arrested for assault.

posted by Cumilla. The two Rajshahi openers, Afif and Liton Das, raced to 60 before the latter was dismissed for a 19-ball 27 off a Mujeeb Ur Rahman delivery in the seventh over. Afif was dismissed in the 16th over but his incredible knock, featuring eight fours and two maximums, made the chase look easy for Rajshahi. Ravi Bopara smashed an unbeaten 23-ball 41 to help Rajshahi reach victory with 13 balls to spare.

Earlier, Cumilla batsman Malan became the second centurion of the tournament when he smashed an unbeaten 54-ball 100 to help his side post a challenging total.

Malan, who opened the innings for Cumilla, carried his bat through the innings as he smashed nine fours and five sixes to get to the three-figure mark. However, Soumya Sarkar's 22-ball 20 was the next best score by a Cumilla player as only two other batsmen were able to cross the double-figure mark. Rajshahi pacer Mohammad Irfan, who was on a hat-trick in the 19th over, returned impressive figures of two for 23.

Coveted promotions

He pointed out that the post of senior secretary was created only to make bureaucrats happy and increase their financial benefits.

Former cabinet secretary Ali Imam Majumder too said he didn't find any rationale behind the promotion.

"A promoted official should be given a considerable time to hold his or her new post to serve the people," he said.

Referring to the promotion order which said it was issued in public interest, he asked, "How will they serve the people when they are to retire immediately after getting promotion?"

According to the last pay scale announced in 2015, the basic salary for the highest grade is Tk 78,000 (fixed).

A senior secretary gets Tk 82,000 (fixed). The cabinet secretary and the principal secretary or those in equivalent posts enjoy special grade and get Tk 86,000 (fixed).

The retirement age of government officials is 59. But those who fought in the Liberation War retire at 60. The Awami League government raised the retirement age limit to 59 years from 57 in 2011.

The post of senior secretary, created in 2012, is one notch higher than that of secretary and one notch below that of the cabinet secretary.

However, the post of senior secretary does not exist in bureaucracy in neighbouring countries like India, Pakistan and Sri Lanka.

In the existing structure of bureaucracy in Bangladesh, the cabinet secretary sits at the top.

According to the warrant of precedence, the cabinet secretary is ranked 12th and holds the same position as the principal secretary, and chiefs of the army, the air and the navy.

But there is no mention of the post of senior secretary in it.

A case over the matter is still pending with the Supreme Court.

It's BCL men in garb of Moncho apparently has no political affiliation.

The Moncho's Vice-president Mohammad Shamim is an activist of Chattogram University BCL.

Besides, the platform's Office Secretary Mehedi Hasan Shanto is a member of Bijoy Ekattor Hall BCL. Members Al Riad, Imran Sarkar, Touhidul Islam Mahim and Mahbub Hasan Niloy are activists of different BCL hall units at Dhaka University.

At least 20 top leaders of the Moncho's different units have affiliation with Chhatra League's politics, said sources.

In this October, the Moncho was split into two factions following an internal feud. One of the factions is led by Bulbul and Mamun.

The other faction, led by convenor Prof Jamal, on October 21 declared a seven-member committee, which also has current and former BCL leaders.

This faction's president, Mizanur Rahman Pikul, is the deputy environment affairs secretary while Vice-president Shariful Hasan Shuvo is the president of the Law Faculty BCL at the university.

CONFLICTS WITHIN MONCHO

After the Prof Jamal-led convening body announced the central committee of the Moncho in October last year, Mehedi Hasan, son of a freedom fighter, brought allegation of financial irregularities against the teacher and claimed to be the convenor himself.

Prof Jamal refuted the allegation. After the platform was split in two this October, one faction announced a separate committee for the Dhaka University. Bulbul and Mamun became the president and general secretary of the faction's DU unit.

On October 10, Prof Jamal expelled Bulbul and Mamun from the organisation due to their anti-organisational activities. On the same day, the two issued a press release declaring that they were still holding the posts of the central committees.

Four days later, the two came up with a new statement saying they expelled Prof Jamal from the Moncho.

On October 20, the faction, led by Bulbul and Mamun, swooped on some Jatiyatabadi Chhatra Dal activists at Madhur Canteen on the DU campus, leaving five JCD activists injured.

The other Moncho's faction, led by its convenor Jamal, padlocked Ducusu VP Nur's office at the Ducusu building on December 4, demanding the VP's resignation. They made the move after an unverified audio clip allegedly involving Nur went viral.

On December 17, at least 15 people were injured as the Bulbul-Mamun led faction carried out an attack on Nur and his supporters while they were staging protest on the DU campus against India's NRC and Citizenship Amendment Bill. Nur and his men carried out a counterattack, leading to a clash.

Five days later, the same faction, mostly including BCL men, swooped on the Ducusu VP and his followers again. This time, the Moncho activists attacked Nur and his supporters at his office at the Ducusu building. This left 17, including Nur, injured. Some of them were being treated at Dhaka Medical College Hospital.

On Monday, law enforcers arrested three Moncho leaders, including Mamun and Mehedi Hasan Shanto, for their alleged involvement in the attack.

Russia extends detention of US man in spy case

AFP, Moscow

A Russian court yesterday extended until late March the pre-trial detention of a US man already held in jail for a year despite Western requests for his release.

Paul Whelan, who also has Irish, Canadian and British citizenship, was arrested on December 28 last year for allegedly receiving state secrets.

On Christmas eve the Moscow City Court extended his detention by another three months, to March 29, a court spokesman told AFP.

He risks up to 20 years in prison if convicted.

Whelan, 49, has denounced the case against him and said he is being held "hostage" for a possible prisoner exchange.

On Monday, US charge d'affaires Bart Gorman and diplomats from Canada, Ireland, and Britain visited Whelan in Moscow's high-security Lefortovo prison, bringing him food and Christmas greetings from family and supporters.

"It's two days before Christmas. A holiday Paul Whelan will spend alone in Lefortovo," the US embassy quoted Gorman as saying.

"In the past 12 months, Paul has not heard his parents' voices. Bring Paul some Christmas cheer and let him call home."

Whelan, a former US marine, maintains he has been framed and that he took a USB drive from an acquaintance thinking it contained holiday photos.

His lawyer Vladimir Zherebenkov has said the acquaintance that handed over the drive is the only witness against Whelan while the rest of his longtime acquaintances in Russia gave witness statements in his defence.

During a previous court hearing in October, Whelan insisted that he was not a spy.

"Russia thought they caught James Bond on a spy mission, in reality they abducted Mr Bean on holiday," he has said.

Whelan and his supporters claim that the American has been mistreated in jail.
