Rights group urges govt to find 'missing' journalist

STAR ONLINE REPORT

Unidentified men approached journalist Shafiqul Islam Kajol's motorbike and appeared to tamper with it, the day he was last seen before what is feared to be an enforced disappearance, Amnesty International said yesterday.

"The suspicious activities of unidentified men captured in the footage are compelling evidence that shows that he was being followed only a day after the police opened an investigation against him. Since then, he has not been seen and his fate and whereabouts remain unknown," said Saad Hammadi, South Asia Campaigner at Amnesty International, in a statement.

In a CCTV footage released by the human rights watchdog, Kajol, editor of Dainik Pokkhokol, arrived on his motorbike at the newspaper's office at Meher Tower in the capital's Hatirpool at

Waterways feel the rush

Nearly 1 lakh people leaving Dhaka daily to southern districts amid Covid-19 panic

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Barishal

Amid growing concerns over the spread of coronavirus, thousands have started returning to their homes in Barishal region via waterways.

Passengers said they were leaving Dhaka, as the city has become "unsafe". Besides, the authorities were limiting activities at workplaces, they said.

Barishal Deputy Commissioner SM Ajior Rahman said any restriction is yet to be imposed on waterways vessels as well as road transport, but there is an advisory not to carry overseas returnees and those who are ill.

During a visit to Barisal River Port yesterday morning, six launches were found coming from Dhaka. Their authorities said some 12,000-15,000 passengers were aboard the vessels. None of the launches -- except MV Manami that plies on Dhaka-Barishal route -- examined passengers before boarding. Manami supervisor Sahadat Hossain said they were allowing passengers to board only after going through a thermal scanner.

"If anything is found unusual, we discourage them to travel," he said.

SM Zakir Hossain, supervisor of MV Sundarban, said they are trying to make passengers aware of the situation.

Ajmol Huda Mithu, joint director of BIWTA, said more than one lakh people have been leaving Dhaka every day for the country's southern region via 38 routes for the last one week. The turnout was almost twice of the usual number, said the official.

Monir Hossain, a fruit trader from Dhaka's Shyambazar, said he went home with four family members, as his children's educational institution was closed.

Dr Basudeb Das, divisional director of DGHS in Barishal, said they called upon people to avoid mass gatherings and crowds.

TACKLING CORONAVIRUS IN SYLHET

Preparations fall short

DWOHA CHOWDHURY, Sylhet

A hospital that has been struggling with lack of equipment and staff members for a decade has been declared "Corona Isolation Centre" in Sylhet, without any upgrades.

While visiting the healthcare centre in the city's Chowhatta area recently, this correspondent found the duty doctor, nurses and a staff member were failing to deal with an Italy returnee and his wife -- who came to the hospital following authorities' order to quarantine themselves there.

The medical staff did not have enough hand gloves or masks, let alone any personal protective equipment (PPE) . As a result, they were visibly apprehensive to examine the suspected coronavirus-affected persons.

This is the situation at Shaheed Shamsuddin Ahmed Hospital, which is supposed to be the best bet to tackle the spread of the deadly virus and provide healthcare services to people in the division.

The 100-bed hospital has prepared some cabins and five beds in a ward as an isolation unit.

However, there is no central oxygen supply at the hospital, intensive care unit (ICU) and critical care unit (CCU), advanced medical equipment or any non-contact infrared thermometer.

Sushanto Kumar Mahapatro, resident medical officer at the hospital, said, "We received some PPEs recently, but we weren't satisfied with the quality and asked the authorities to replace those soon."

Meanwhile, to provide healthcare services to Covid-19 affected people, isolation centres have been set up at two hospitals in Sylhet, plus one in Moulvibazar, two in Sunamganj and one in Habiganj.

Even though Shaheed Shamsuddin Ahmed Hospital has been declared a "Corona Isolation Centre" in Sylhet, facilities there remain far too inadequate. This photo was taken recently.
