Rab arrested a Rohingya couple, and seized 5,300 yaba pills and Tk 1.17 crore cash, on Sunday night at a flat in Chandgaon residential area of Chattogram city.

The arrestees are Shawkat Islam, 32, and his wife Morjina, 28.

A Rab-7 team also recovered four fake Bangladeshi national identity (NID) cards, a fake National Birth Registration certificate and six Bangladeshi Mobile SIM cards from the couple.

Rab officials said the couple used the fake NID cards to rent the flat.

Flight Lt Ali Ashraf Tushar, company commander of Rab-7, Chandgaon camp, told The Daily Star that "the couple used to sell yaba pills, smuggled from Cox's Bazar, at their rented flat.

28, a resident of a nearby village, appeared there and raped the girl with the help of Rashida, said the police, quoting the statement of a case filed over the incident. After returning home, the girl told her family members about the incident and her father filed the case against Rubel and Rashida later that night with Amtali Police Station.

The two were arrested hours later and produced before a district court, which sent them to jail yesterday, said Md Shah Alam Hawladar, officer-incharge (OC) of the police station.

In Mymensingh, a court yesterday sent a manto jail on charge of raping a woman in Nandail upazila.

The accused is Muqbul Hossain, 60, a resident of Duttapur village in the upazila. The 35-year-old victim from Bagerhat works at a garment factory in Dhaka.

Police said the woman, a mother of two, has been separated from her husband for around three years. She heard that Muqbul had "spiritual powers" to reunite such couples so she went to his house in Mymensingh on Thursday, seeking help to get her husband back, said police.

Later, the accused allegedly raped

On Sunday evening, the victim fled from the house and filed a case with Nandail police station against the man. Police later arrested him and produced him before the court, which sent him to jail yesterday, said Md Mizanur Rahman, OC of the police station.

Suu Kyi's party claims

Sunday's election was seen as referendum on the fledgling democratic government led by Suu Kyi and the NLD, which remains hugely popular at home but has seen its reputation collapse overseas amid allegations of genocide against the Rohingya minority. Despite the expected emphatic win, the new Suu Kyi-led government is expected to face a myriad of challenges. In contrast to the wave of optimism that greeted the NLD's landslide win in 2015, Myanmar went into this election under a cloud of a surging Covid-19 outbreak, economic hardship and escalating ethnic conflicts.

Foreign Minister Dr AK Abdul Momen yesterday said Bangladesh would welcome the new government in Myanmar and expressed optimism over the resumption of talks on Rohingya repatriation using tripartite mechanism.

Bangladesh, Myanmar and China are planning to hold foreign ministerlevel talks, likely in Beijing, to begin the process without any delay. Despite repeated pledges from Myanmar, not a single Rohingya returned to Rakhine over the last three years.

According to UNB, Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Yi has recently assured Dhaka on Rohingya repatriation, saying Myanmar has pledged to take them back.

comment came Bangladesh warned that prolonged stay of Rohingyas in Bangladesh would "jeopardise regional and international security".

Repatriation attempts failed twice in November 2018 and August 2019 amid Rohingyas' "lack of trust" in the Myanmar government. Bangladesh and Myanmar signed the repatriation deal on November 23, 2017.

The United Nations has said there was genocidal intent in a 2017 army crackdown that forced 730,000 Rohingya to flee to Bangladesh. Myanmar rejects that saying its security forces were carrying out legitimate operations against Rohingya militants.

The NLD came to power after a 2015 landslide in which it won a total of 390 seats, a benchmark Myo Nyunt said it expected to exceed, according to data compiled from reports by party agents at polling stations across

A spokesman for the second biggest party, the military-backed Union Solidarity and Development Party (USDP) could not immediately be reached for comment.

The military, which ruled Myanmar for nearly 50 years until it began withdrawing from civilian politics in 2011, controls a quarter of seats in both houses of parliament, under a constitution it drew up and which Suu Kyi and her allies want to amend.

Despite a high turnout, more than a million people across the country were unable to vote after polls were cancelled due to insurgencies, including hundreds of thousands of Rohingvas. The election commission has said the polls in areas affected by conflict had to be cancelled for safety reasons and that only citizens were entitled to vote.

He said they also want the Commission Rakhine Advisory recommendations to be implemented, including recognising the Rohingyas as citizens of Myanmar and allowing them freedom of movement, as well as making sure they can access essential services, like schooling and jobs.

The government of Bangladesh has planned to relocate 100,000 Rohingyas to Bhasan Char, to ease the burden on Cox's Bazar camps and avoid the risk of deaths due to landslides during the rainy season.

Several Bangladeshi media outlets have recently visited Bhasan Char and found the facilities there far better than that of Cox's Bazar camps.

Asked about the relocation plan, Minister Ahmad said the UK is absolutely clear that the relocation of Rohingya refugees to Bhasan Char must be "safe, voluntary and dignified".
