NBR goes all out to promote electronic fiscal devices

FROM PAGE B4
The announcement came a month after the revenue administration introduced 101 prizes, including Tk 100,000 as first prize and Tk 50,000 as the second, to encourage shoppers to demand receipts for their purchases. Purchase receipts issued from EFDs are a kind of VAT chalan, meaning the VAT paid by customers goes to the state coffers.

The NBR took the step to increase VAT collection from retail and plug the scope for dishonest business to evade indirect tax. The tax authority started installing the devices from August last year and so far installed 1,078 EFDs, mainly in Dhaka and Chattogram. The NBR wants to install 4,000 EFDs across the country and 10,000 by June.

VAT is the biggest source of revenue for the state and revenue officials and analysts on several occasions said the government does not get the actual amount of VAT paid by consumers owing to unscrupulous business practices. The EFDs are provided for free to 25 types of businesses, including shops, hotels, restaurants, sweet stores, clothing, furniture, electronics outlets and jewellers.
