CMP chief tells Ctg city residents

STAFF CORRESPONDENT, Ctg

Warning that outsiders present in polling centres and the city will be dealt with strictly, Chattogram Metropolitan Police (CMP) Commissioner Saleh Mohammed Tanvir yesterday requested city dwellers to carry their National Identity Card (NID) on Chattogram City Corporation (CCC) election day.

"I've requested the city's people to carry their NID on voting day. It helps police understand that you are voters of a certain area, and we have taken the decision to thwart movements of outsiders," said the commissioner, during briefing on last minute preparations at CMP headquarters.

"It's one of the ways...we want to prevent outsiders from entering the city. If you go to your workplace, carry the NID. We're giving a clear message to outsiders: there is no room to create any untoward situation centring the election," he said.

Asked about growing violence among Awami League rebel candidates, he said, "Let's hope for the best and prepare for the worst...We have done enough coordination meetings with bodies concerned. We have taken preparations after analysing risks."

32pc ready to take vaccine immediately

Finds survey; 52pc say they'll wait

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Some 32 percent of respondents of a nationwide survey have said they will take Covid-19 vaccines at the very beginning of the countrywide inoculation, set to start in February.

A majority of the people -- around 52 percent -- however, want to take the vaccine a few weeks or months after the vaccination begins.

On the other hand, some 16 percent people said they will not take the vaccine at all, revealed the survey conducted on 3,560 people from 16 upazilas of eight divisions and two city corporations of Dhaka city.

Of those (16 percent) who do not want to take vaccines, 54 percent expressed their doubt about the efficacy of the vaccine while 34 were wary of side effects. The rest were doubtful about the quality of the imported vaccines, the study said.

The Institute of Health Economics (IHE) at Dhaka University and Bangladesh Como Modeling Team jointly conducted the study between January 10 and 25.

As there are misconception about efficacy of the vaccine, its standard and side-effects, researchers recommended that the government address this issue using different media of communication.

"Along with raising awareness, we also recommended to give the vaccine jab to 'iconic' people at first. This will build trust among people," Prof Abdul Hamid, chief of the study said during the online dissemination yesterday.

The study concluded that some 84 percent people were found interested in taking the vaccine for free. Meanwhile, 66 percent said they will take it even if they need to pay for it.

Eagerness to take vaccine was more evident among rural people than in urban areas, the study revealed.

Opposition Jatiya Party yesterday lawmakers criticised the government over corruption in the financial sector.

While taking part in the discussion on thanksgiving motion on the president's speech, they demanded exemplary punishment of PK Halder after bringing him back to the country.

Pir Fazlur Rahman said female friends of PK Halder are living a good life while people who have deposited their money to financial organisations are living "in hell".

"Arresting PK Halder alone will not be enough. People who were helping PK Halder, who were higher ups, should get punishment," he said.

Halder is facing a graft case for illegally amassing wealth, and has allegedly laundered over Tk 10,200 crore from four non-banking financial institutions to abroad.

Using 30 organisations owned by himself and his associates, Halder misappropriated massive amount in loans from the NBFIs and laundered the money to Canada, Singapore and India, according to ACC sources.

"We should also look into which government officials are laundering money abroad," Fazlur added.

Rowshan Ara Mannan, another Jatiya Party MP, said PK Halder should be brought back into country using Interpol, and given exemplary punishment.

"If PK Halder is not punished, this will remain as an example and many will follow his path and will launder money abroad, and take refuge in a foreign country," she said. "This has to be stopped".

KHALID BIN NAZRUL, Cumilla

The government is yet to take any action against the registrar -- who recorded the marriage of deceased Lakingme Chakma, a 14-year-old girl -- based on a fake birth certificate and others involved.

Meanwhile, Bangladesh Nari Pragati Sangha sent a letter to the Cumilla district registrar on January 20, requesting him to cancel marriage registrar (Kazi) Nurul Islam's license.

The letter signed by Shahanaz Sumi, deputy director of the organisation, also asked Md Anwarul Haque Chawdhury to take legal action in this regard after a proper investigation.

Asked, the district registrar said, "I have received the letter. We will start a probe from February 8."

After investigation, he said, they will send the findings and recommendations to the ministry concerned to take appropriate action.

Sixth grader Lakingme was allegedly abducted from her home in Shilkhali Chakma para of Teknaf on January 5 last year. According to her birth certificate, she was 14 years and 10 months old on that day.

Her father Lala Aung Chakma said they went to Teknaf Police Station to file a case, but then OC Pradeep Kumar Das, accused in killing Maj (retd) Sinha, refused to record it.

"I filed a case with Cox's Bazar Women and Children Repression Prevention Tribunal on January 17 last year," he said.

And after 11 months and six days, Lakingme's body was found in a Cox's Bazar hospital morgue.

After her abduction, she was kept at nearby villages until January 8. On January 9, she was taken to Shahpori Island in Teknaf, where she was detained for the next two days, found a 10-member investigation team of rights activists,

STAFF CORRESPONDENT, Ctg

Bangladesh Environment Lawyers Association (Bela) and Youth Environment Society (YES) yesterday served a legal notice upon six government bodies including the land and environment ministries and Roads and Highways Department (RHD) over filling up Kohelia river in Cox's Bazar.

The notice was served after The Daily Star ran a report on January 25 on the sorry state of the once vibrant river in Moheshkhali upazila due to an under-construction road.

Secretaries of three ministries -- water resources, environment and land, chairman of National River Conservation Commission, chief engineer of RHD, director general of DoE, deputy commissioner and police superintendent of Cox's Bazar were asked to stop the ongoing encroachment of the river.

They were also asked to take steps to restore the waterbody to its previous condition and inform the measures to Bela and YES within seven days, the notice read.

Otherwise, legal action would be taken for their failure in saving the river, it warned.

Meanwhile, the Department of Environment issued a notice to RHD for hiding information on river encroachment in EIA (environmental impact assessment) to get approval from the regulatory body.

RAJSHAHI MEDICAL COLLEGE HOSPITAL

Nurse accuses doctor of sexual harassment

STAFF CORRESPONDENT, Rajshahi

Rajshahi Medical College and Hospital (RMCH) unit of Bangladesh Nurses Association yesterday formed a human chain inside the college campus, demanding exemplary punishment of a doctor who has been accused of sexually harassing a nurse.

RMCH, on the other hand, has asked the senior staff nurse to "not take the incident outside campus". The nurses claim this is a bid to save the accused doctor from legal action.

The accused, Dr Mamunur Rashid is an authorised physician who studied at a private medical college. He has been undergoing training on anaesthesia at the hospital, RMCH Director Brig Gen Shamim Yazdani said.

The RMCH Director claimed they were not belittling the incident. He said, they withdrew the doctor from his duties and formed a five-member committee headed by Rajshahi Medical College Vice-Principal Habibullah Sarker to investigate into the matter.

"We are seriously dealing with the matter. The incident that occurred was a very small one which is not fit to be taken to the police or court," he said.

"We did not tell her not to take any legal action, but we did tell her to lay low on the issue and see what we can do about the incident," he said.

He said the hospital's staff are like a family and they can settle incidents like sexual harassment within the hospital.

This correspondent obtained a copy of the complaint that the nurse sent to the Director General of Nursing and Midwifery yesterday.
