Controversial posts stay

in delivering speeches as "special speakers" at training programmes ahead of the national polls in 2018 and the fifth upazila elections.

They sent the first letter to the president in December last year and the second one in January this year.

Besides, the Office of the Comptroller and Auditor General has raised audit objections, saying government allowances were given against positions, including "special speakers" and "course advisers", though the finance ministry did not approve such positions for the training programmes.

Newly appointed EC Secretary Humayun Kabir said he will be able to comment on the draft guideline only after learning about it in Md Alamgir, the immediate past senior secretary of the EC, said EC officials have prepared a draft guideline which was placed before the commission.

He further said the commission has asked the officials concerned to review the draft guideline, which is yet to be finalised. THE GUIDELINE

The Daily Star has obtained a copy of the draft guideline prepared by a four-member committee for imparting planning and management training under the Electoral Training Institute and Budget Standardization

The CEC and election commissioners will be "special speakers" in training programmes, while the EC secretary and additional secretary will attend those as "guest speaker" and "course adviser".

The DG of the ETI will carry out the responsibility of "course director" for "less important" training programmes, according

It has proposed raising the allowance for a 'special speaker" to Tk 7,500 from Tk 5,000 for a training session.

"A course adviser will get Tk 8,000 for the entire course having several sessions. He or she will get the money only once," said one of the committee members seeking anonymity. A "course adviser" now gets between Tk

2,500 and Tk 5,000 for each session. Allowance hike has been suggested for election commissioners and EC secretariat officials for attending a session lasting one and a half hours. At present, the duration of each session is one hour, the committee member mentioned. Once the guideline is finalised, it might be sent to the finance ministry for approval, added the member.

Asked, committee chief and EC Joint Secretary Abul Kasem refused to comment on the matter. ALLEGATIONS

Forty-two eminent citizens on December 14 last year urged the president to constitute Supreme Judicial Council to probe allegations of corruption and misconduct by the EC.

In its letter to the president, they said the current EC indulged in misconduct and irregularities, including Tk 2-crore "special speakers" for expenditure on delivering speeches in training programmes ahead of the 11th national election and the fifth upazila polls.

In reply, the CEC on December 24 said the allegations over the Tk 2-crore expenditure were made on false grounds.

The eminent citizens in their second letter on January 17 again raised allegations of irregularities in the EC's expenditure on training programmes. They cited a media report that some of the EC officials embezzled at least Tk 11 crore from the training budget.

The report also made mentions of allegations against 18 people, including the CEC, commissioners and top EC officials that they took at least Tk 3 crore of the Tk 11 crore.

No headway in nine years

Megh, only five at the time, was in the apartment when his parents were murdered.

Speaking to this newspaper over phone yesterday, Sagar's 69-yearold mother, Saleha Munir, said no matter how long it takes, she will keep seeking justice for her son and daughter-in-law.

"I would request the prime minister to ensure the completion of the Sagar-Runi murder case trial in Mujib Borsho. It will be a milestone."

In the last nine years, seven officers from different agencies have investigated the case.

After Sher-e-Bangla Nagar Police and the Detective Branch of Police, Rab was tasked with the probe on April 18, 2012.

In the past, police officials had claimed to have made significant progress in the investigation. However, investigation officers did nothing but file time petitions with the court for submitting the probe report.

In November 2019, even the High Court expressed disappointment as there was no significant progress in the probe. February investigation officer Additional Superintendent of Police Khandaker Shafiqul Alam failed to submit the report for the 77th time. Later, a Dhaka court directed Rab, the agency dealing with the case, to inform it about the progress for the 78th time. At least eight people, including suspects Rafiqul Islam, Bakul Miah, Masum Mintu, Kamrul Hasan alias Arun, Abu Sayeed, and two security guards of the couple's house Palash Rudra Paul and Enamul Hoque, and the couple's "friend" Tanveer Rahman had been arrested in connection with the murder. Later, Tanveer and Palash got out of jail on bail.

Speaking to reporters at Rab headquarters yesterday, Lt Col Ashique Billah, director (legal and media) of the elite force, said, it has been working hard to finish the probe, adding that 160 people gave statements in this case so far.

Rab also sent samples of 25 people for DNA test and other evidence to a forensic lab in the US. "We already got the report," the official said without disclosing further details.

Through DNA testing, a facial structure of a person can be drawn. The IO is working on that, he added.

Meanwhile, after six long years Sagar-Runi's residence, where they had been murdered, was opened again on Tuesday when Rab visited the scene of crime.

Runi's brother Nawsher Roman and the couple's son Megh also visited the place.

Roman said they don't usually use the road in front of the house as it's very uncomfortable for

"But Rab's investigating officer came to the house and informed me over the phone so that Megh and I don't miss the chance to see the house again."

After six years, I went to the house and looked around the rooms. I thought of some memories, I prayed... If emotions were a body part, we would have cut it off long ago."

On the other hand, Rab said it was hopeful to submit a report soon after the visit.

Senate votes to proceed with trial earlier urging them to "fight like hell" to overturn his November 3 election defeat.

Senators, serving as jurors, watched as screens showed Trump's followers throwing down barriers and hitting police officers at the Capitol. The video included the moment when police guarding the House of chamber fatally shot protester Ashli Babbitt, one of five people including a police officer who died in the rampage.

The mob attacked police, sent lawmakers scrambling for safety and interrupted the formal congressional certification of President Joe Biden's victory after Trump had spent two months challenging the election results based on false claims of widespread voting fraud.

"If that's not an impeachment offense, then there is no such thing," Democratic Representative Jamie Raskin, who led a team of nine House members prosecuting the case, told the assembled senators after showing the video.

He wept as he recounted how relatives he brought to the Capitol that day to witness the election certification had to shelter in an office near the House floor, saying: "They thought they were going to

In contrast to the Democrats' emotional presentation, Trump's lawvers attacked the process, arguing that the proceeding was an unconstitutional, partisan effort to close off Trump's political future even after he had already departed the White House.

"What they really want to accomplish here in the name of the Constitution is to bar Donald Trump from ever running for political office again, but this is an affront to the Constitution no matter who they target today," David Schoen, one of Trump's lawyers, told senators.

He denounced the "insatiable lust for impeachment" among Democrats before airing his own video, which stitched together clips of various Democratic lawmakers calling for Trump's impeachment going back to 2017.

'COMPELLING, COGENT'

Trump, who was impeached by the repudiating his decision. Democratic-led House on January 13, is only the third president in US history to be impeached, and the only one to be impeached

His defense argued he was exercising his right to free speech under the Constitution's First Amendment when he addressed supporters before the Capitol attack.

Bruce Castor, one of Trump's lawyers, said the storming of the Capitol by hundreds of people "should be denounced in the most vigorous terms," but argued that "a small group of criminals," not Trump, were responsible for the Most legal experts have said it is constitutional to have an impeachment trial after an official has left office.

"Presidents can't inflame insurrection in their final weeks and then walk away like nothing happened. And yet that is the rule that President Trump asks you to adopt," Democratic Representative Joe Neguse told the senators.

Most of the senators at the trial were present in the Capitol on January 6, when many lawmakers said they feared for their own safety.

Several Republican senators said they found Trump's defense, particularly Castor's argument, disjointed and unclear.

"The House managers made a compelling, cogent case. And the president's team did not," said Republican Senator Bill Cassidy, who voted to advance the trial. Cassidy had voted to block the trial on constitutional grounds last month, a Republican effort that failed 55-45. He was the only Republican to switch sides on Tuesday, a move that prompted the Republican Party in his home state, Louisiana, to issue a statement

Watching the proceedings on TV at his Florida resort, Trump was unhappy with Castor's performance, said a person familiar with the situation.

After the Senate adjourned for the day, Castor told reporters: "I thought we had a good day," and said he did not anticipate making any adjustments to his planned defense in response to the

The trial could provide clues on the Republican Party's direction following Trump's tumultuous four-vear presidency. Sharp divisions have emerged between Trump loyalists and those hoping to move the party in a new direction. Democrats for their part are concerned the trial could impede Biden's ability to swiftly advance an ambitious legislative agenda.

But few Republican senators appear willing to break with Senator Josh Hawley, who helped lead the opposition in the Senate to the presidential election results, predicted that Tuesday's vote would ultimately reflect the chamber's final decision.

"That's probably going to be the outcome, right there," Hawley told reporters.

One year ago, the then-Republican-controlled acquitted Trump on charges of obstructing Congress and abuse of power for pressuring Ukraine to launch an investigation into Biden and his son Hunter in 2019.

The charges against them included 'tarnishing the image of the nation".

On February 4, Sub-Inspector Md Mohsin Sardar of Ramna Police Station, also the investigation officer in the case, pressed charges against three of the accused, dropping the names of the eight others. The three are Kishore, Mushtaq and Didarul.

The Dhaka tribunal yesterday, however, ordered the Counter Terrorism and Transnational Crime (CTTC) unit to further investigate all the 11 accused.

Judge Ash Sams Joglul Hossain of the Dhaka Cyber Tribunal passed the order after the prosecutors submitted a petition seeking further probe in the

The tribunal also directed the CTTC to submit a probe report to it by March

In the petition, Public Prosecutor Nazrul Islam Shamim said if the documents, Facebook links, and WhatsApp, Viber and Messenger messages of the 11 accused were analysed, correct information about them, including their names, addresses and whereabouts, would be unearthed.

The public prosecutor claimed that the accused made objectionable posts on social media against the state, Father of the Nation Bangabandhu Sheikh Mujibur Rahman and several important people of the country.

The public prosecutor further claimed that the investigation officer failed to identify the real culprits and their involvement in the incident, even though there were specific allegations against them. So, further investigation into the case should be conducted, the PP added.

The IO said he dropped the names of eight accused as he did not find their correct names and addresses. If their full names and addresses are found, a supplementary charge sheet will be submitted, the IO added.

The others charged in the case nclude US-based journalist Shahed Alam; Germany-based blogger Asif Mohiuddin; Minhaj Mannan Emon, managing director of BLE securities and shareholder-director of Dhaka Stock Exchange; Ashik Imran; Shapan Wahed; and Philip Schuhmacher.

During yesterday's hearing, Kishore and Mushtaq were produced before the court while the rest were not present.

The picture becomes bleaker in the Mirpur Test as Bangladesh will be without premier all-rounder Shakib Al Hasan and left-handed opener Shadman Islam as both are sitting out due to injuries.

Shakib's thigh injury, sustained during the second day of the first Test, ruled him out of this Test while Shadman's hip injury, which occurred due to an awkward fall while fielding in Chattogram, saw him joining Shakib on the sidelines. The Bangladesh Cricket Board (BCB) had announced Soumya Sarkar as Shakib's replacement for the game but has not included anyone in the squad in place of Shadman. Mominul Haque's troops were subject to heavy criticism for their lack of energy and assertiveness on the final day of the Chattogram Test as they allowed the visitors to achieve a record 395-run target.

And it will be interesting to see if Mominul and Co -- now without the talismanic Shakib and regular Test opener Shadman -- can turn things around with a much-needed change in approach in Mirpur today.

failing, Dubai's ruler and UAE Vice President Sheikh Mohammed bin Rashid Al Maktoum had said. To enter Mars' orbit, the probe needed to burn around half its 800 kg (1,760 lbs) of onboard fuel to slow down enough not to overshoot, the most dangerous part of the journey.

"Today is the start of a new chapter in Arab history ... of trust in our capability to compete with other nations and people," Sheikh Mohammed tweeted after the probe entered orbit. "The UAE will celebrate its Golden Jubilee with science, culture and inspiration because we aim to build a model of development."

This year marks 50 years since independence from Britain and the founding of the UAE federation, which groups seven emirates, including Dubai. Mars probes launched by China and Nasa just after the UAE's lift-off in July are also set to reach the planet this month.

The Emirates Mars Mission, which has cost around $200 million, launched the Hope Probe from a Japanese space centre. It aims to provide a complete picture of the Martian atmosphere for the first time, studying daily and seasonal changes.

Minister of State for Advanced Technology and chair of the UAE Space Agency Sarah al-Amiri told Reuters it would take a few weeks to start collecting a mixture of data and images, which could be made publicly available as early as September.
