

The Liberation War: A reading list

SHAH TAZRIAN ASHRAFI

In 1971, the people of the then East Pakistan rose up against their military oppressors, firm on their goal to carve out a separate identity for themselves. A nine month-long war ensued, resulting in the long-awaited birth of Bangladesh, claiming the lives of around three million people. Ever since independence, artists and scholars have been culling stories from the arena of Bangladesh's Liberation War in an attempt to immortalise the nation's blood-tinged history.

Like films, books of fiction and nonfiction have contributed to preserving the memory of the war. Turning to these books will undoubtedly help today's youth make sense of the war and get a glimpse into Bangladesh's origin story.

The Cruel Birth of Bangladesh: Memoirs of an American Diplomat

Written by Archer K Blood, the former American consul to Bangladesh, this memoir sheds light on the time before, during, and after the war from the perspective of an American sympathetic to the cause of Bangladeshi self-determination. Blood reflects on his time spent in Dhaka, giving the readers a vivid snapshot of the capital city in the late 1960s and 1971. He briefly profiles the three leading figures who shaped the war: Yahya Khan, Bangabandhu Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, and Zulfikar Ali Bhutto. Blood unflinchingly condemns Washington's silence and support for West Pakistan after the war's eruption. This book is essential reading for those who want to grasp what role the Cold War played in the 1971 war.

The Blood Telegram: Nixon, Kissinger, and a Forgotten Genocide
The Blood Telegram is based heavily

Archer K Blood THE CRUEL BIRTH OF BANGLADESH

RIZIA RAHMAN

THE BLOOD TELEGRAM Gary 1 800

TAHMIMA ANAM

THE GOOD MUSLIM THE BLOOD TELEGRAM OF GOOD MUSLIM THE BLOOD TELEGRAM OF GOOD TELEGRAM OF

on the telegrams Archer Blood sent out from Dhaka to Washington during the war condemning Nixon and Kissinger's policies. In this book, Gary J Bass carefully unearths and examines how Nixon and Kissinger, in order to establish an economic entry into China, chose to condone West Pakistani genocidal tactics against the population of East Pakistan. Bass argues and highlights that the American silence was largely attributed to the fact that Pakistan shared friendly ties with China, and the US was keen on building economic relations with the East Asian country. Bass also explores how India's animosity with China and Pakistan,

CONTINUED ON PAGE 11

WHEN DREAMS

Dreams become reality when you have the will and resolve to bring them to life. Such is the case of the pursue their dreams of higher for 70 female garment workers who got the opportunity to pursue their dreams. Four of them education at Asian University for Women under program "Pathways for Promise". Four of them the education at Asian University for Women under program "Pathways for Promise". Four of them education at Asian University for Women under program "Pathways for Promise". Four of them education at Asian University for Women under program "Pathways for Promise". Four of them education at Asian University for Women under program "Pathways for Promise". Four of them education at Asian University for Women under program "Pathways for Promise". Four of them education at Asian University for Women under program "Pathways for Promise". Four of them education at Asian University for Women under program "Pathways for Promise". Four of them education at Asian University for Women under program "Pathways for Promise". Four of them education at Asian University for Women under program "Pathways for Promise". Four of them education at Asian University for Women under program "Pathways for Promise". Four of them education at Asian University for Women under program "Pathways for Promise". Four of them education at Asian University for Women under program "Pathways for Promise". Four of them education at Asian University for Women under program "Pathways for Promise". Four of them education at Asian University for Women under program "Pathways for Promise". Four of them education at Asian University for Women under program "Pathways for Promise". Four of them education at Asian University for Women under program "Pathways for Promise". Four of them education at Asian University for Women under program "Pathways for Promise". Four of them education at Asian University for Women under program "Pathways for Promise". Four of them education at Asian University for Women under program "Pathways for Promise

Scan to watch their story

www.bgmea.com.bd