STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Outgoing Supreme Court Justice Mirza Hussain Haider yesterday urged all to refrain from doing anything that might stigmatise the Supreme Court, which he termed the symbol of justice.

"I think the country's judicial system will be more matured and improved with coordinated efforts of all. Collective and coordinated efforts are prerequisite for ensuring justice. So everyone that's involved with judiciary, must work intensively in a coordinated manner. Unity among all from lower grade employees to senior officials of courts is essential to ensure justice," he said.

Find out who they are

HC asks ACC, govt on those who laundered, deposited money with foreign banks

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The High Court yesterday wanted to know the details, including names and addresses, of Bangladeshi nationals and organisations who have laundered and deposited money with foreign banks, including those in Switzerland, and what steps have been taken against them.

The court asked the authorities concerned of the government and Anti-Corruption Commission (ACC) to submit before it -- by March 30 -- the lists of names, addresses and status of the persons and organisations and to report on the steps taken against them.

In response to a writ petition, the HC issued a rule asking the authorities to explain in four weeks why their inaction to recover the money laundered from the country should not be declared illegal.

In the rule, the court also asked the authorities to show cause as to why they should not be ordered to constitute a special investigation team to find out Bangladeshi nationals' illegal money deposited with foreign banks.

At the same time, the HC ordered the government to explain why it should not be recommended to reform the relevant laws in order to recover the huge amount of money laundered from the country and deposited with the foreign banks.

The HC bench of Justice Md Nazrul Islam Talukder and Justice Mohi Uddin Shamim came up with the order and rule after hearing a petition filed, seeking necessary steps for bringing back the money laundered from the country.

Early diagnosis key to tackling it

MOUDDUD AHMED SUJAN

In 1961, five young friends went for physical check-ups to Dhaka Medical College Hospital on a sudden plan. Of them, four were found to have no issues. But the other friend, Mahub-uz-Zaman, was diagnosed with diabetes.

"This was a different time. Nobody wanted to admit that they have diabetes," Mahub, now 84, told this correspondent yesterday. "I chose not to hide it. From then on, I have passed 60 years following a healthy routine."

Not only did Mahub do that, but he went on to become the incumbent chairperson of the Patients Welfare Committee of Birdem hospital.

For all his efforts to raise awareness of the disease, the Diabetic Association of Bangladesh honoured him with a golden crest yesterday, at a discussion programme on the World Diabetes Day.

This goes along with doctors' words, who say diabetes does not need to be a burden if it is diagnosed timely.

According to International Diabetic Federation, there are more than 84 lakh diabetic patients in Bangladesh. It estimates the number to rise to 1.14 crore by 2030 and 1.5 crore by 2050. Around half of the diabetic patients in the country show no symptoms before clinical diagnosis.
