

Elevated metro line collapses in Mexico

At least 23 killed, dozens hurt

AFP, Mexico City

An elevated metro line collapsed in the Mexican capital on Monday, leaving at least 23 people dead and dozens injured as a train came plunging down, authorities said.

Carriages were seen hanging from the overpass in a tangle of twisted cables with the ends pointing towards the ground in a V-shape.

"Unfortunately there are 23 deceased," including minors, Mexico City Mayor Claudia Sheinbaum told reporters at the scene in the south of the capital.

Around 65 others received hospital treatment following the dramatic accident, one of the worst to strike the Mexico City metro since it was inaugurated in 1969.

Anxious relatives gathered at the site awaiting news of those believed to have been aboard the train.

Dozens of emergency workers were seen trying to rescue victims from the carriages.

The work had to be suspended because of fears the wreckage was too unstable, but it later resumed with the help of a crane.

A car was trapped under the rubble, but a person inside managed to get out alive, she said.

Sheinbaum promised a structural examination of the affected metro line, which will remain closed, and a full investigation into the causes of the accident.

"We will report the whole truth. Our support to all victims," Sheinbaum tweeted.

The Mexico City subway has 12 lines and carries millions of passengers each day.

Rescuers work at a site where an overpass for a metro partially collapsed with train cars on it at Olivos station in Mexico City, Mexico on Monday night. At least 23 people were killed and 65 were hospitalized when the railway overpass and train collapsed onto a busy road.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Netanyahu faces midnight deadline to form govt

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu faced a midnight deadline yesterday to form a government, a daunting task that would likely require convincing the Jewish far right to cooperate with an Islamic party. Netanyahu was given a 28-day window to forge a majority coalition following a March 23 general election, Israel's fourth inconclusive vote in less than two years. The prime minister's right-wing Likud party won the most seats in the vote, but he failed to secure a majority in the 120-seat parliament. A coalition will require coming to terms with his estranged former protégé Naftali Bennett, leader of the hawkish Yamina party. It will also require persuading the far-right Religious Zionism alliance to tacitly cooperate with the Islamic conservative Raam party.

Biden to allow up to 62,500 refugees into US after row

President Joe Biden announced Monday, after coming under fierce criticism, that he was raising the maximum number of refugees allowed into the United States this year to 62,500 -- up from the 15,000 cap imposed by his predecessor Donald Trump. The change follows backlash from allies over Biden's earlier decision to keep the Trump-era limits -- a politically costly moment of confusion that stood out in a White House notable for its iron discipline in its first three months. The program is only for refugees selected by US security and intelligence agencies from United Nations camps around the world.

Twitter bans Kangana Rana for hateful posts

Twitter Inc says it has banned leading Bollywood actress Kangana Ranaut, known for her ardent support of Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi, accusing her of violating its rules on hateful conduct and abusive behaviour. Following the election in by TMC over Modi's BJP, Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee's party was accused of violent attacks on its defeated opponents, which it denies. In her tweet, Ranaut called Banerjee an "unleashed monster" and urged Modi to "tame her." "We need super gundai (hooliganism in Hindi) to kill gundai... Modi ji (a honorific) please show your Virat roop (larger-than-life form) from the early 2000s," she posted, an apparent reference to 2002 Gujarat riots that took place when Modi was the state chief minister.

'People have shown the way'

Mamata says Bengal showed 'BJP can be defeated' as she dodges question on her possible PM bid in 2024

NDTV ONLINE

The Bengal election results have proved that the BJP can be defeated and people have shown the way, Mamata Banerjee said yesterday on her remarkable victory.

"They need political oxygen," she quipped in an exclusive interview to NDTV.

Defying most projections, Mamata Banerjee won 213 seats (total 292) in Bengal, limiting the BJP to double digits (77).

"The BJP can be defeated. At the end of the day it is a democracy and it is the people's choice that matters. People have shown the way. In a democracy you should not show audacity or ego. I will request the Election Commission to follow rajdharma and back not only the BJP but all parties," she told NDTV, bringing up her party's allegations about the poll body's bias and discrimination.

"The BJP is a communal party, they are trouble-mongers, they are creating fake videos, they are misusing their powers, they misuse agencies; they want to demolish federalism, bulldoze the federal character of the country."

People must come together to fight the BJP, she said.

"This kind of agency politics (using CBI, Enforcement Directorate) should come to an end and that will be the end of the Narendra Modi-Amit Shah era of politics. Even the old BJP members reject the Narendra Modi-Amit Shah style of politics. The country cannot face this kind of politics anymore. There are many better candidates than Modi and Amit Shah."

But the firebrand politician, set for her third term as Bengal Chief Minister, was cautious on the possibility of emerging as the opposition's candidate to take on Prime Minister Narendra Modi in 2024.

"Sometimes you cannot decide all the things right now. It is different during election time. There has to be a common minimum programme... Now is the time to fight the Covid battle. After the Covid battle is over, we will decide, we will set up an expert team also so that they can guide us. Automatically it will come up. Because the country cannot face this disaster. This BJP means disaster."

AFTERMATH OF US TROOPS PULLOUT

Thousands flee as clashes flare in Afghanistan

AFP, Kandahar

Thousands of Afghans were forced to flee their homes as fierce fighting erupted between government forces and the Taliban in a southern province after the US military began withdrawing its remaining troops from Afghanistan, officials said yesterday.

Afghan forces pushed back insurgent attacks on multiple checkpoints in the past 24 hours in the province of Helmand where the US military on Sunday handed over a base to government forces as part of its formal pullout that began on May 1.

About 1,000 families have fled their homes to escape the fighting that erupted on the outskirts of Lashkar Gah, the capital of Helmand, and some other parts of the province, said Sayed Mohammad Ramin, the region's director for refugees.

He said the families had taken refuge in Lashkar Gah and had come from areas where fighting was intense in the past two days.

The defence ministry said government forces had killed more than 100 Taliban fighters in Helmand in the past 24 hours when the insurgents attacked some checkpoints on the outskirts of Lashkar Gah. Another 22 al-Qaeda fighters from Pakistan were also killed in the fighting, the ministry said.

Officials said the Taliban fighters initially captured some checkpoints but they were retaken by government forces who pushed back the insurgents. Taliban claimed to have killed dozens of Afghan forces.

Mamata to take oath as CM today

BJP spokesman Sambit Patra, in New Delhi, said the situation in West Bengal had never been witnessed in India's electoral history and termed the situation "unbelievable".

The National Congress also condemned the post-polls violence saying such incidents were unacceptable and people of the state have not voted for lawlessness.

"The post-polls violence that has been unleashed by the TMC on the Congress workers is unacceptable. Even women and children are not spared. I'm sure the people of West Bengal did not vote for this lawlessness," said Congress West Bengal in-charge Jitin Prasada.

A BJP leader has appealed to the Supreme Court for a probe into the violence by the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI). In his appeal, he said BJP workers were attacked and killed and women have been raped.

Killings of at least 12 people in the post-poll violence -- a figure that may be higher than the number of those killed during the month-long election.

Governor Jagdeep Dhankar tweeted yesterday to say that the PM expressed "serious anguish and concern at alarmingly worrisome law and order situation".

In a tweet tagging Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee, he also said, "I share grave concerns given that violence, vandalism, arson, loot and killings continue unabated".

The BJP announced that it will hold a nationwide dharna protesting the violence today. Party president

JP Nadda will present at the programme in WB.

The TMC came to power for the third time in a row in West Bengal, pocketing 213 of the 292 Assembly seats that went to polls, while its main challenger, the BJP, bagged 77 seats.

On Monday, Mamata called on Governor Jagdeep Dhankar at Raj Bhavan and resigned as the chief minister, as is the practice, before she would be administered the oath of office and secrecy again.

Senior TMC leader Partha Chatterjee said the newly elected MLAs would be sworn in on Thursday.

The oath-taking ceremony will be a low-key affair due to an unprecedented surge in Covid-19 cases. Sources said it will be a brief ceremony spanning 55 minutes.

"Taking note of communication @AITCofficial electing @MamataOfficial as leader of 17th WB Legislative Assembly have invited her to take oath of office of Chief Minister on May 5 at 10.45 am at Raj Bhawan. In view of current Covid situation function will be with limited audience," he tweeted.

Indian cricket board President Sourav Ganguly along with opposition leaders like BJP's state chief Dilip Chosh, Left Front chairman Biman Bose, Congress leader Abdul Manna and former chief minister Buddhadeb Bhattacharjee have been invited to the swearing-in ceremony, local media reports said.

Abhishek Banerjee, Prashant Kishor, Firhad Hakim are expected to be among the TMC leaders to accompany Mamata for the occasion.

In her address to the people yesterday, Mamata Banerjee appealed for calm and blamed the BJP for the violence.

"Bengal is a peace-loving place," said the chief minister.

"During the elections, there has been some heat and dust... The BJP did a lot of torture, also the CAPE. But I appeal to all for calm. Don't indulge in violence. If there is a dispute, inform the police about it. The police must manage law and order," she added.

Mamata accused the BJP of trying to create trouble in areas where they have won.

"This is BJP's propaganda. Some sporadic incidents are there, but it happens in every state. I am not justifying violence. BJP is trying to create communal clash, because of their shameful defeat," she said, insisting that she had been telling her supporters to stay indoors and not celebrate at all.

Separately, in an interview with NDTV, Mamata said the West Bengal election results have proved that the BJP can be defeated and people have shown the way.

"The BJP is a communal party, they are trouble-mongers, they use fake videos, they misuse their powers, they misuse agencies; they want to demolish federalism, bulldoze the federal character of the country."

But the firebrand politician, however, was cautious on the possibility of emerging as the opposition's candidate to take on Prime Minister Narendra Modi in 2024.

"You cannot decide on these things now. There has to be discussion..." she said leaving the possibility open.

Rickshaw 'ambulance' offers free oxygen to Covid patients

AFP, Bhopal

When Indian auto-rickshaw driver Mohammad Javed Khan saw people carrying their coronavirus-stricken parents to hospitals on their backs as they were too poor to afford an ambulance, he knew he had to help.

Khan, a 34-year-old driver in the central Indian city of Bhopal, sold his wife's jewellery and converted his three-wheeled vehicle into a small ambulance, fitting it out with an oxygen cylinder, an oximeter to measure oxygen levels in the blood, and other medical supplies.

As India grapples with a harrowing Covid-19 crisis that has seen infections skyrocket and the healthcare system stretched to breaking point, individuals like Khan have stepped forward to try and help their local communities.

"A critically ill patient cannot be brought to the hospital without oxygen support. So, I thought, why not turn my three-wheeler into an ambulance. It's not as spacious as an ambulance, but it can surely save lives," Khan told AFP.

"I see young people struggling without oxygen. Even when they call ambulances, the ambulances are charging 5,000-10,000 rupees ($70-140). How will a poor person be able to afford it?"

A donor provided him with a cylinder and another with the oximeter. A doctor taught Khan how to use the cylinder and oximeter to safely supply the lifesaving gas to patients as he drove them to a hospital.

Khan briefly ran into trouble with the authorities when police charged him for operating his auto-rickshaw without an emergency permit during lockdown, India Today reported. But after an outcry on social media, police withdrew the charges and issued him with a special pass, it added.
