SEEKING A PILL TO CURE COVID

Drugmakers eye alternative to vaccines AFP, Coimbatore

Prevention is better than cure -but when it comes to Covid, what happens when people can't get the vaccine, don't want it, or they're immune suppressed and it fails to stop infection?

The hunt is on for a coronavirus treatment that can be taken as a pill soon after a confirmed positive, halting the disease in its tracks so that cases that might have been severe end up being nothing more than a bad cold.

Several companies are working on so-called oral antivirals, which would mimic what the drug Tamiflu does for

An easily storable and transportable pill would also offer practical advantages over existing treatments such as monoclonal antibodies, which are mainly injected by drips at hospital infusion centers.

One of the frontrunners in these efforts is a twice-a-day drug developed by Merck in partnership with Ridgeback Biotherapeutics.

Early results from a Phase 2 trial showed that, among dozens of volunteers who tested positive at the as an intravenous drug and targeted start, none of those who received the at hospitalized Covid patients, among drug had any detectable virus by day whom it was shown to modestly five; while a quarter of those who received a placebo did.

The numbers are promising but too small to draw firm conclusions from, and the company is now enrolling for a Phase 3 trial involving 1,850 people with results expected by fall.

Molnupiravir belongs to a class of antiviral called "polymerase inhibitors," which work by targeting an enzyme that viruses need to copy their genetic material, and introducing mutations that leave them unable to replicate.

Because antibodies target a surface protein of the coronavirus that is continually evolving, antivirals are expected to be more variant-proof.

antiviral approved by the FDA to treat Covid, which is Remdesivir by Gilead Sciences. Remdesivir's biggest disadvantage is that it was developed reduce recovery time.

But by the time Covid has progressed to severe, much of the harm to patients' health comes from their own immune systems going into overdrive and damaging their organs, rather than viral replication. That's why the focus now is on oral formulations that can be taken within days of infection.

Roche and Atea have begun a 1,400 patient trial to study their own oral polymerase inhibitor, AT-527. Pfizer, which has developed one of pandemic's foremost vaccines, is also attracting significant attention for its oral drug PF-07321332, which has begun Phase 1 human trials in healthy patients.

Thousands of people were homeless Thursday after a cyclone battered Covid-ravaged India, killing 4 people.

Cyclones are a regular menace in the northern Indian Ocean but many scientists say they are becoming more frequent and severe as climate change warms sea

Barely a week after Cyclone Tauktae claimed at least 155 lives in western India, Cyclone Yaas forced the evacuation of more than 1.5 million people in the eastern states of West Bengal and Odisha.

The storm hit on Wednesday with torrential rain and howling winds gusting up to 155 kilometres (96 miles) an hour, equivalent to a category two hurricane.

Waves the size of double-decker buses pounded the shore and swamped towns and villages along the coastline, exacerbated by a higher-than-normal tide because of a full moon.Two people died in West Bengal, two in Odisha, officials said.

West Bengal chief minister Mamata Banerjee said more than 300,000 homes were destroyed.

"The water level in the sea and rivers started to swell to over three to four metres (nine to 12 feet) above the normal level and breached embankments in 135 places,"

"Thousands of people are still marooned. We have set up 14,000 cyclone centres to provide shelter to the homeless," she said.

Low-lying areas of state capital Kolkata were also flooded after the Hooghly river rose.

Yaas has since moved inland towards the state of Jharkhand, easing to a deep depression but bringing heavy rains.

Spare us Corona Devi!

Hindu priests at an Indian temple are saying daily prayers to two coronavirus goddesses in an effort to tame the pandemic as the country battles a new infection surge.

Two "Corona Devi" idols have been set up in the southern city of Coimbatore, badly hit in an outbreak that has killed 100,000 people nationwide in the past four weeks.

The Kamatchipuri Adhinam temple is closed to worshippers because of the city's high infection rates but priests are paying tribute in front of the goddesses, one made of sandalwood and the other from stone.

They leave food and other offerings, chant prayers urging an end to the pandemic and bathe the idols in turmeric vater and milk.

"We have had similar temples for seven weeks.

smallpox, chicken pox and plague in the past," said temple manager Anandbharathi

"We are worshipping the virus in the form of a Goddess and praying to her every day to reduce the impacts of this disease,"

While case numbers are easing in much of India, the country of 1.3 billion people has been shocked by the severity of the latest wave of the pandemic, which overwhelmed hospitals and led to critical shortages of oxygen and medicines.

"Even doctors are unable to deal with the enormity of the situation. So, we turn to faith and God as a last resort," Anandbharathi said.

The priests plan to continue their prayers to the "Corona Devi" idols for another

Hong Kong House passes 'patriots' law

AFP, Hong Kong

Hong Kong's oppositiondevoid legislature yesterday approved Beijing's radical overhaul of the finance hub's political system which reduces the number of directly elected seats and will freeze out most China critics.

Beijing ordered sweeping changes to Hong Kong's electoral system back in March, the latest step in an ongoing crackdown on the city's democracy movement after massive and often violent protests.

The changes will ensure a large majority of lawmakers are selected by a reliably pro-Beijing committee and that every candidate must first be vetted by national security officers.

The legislature will be expanded from 70 to 90 seats, but only 20 of them will now be directly elected, down from 35.

Hong Kong has never been a democracy, but a vocal minority opposition was allowed in the city's legislature. When Hong Kongers can vote they tend to do so overwhelmingly for pro-democracy candidates, something that has rattled authoritarian Beijing. China's leaders moved to stamp out that opposition and dismantle Hong Kong's limited democratic pillars after massive protests broke out in 2019 followed by pro-democracy candidates taking local district council elections with a landslide.

Their first step was to impose a national security law last year that outlawed much dissent.

Beijing then turned its attention to the city's political system. Under the new political system it is unlikely many, if any, opposition figures will be allowed to stand.
