

No cushion for MIDDLE CLASS

ZYMA ISLAM

One story that went viral last month was that of Narayanganj's Farid Ahmed, who had called the national hotline seeking relief but was deemed "too rich" to get any government aid.

The upazila nirbahi officer took one look at Farid's clean-pressed clothes, his parental building of four storeys shared among seven siblings, and decided that he was attempting to swindle the government out of relief he was not entitled to.

Farid, who has a monthly salary of Tk 15,000, was asked to feed a hundred people for his "crime". He had to borrow Tk 65,000 to follow the order and avoid being sent to jail.

Humiliated and feeling like the rug was pulled out from beneath him, the man twice attempted to die by suicide.

It was a story that resonated across millions of households in an economy that saw the labour force shrink as the pandemic raged on into a second year.

But just like last year, this year too, the middle-class -- the class that's too rich to be poor, and financially stretched too thin to ever be rich -- has once again been left out of any budget considerations.

The proposed expansion of the social safety net programmes from Tk 95,574 crore to Tk 1,07,614 crore for the next fiscal year means little to a class which does not economically fall under the purview of "extreme poor".

For them, unemployment benefits are still a foreign concept even though there was a 49 percent decline in the income of salaried workers as per World Bank's figures.

The only form of unemployment benefits mentioned in the budget is the Tk 2,500 one-time direct cash transfer to the "selected poor families nationwide who faced sudden

Big push for mega projects

TUHIN SHUBHRA ADHIKARY

The mega projects, whose completion are expected to raise Bangladesh's GDP by as much as 4 percent, got about 48 percent more allocation in the upcoming fiscal year, as part of the government's push to ensure their timely implementation.

Seven of the eight mega projects -- Padma bridge, Padma bridge rail link, Dhaka mass rapid transit line-6 (Metro Rail), Chattogram-Cox's Bazar rail link, Rooppur nuclear power plant, Matarbari 1,200MW coal-fired power plant and the Payra deep seaport -- will get Tk 37,000 crore in fiscal 2021-22, in contrast to Tk 25,473.6 crore this fiscal year.

"Another important goal of the government will be to strive for timely implementation of all nationally important projects including mega projects in the infrastructure sector to sustain the higher growth rate," Finance Minister AHM Mustafa Kamal told the parliament in his budget speech.

After the Awami League government came to power in 2009, it took up several monumental development projects with the view to transforming the country's communication, transport and power infrastructure.

A total of 10 mega projects, which would have a substantial impact on the economy and wellbeing of the population, were singled out for fast-tracking.

Not a budget to deal with pandemic

Says CPD

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The Centre for Policy Dialogue said the proposed budget will fall short of properly addressing the economic fallout from the pandemic.

This is not the budget to tackle the crisis and it will not help recover the economy, it added.

The think tank said this at a virtual press briefing yesterday evening in reaction to the proposed budget.

The budget should have given a clear indication on how the health, education and other social sectors could recover in the next 3-4 years, said CPD Executive Director Fahmida Khatun.

POVERTY REDUCTION

Pandemic eats away 30 years' progress

AKM ZAMIR UDDIN

Poverty steadily reduced for 30 years until 2019. Then came the pandemic.

Achievements made in three decades have almost been wiped out in just one year and three months after the first cases of Covid-19 were detected in Bangladesh in March 2020.

Different organisations working on poverty alleviation and economists have repeatedly demanded wider social safety net programmes (SSNPs) and expanded direct cash support that reach the new poor.

But the demands are hardly reflected in the proposed budget for the coming fiscal year.

The government, however, has plans to reduce the poverty rate to 12.3 percent by fiscal 2023-2024, but has yet to announce how that target will be reached.

According to the Bangladesh Bureau of Statistics, the country's poverty rate was 20.5 percent in 2019, down from 21.8 percent the previous year.

In 1991, the rate was 56.07 percent, and in 2010, it was 31.5 percent.

The World Bank's "Bangladesh Development Update: Moving Forward: Connectivity and Logistics to Strengthen Competitiveness" released in April estimated that the poverty rate has jumped to 30 percent.

The proposed budget allocates Tk 1,07,614 crore to materialise the SSNPs in

Reintegration neglected

Returnee migrants get no good news; priority on remittance boost

JAMIL MAHMUD

Migrant worker Shahidul Islam, 38, returned home in January this year after injuring his right leg in a workplace accident while employed as a domestic worker in Saudi Arabia's capital Riyadh.

Father-of-three Shahidul, who had been earning up to Tk 30,000 a month in Riyadh, had to give up his job. He found himself unemployed back at home in Munshiganj, still recovering from his injury.

"After coming home, I tried to work as an auto-rickshaw driver but could not continue it because such work triggered pain in my fractured leg," he told this newspaper over the phone yesterday.

Shahidul has been in distress as he is bearing the double burden of providing for his poor family and bearing treatment costs.

Like him, many returnee migrants who came home amid the pandemic have been facing financial hardships

FOOD GRAINS FROM LOCAL SOURCES

Govt to buy less despite low stock

PINAKI ROY

In a surprising move, the government has reduced the internal procurement target of food grains for the coming year, even though it had reached its lowest just two months ago in the current year.

It has also failed to control food prices, especially that of rice -- a staple in every Bangladeshi household.

Experts believe the government did not put enough thought on wellbeing of the poor and marginal farmers -- the community that has been producing food for the people during the pandemic.

For the upcoming fiscal, the government set the procurement target at 20.44 lakh metric tons, while it was 25.06 lakh metric tons for the ongoing 2020-21, according to the food account.

"The government will take all possible measures to achieve the target and ensure food security," Finance Minister Mustafa Kamal said in his budget speech.

He, however, did not elaborate on how the government would attract farmers and millers to sell their produce to

EDUCATION BUDGET

Yawning digital gap glossed over

MOHIUDDIN ALAMGIR

Amidst a clamour to ensure digitalisation of all educational institutions and to get digital devices in the hands of all students, yesterday's proposed budget for a Covid-battered education sector appeared to have glossed over those needs.

The allocation for the education sector in the proposed budget for the 2021-22 fiscal year remains almost unchanged in terms of size and percentage of gross domestic product (GDP) compared to the current budget.

With traditional classroom learning coming to a complete halt since March 17, 2020 due to the pandemic, the government and the educational institutions took measures like introducing TV and online education to make up for educational losses.

These efforts have achieved more success in urban areas but a lack of digital devices and poor internet connectivity disrupted the learning process of a large number of rural students.

In a memorandum submitted to Finance Minister AHM Mustafa Kamal on May 24, Campaign for Popular Education (CAMPE) demanded that digital devices be ensured for each mainstream primary and
