Five Bangladeshi migrants were rescued after a boat sank in the Caribbean Sea near Puerto Escondido of Colombia.

Five others have been missing since the incident, several Bangladeshis in Colombia told The Daily Star yesterday.

They said the boat carrying 18 people -- 10 Bangladeshis and eight Nepalese -- started from Colombia's Necoclí and was heading towards Capurgana through the Gulf of Urabá, the southern

The next day, another Bangladeshi managed to swim to the shore in the same area, said the Bangladeshi migrants in Colombia.

The coastguard was continuing the rescue operation to trace the missing victims, local media reported.

Of the five rescued, the identities of three were confirmed. They are Sahab Uddin and Omar Faruk of Amishapara of Noakhali's Sonaimuri upazila and Saidur Rahman of Sylhet.

The missing Bangladeshis are Soyeb, Badrul and Rony of Sylhet, Faysal Ahmed of Kashimpur of Noakhali's Begumganj upazila and Sheikh Didar of Amishapara.

The rescued Bangladeshis were in the custody of the Colombian immigration authorities. They are currently in San Jeronimo de Monteria Hospital.

Their condition is stated to be critical as they were in extreme heat and suffered from malnutrition, the local authorities said, adding that one of them was in a

"It was confirmed by an interpreter that these migrants were of Asian descent, more precisely Bangladeshis, who had left Necoclí for Panama," said RCCO Manuel Vargas, a representative of the municipality of Puerto Escondido.

Captain Luz Pérela Gonzalbez Silva, commander of the Coast Guard station, told the local media that the rescued migrants said their boat had sunk after a crash. However, the matter has not yet been confirmed because their statements about what happened was not very clear.

"The rescued migrants did not have passports or any documents, which made it difficult to learn their full identities," he said.

Nur Islam, elder brother of Sheikh Didar, one of the missing Bangladeshis, told The Daily Star that his brother had left the country a year ago. For a long time, he worked in Suriname, a small country on the Atlantic coast. Didar had arrived in Colombia via Brazil a few days ago. The family last talked with him on Sunday when they came to know that Didar would leave for Panama the next day.

The final destination of this migration route in the Urabá Antioquia region is the United States through the Darien jungle in Panama.

Every year, several thousand migrants, including Bangladeshis, enter the United States through this route.

Some 17,668 people entered the United States through this route in 2019 and some 3,887 in 2020, according to statistics of United Nations (UN).

Between June 1 and yesterday, 948 people died from Covid in seven divisions and during the same time 260 people died in Dhaka division, according to the data of Directorate General of Health Services (DGHS).

On an average, 50 people died of Covid-19 every day so far this month, the second highest average after 80 deaths a day in April.

Rajshahi and Khulna divisions, which have long borders with India, are the hardest hit now. Khulna recorded 295 deaths and Rajshahi 245 this month.

In the previous 14 months since the first cases of Covid were reported, the death toll in Rajshahi was 691 and in Khulna 792. Yesterday, Chuadanga, a district in Khulna division with a border with India, reported a 100 percent positivity rate as all 41 people tested turned out positive for Covid-19.
