'Even crematoriums are being grabbed'

Sultana Kamal tells webinar on indigenous issues

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Noted rights activist Sultana Kamal yesterday at a webinar said indigenous people are not only losing their homesteads, gardens, trees, forestlands and lakes, but their crematoriums are also being grabbed by the state or people patronised by the state.

"And there is no solution to this grabbing from the state's side, while those who are losing land are being evicted and forced to migrate elsewhere," she said.

The webinar titled "Inclusion of Indigenous Peoples in Sustainable Development and Realization of Rights: Responsibility of State and Citizens", was jointly organised by Association for Land Reform and Development (ALRD) and Bangladesh Indigenous People Forum, in collaboration with The Daily Star.

The webinar was organised to mark International Day of the World's Indigenous Peoples (August 9), with the theme "Leaving No One Behind: Indigenous peoples and the call for a new social contract".

Barrister Raja Devasish Roy -- Chakma circle chief, Chattogram Hill Tracts -- presented the keynote in the webinar. He said although Bangladesh has ratified International Labour Organization Convention 107 in 1972, and signed the historical Chittagong Hill Tracts Accord (CHT Accord) in 1997, the scenario of deprivation and distress of indigenous people is largely seen even today.

They have been facing various political, social, and economic challenges, he said.

AKLAKUR RAHMAN AKASH and MD ASADUZZAMAN

A Chhatra League leader of Jahangirnagar University allegedly fired several rounds of bullets targeting a college teacher, as he protested his peddling drugs in the area. Meanwhile, the teacher was able to save himself and one of the bullets hit an associate of that BCL leader.

The incident took place around 6:30pm on Thursday near the residence of Dr Monsur Ali, the college teacher. Dr Ali filed a case with Ashulia Police Station on Friday night over the incident against seven persons.

He is a lecturer at JU School and College in Pandhooa Purba Para area, right behind JU campus, said police and local sources.

The accused BCL leader is Shamim Osman Gani Mollah, a student of history department at JU and organising secretary of the university unit of BCL.

The injured is his associate Abul Hossen, who is now undergoing treatment at a hospital under police custody, said law enforcers.

According to locals and police, a gang, led by Shamim and one Hassan (a JU student), has been involved in peddling drugs in the area for a while. Locals often protested it but to no avail, they said.

On Thursday evening, Shamim, Hassan and their five associates gathered near Dr Ali's house and parked their four motorbikes there. When he asked them to move those, they allegedly misbehaved with him.

As he protested, Shamim fired three rounds of bullets at him and one of the bullets hit his associate Abul Hossain's right hand, Dr Ali told The Daily Star.

"I was lucky that it [the bullet] did not hit me,"

Govt shut down schools to save students' lives

Quader tells discussion

Bss, Dhaka

Awami League general secretary Obaidul Quader yesterday said in order to save the lives of students, the government has shut down the educational institutions amid the ongoing pandemic.

"If the lives of children are at risk, what will we do with education? That's why the government took the decision to save lives," he said.

Quader, also road transport and bridges minister, made the remark at a discussion marking the National Mourning Day at IDEB in Dhaka. He attended the event virtually.

Institute of Diploma Engineers Bangladesh organised the programme -- "What to do to implement Bangabandhu's Philosophy on Vocational and Technical Education" -- and to distribute relief among the poor.

Quader also criticised BNP for saying that the government is allegedly destroying the country's education system through conspiracy. "BNP even smelt conspiracy with vaccines earlier. Their habit is to see conspiracy in everything," Quader said.

Their [BNP] political programme is only to spread rumour and falsehood against the incumbent democratic government, he added. Quader also urged BNP to specify the irregularities without throwing stones in the dark.

At the meeting, Quader also said the plotters, who wanted to erase the name of Father of the Nation Bangabandhu Sheikh Mujibur Rahman from history, themselves are being erased from history at present.
