On May 7, a fisherman in Sylhet caught a 180kg Baghair from the Kushiara river and brought it to Lalbazar, a famous fish market in the city.

Having learned that the fish would be put on display, hundreds of curious locals flocked in for a glimpse. Too big for a single customer, the fish was later cut into pieces and sold among locals within hours.

Such "celebrations" of big catch and its public display has long been a tradition in rural Bangladesh, but experts are concerned at the rate some sweetwater fish species, including Baghair, are vanishing.

This particular fish species is listed as "critically endangered" by the IUCN Red List of Threatened Species

World's first 3D-printed Wagyu beef revealed

MAIL ONLINE

The world's first 3D-printed Wagyu beef has been revealed by scientists, who say it has marbling 'just like the real thing' and is grown from stem cells in the lab.

Most 'cultured' meat produced so far has come out like mince rather than steak, composed of simple muscle fibres rather than more complex structures.

However, steaks - particularly from delicate Wagyu beef - contain fat, muscle and blood vessels in an intricate structure producing a marbling effect, and this is what the team from Osaka

RASHIDUL HASAN

Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina is set to virtually inaugurate the ground breaking ceremony and unveil the foundation stone of the runway extension at Cox's Bazar Airport today morning.

The Civil Aviation Authority of Bangladesh (Caab) has taken the initiative to construct the longest runway in the country by extending the existing 9,000-foot runway by another 1,700 on the Bay of Bengal.

According to project documents, the deadline to finish construction is May 10, 2024.

Under the agreement, the contractor will extend the runway towards the Maheshkhali channel through coastal land reclamation.
