Town gets lively with water lilies

Tourists are thronging an abandoned canal and a pond in the town's Kalyanpur area where thousands of bright red water lilies have blossomed. The Chapainawabganj Horticulture

Centre took the initiative of planting the water lilies in the waterbodies -- a halfkilometre long canal and a pond on two bighas of land -- that used to emit foul smell due to indiscriminate dumping of Scientists at the horticulture centre said wild water lilies grow naturally in the country's low-lying areas such as marshlands and ponds, but many of its varieties have gone extinct due to commercial fish cultivation there.

Utilising abandoned waterbodies to plant water lilies might protect some of their varieties, they also said.

Abdul Alim, a resident of the town and a twelfth grader at Chapainawabganj Technical School and College, was visiting the site with his friends. He said last time he visited the place, there were bushes all around and one had to remain wary of

But now, as the blossomed water lilies has changed the atmosphere entirely, they visit the place often, he added.

In such a situation, Rafiqul rented an auto-rickshaw from a villager to drive it. But at one stage, the work became risky due to his poor eyesight.

Rozina then expressed her interest in driving the auto-rickshaw and learnt driving from her husband.

While driving the vehicle on the road, she suffers from a problem and that is the lack of toilets for women in the town, said Rozina.

Shahadat Hossain, a neighbour of Rozina, said seeing her driving the auto, earlier some villagers used to laugh at her but they now fell silent seeing her determination. Last year, Rozina bought a piece

Three to die for murder in Madaripur

Our Correspondent, Faridpur

A Madaripur court sentenced three people to death for killing a fiveyear-old girl allegedly over personal enmity with the victim's family in 2015.

The convicts are Rajib Hawladar, 41, and Rimon Hossain, 32, of Madaripur's Rajor upazila, and Shafikul Islam Mollah, 31, of Pirojpur Sadar upazila.

Madaripur District and Session Judge Nitai Chandra Saha delivered the verdict on Monday afternoon in presence of Rimon, while the other two convicts were tried in absentia, Public Prosecutor (PP) Siddikur Rahman Sing

The court also fined the convicts Tk 50,000 each, and acquitted another accused of the case as charges brought against him was not proved, the PP added.

According to the case statement, Aduri Akter, daughter of Tuku Sardar of Sendia area in Rajor upazila, went out of her house to take Arabic lesson at a local mosque on September 20, 2015, and did not returned home.

Police detained Shafikul, mam of the mosque, for interrogation after victim's father filed a general dairy (GD) with Rajor Police Station the same evening.

Later, according to Shafikul's confession, police recovered Aduri's body from a place beside the mosque on September

The same day, Tuku field a case against six identified and four to five other unidentified people with the police station.

After investigation, Sayeed Hasan, the then inspector of Crime Investigation Department (CID) in Madaripur, submitted the charge-sheet against four on January 10,
