allowed to send workers there.

He said the number of recruiting agents in Bangladesh should expand from the previous 10. The expansion was evident in his letter to Imran Ahmad.

Recruiting agencies in Bangladesh argued it, saying not a single worker can land in Malaysia if it does not authorise.

Now, the question is what is the basis of selecting the 25 agents and 250 sub-agents which were suggested by Saravanan?

Andy Hall, a migration researcher and activist, says there is no mechanism on assessing the quality of the recruiting agents in Bangladesh. If it was the case that there are categories of all agents in Bangladesh and that Malaysia will select the best 250 agents, it could be accepted. This is not the case, however.

A Bangladeshi recruiting agent said since the 1990s, Malaysia opened and closed its labour market several times, and each of the closures was due to massive irregularities and labour abuses.

Recent experiences suggest that recruitment cost was almost double when there was a syndicate. For example, the recruitment cost was on average Tk 2 lakh during 2006-2009 when there was no syndicate, whereas it was Tk 350,000 to Tk 4 lakh under a syndicated recruitment arrangement in 2016-18.

Andy Hall, a UK citizen researching migration to Malaysia, said when there is monopoly in business, workers suffer the most.

DIG said.

According to court sources, a small number of militant suspects, who are on bail, appears before the court during the hearing.

Banaj Kumar Majumder, chief of the Police Bureau of Investigation, said it is not true that all militant suspects return to extremist activities after securing bail.

Some suspects tried to return to normal life, but they did not have the scope, he said.

"Law enforcers cannot deal with such an issue. There should be an independent body who would look after this from the very day a suspect is granted bail," said Banaj Kumar.

He said the body would assist the families and society in welcoming the suspects.

Special importance will be given on maintenance of assets of the institutions during the period, while regular cleaning will continue as before.

On March 17, 2020, the government shut down schools and other educational institutions across the country to contain the spread of Covid-19. In-person classes resumed partially at the institutions on September 12, 2021, after the situation improved.

The ministries concerned launched TV education programmes through state-run Sangsad television channel for secondary and primary students. Later, they asked all schools to introduce online education.

on devolution of power to local government.

He asked Planning Minister MA Mannan why the devolution of power to local government was not happening although it has been discussed over the years.

Rehman also questioned why city mayors were not being given more power to run their corporations as mentioned by Narayanganj mayor-elect Selina Hayat Ivy.

Mannan in reply said, "Devolution of power to local government cannot be achieved only by issuing an order. To make it happen, we need evolution and practice."

The idea of establishing a "water museum" in Kalapara, Patuakhali, came from the inclusion of community people in the discourse. The first-ever, community-based water museum in South Asia was established in 2014 by ActionAid Bangladesh in this regard, she said.

Dr Eriberto Eulisse, executive director of Global Network of Water Museums, said the Teesta is a symbol of change like other rivers. "Cooperation and good practices are needed to resolve any kind of water-related resource dispute."

Former foreign secretary Shahidul Haque said, "There's a need to have more interactions among international stakeholders, people and political leaders.

Narratives should also be different considering climate change."

Rahima Sultana Kajal, executive director at Association of Voluntary Actions for Society and member of General Assembly ActionAid International Bangladesh Society, said, "River-centric civilisation is being jeopardised as a result of obstructing the flow of rivers. Due to the so-called development, river water is not being distributed evenly, which has resulted in shortage of usable water. The existing laws on river water usage are not being properly enforced."

Dr Shashwata Bhattacharjee, head of Kaunia College's Bangla Department, said if a river dies, community people's livelihoods also suffer.

86th birth anniversary of the BNP founder.

The much-talked-about Bill, "Appointment of Chief Election Commissioner and Election Commissioners Bill-2022", will be placed in the parliament today as the government wants to have a law in this regard as per the Constitution.

On Monday, the Cabinet meeting approved the draft bill.

'A BIG WARNING'
Meanwhile, Khandaker Mosharraf Hossain also said the 12 international human rights organisations' letter to the United Nations (UN) to ban the Rapid Action Battalion (Rab) from peacekeeping missions, along with the US sanctions on the elite force and its former and current officials, are a big warning to the Awami League government.

Referring to different media reports, he said the UN has taken the rights bodies' letter into its cognizance.

"They (UN) will investigate the matter and take action."

Mosharraf said the government is failing to understand how it is being warned internationally only because of its "arrogance of power".
