A view of the Daborkhali canal in Chattogram's Ichakhali union reveals that large portions of the water body have been filled up. Bangladesh Export Processing Zone Authority filled up a two-km stretch of the canal, the health of which is critical for irrigation as well as preventing waterlogging, to set up an economic zone. LIQUOR MANAGEMENT Colonial-era rules discarded, fresh ones in place

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The government has formulated rules to regularise the sale and consumption of alcohol, a move that narcotics control officials believe will generate revenue and make alcohol easily accessible to individuals with permission to drink.

Certain hotels, resorts, and restaurants will be given licence to open bars and sell foreign liquor, which will help flourish tourism by attracting more foreign tourists, said Manjurul Islam, deputy director (preventive education) at the Department of Narcotics Control in the capital.

The new rules replace the Guidance for the Officers of Salt and Excise Department Volume 1 and Volume 2 from 1915 and 1918, Prohibition Rules from 1950 and several notifications issued on different occasions, Manjurul added.

"The new rules are introduced to keep up with the times, changes in the society and the mindset of people," said Manjurul, who was one of the officers who drafted the rules.

The new rules formulated under the Narcotics Control Law 2018 will ensure discipline in sales, marketing, import-export, storage, production, processing and consumption of alcohol, Manjurul said.

Clubs with 100 or more members with permission to drink are now eligible to apply for a liquor licence while those with over 200 such members will be eligible to apply for a licence to open a bar.

Bars will be allowed at export processing zones (EPZ), theme parks, resorts and development projects where foreign citizens reside, according to the new Alcohol Control Rules 2022 issued by the Ministry of Home Affairs on February 5.

Anyone aged 21 and above will be allowed to apply for permission to drink. The limit for the sales of alcohol to those with permission is three units at a time and seven units in a month.

The rule defines units as 750ml of foreign spirit, 2,250ml of wine, and 15 beer bottles containing 750ml each.

Hotels, restaurants and places serving food and alcohol will be allowed to apply for licences to open bars.

Hotels ranked five star and above will get licences to set up to seven bars; four star hotels up to three bars; three star hotels up to two bars; and two-star hotels one bar.

In the Hill Tracts, indigenous people aged over 21 can drink at home.

Besides, the rules have separate guidelines for homeopathic medicine importers and tea garden workers.

Places that sell alcohol must be closed on Fridays, Muharram, Shab-e-Baraat, Eid-e-Miladunnabi, Shab-e-Kadar, Eid-ul-Fitr, Eid-ul-Azha and any government holidays.

Alcohol can be imported from any country that has trade relations with Bangladesh to supply liquor. No taxes will be imposed for export of locally produced alcohol.

Liquor bottles sold in the country must have health warnings.

Beer cannot be produced without following a procedure prescribed by the government.

Foreign remittance earners duty-free shops can import alcohol.

Restaurants, hotels, clubs or bars will be able to buy 40 per cent of their alcohol from Bangladesh

"This will flourish tourism as alcohol will be available at tourist spots. It will generate revenue and alcohol will be easily accessible to permit holders."

A canal chokes as an economic zone emerges

Bepza fills up 2km stretch of Daborkhali canal in Ctg with no DoE clearance; 5,000 farmers affected

SIFAYET ULLAH, Ctg

The Daborkhali Canal in Chattogram's Ichakhali union is at the risk of dying after Bangladesh Export Processing Zone Authority (Bepza) has filled up around a two-km stretch of the critical water body to set up an economic zone.

The occupation, which began about three years ago, has stopped the canal's water flow completely, affecting more than 5,000 farmers in Mirsarai upazila who depend on the canal for irrigation of their farmland.

The canal is directly linked to the Bay of Bengal, and so protects the area from waterlogging as it carries the rainwater almost instantly to the Bay during monsoon.

But the massive destruction of the canal has resulted in a crisis of irrigation water and heavy waterlogging in the area, posing a serious threat to livelihoods and the environment.

Bepza leased 1,150 acres of land in Mirsarai from Bangladesh Economic Zone Authority (Beza) to establish an economic zone under Bangabandhu Sheikh Mujib Shilpa Nagar (BSMSN), said officials of the Department of Environment.

Bepza, a state agency, obtained clearance from the DoE to set up the economic zone but has no permission to alter the shape of the canal in any way, officials said.

According to the Natural Water Reservoir Conservation Act 2000, all canals and natural water bodies must be preserved by the state.

"The project authorities obtained clearance from the environment department to set up the economic zone, but the problem is they did not mention anything about filling up the canal," Mufidul Alam, DoE director of Chattogram region, told The Daily Star recently.

"Filling up of any canal is a punishable offence under the existing law and action will be taken against those who filled up the canal without permission," he added.

This correspondent recently visited the area and saw around two kilometres of the canal filled up from Bay of Bengal's entry point to a neighbourhood known as Ek Hazar Feet Road Intersection.

Mirsarai Upazila Agriculture Officer Ragnath Naha said cultivation of over 3,000 acres of land depends on this canal water, and around 5,000 farmers are directly involved in farming in the area.

"But due to the water crisis, farmers can no longer irrigate their land, which is affecting the upazila's paddy production target," he said.

Echoing his view, Ichakhali Union Parishad Chairman Nurul Mostafa said, "The canal is dying due to the unplanned work. We are not against the project, but the authorities should leave the canal alone for the sake of the environment and farm production."

The land along the canal has long been known as highly fertile where farmers cultivated three crops a year for generations. But due to the crisis of irrigation water, only one crop can be grown now, said local farmers, many of whom have been forced to take up other livelihood options such as daily labour.

"For the last two years, we could not grow Aus or Aman paddy due to the severe water crisis," said Belayet Hossain, a farmer from Charsarat village.

The destruction of the canal has also complicated the waterlogging problem in the area as monsoon water cannot as easily fall into the Bay because of the earth-filling and a newly-erected embankment on the canal, locals and officials said.

Aliur Rahman, general secretary of Movement to Protect Rivers and Canals of Chattogram, said they held several human

In response to Khwaja Nazimuddin's declaration on January 27, 1952 that only Urdu would be the state language of Pakistan, an all-out strike was organised in all schools and colleges in Dhaka on February 4.

The day after Nazimuddin's declaration, the Khyber Mail (a newspaper from the North West Frontier Province of Pakistan) published in their editorial that Urdu cannot be the only state language of Pakistan. Next day I put the cutting of Khyber Mail's editorial on the university's notice board.

I think it was on February 4 that Muslim girls, for the first time after the birth of Pakistan, skipped schools and joined a procession. That day there were two meetings: one was in support of the language
