Bank accounts for hire!

In the first part of this 2-part series, we delve into how criminals 'rent' accounts for illegal transactions.

MOHAMMAD JAMIL KHAN

In the documents submitted to a bank, Bappy Hossain (26) mentioned that he's a labourer. But an anomaly came up after analysing his national identity (NID) details.

It was found that he has around 45 accounts with different financial institutions, most under agent banking.

Similarly, Md Raju (31) mentioned that he's a private-service holder, and his NID details showed a similar scene: around 40 accounts.

Like these two, at least seven other people were found to have around 227 accounts with different banks in total. And they listed their professions as egg seller, van driver or domestic help.

The question is, why do these seemingly normal people have so many accounts?

In an investigation, police's detective branch (DB) found that organised transnational criminals take these Detectives found that criminals take these accounts on "rent" for illegal transactions to dodge law enforcers' eyes. For each transaction, they pay Tk 1,000 to 1,500, and Tk 4,000 to 5,000 for opening an account.

accounts on "rent" for illegal transactions to dodge law enforcers' eyes.

For each transaction, the criminals pay

Tk 1,000 to 1,500, and Tk 4,000 to 5,000 for opening an account.

Khalilur Rahman, assistant commissioner (Gulshan division) of DB, said some of the accounts have even made transactions worth Tk 30 lakh.

Investigating sources said a Bangladeshi, identified as Biplob Lashkar, is maintaining all the transaction details.

Investigation also found that his present address is at Dhaka's Mohammadpur. But after visiting the address, this correspondent did not find anyone living there.

Sources said Biplob has been involved in fraudulent activities for a long time.

At one point, he joined criminal gangs run by a group of Nigerians, who would

Using torture cells to get their way

In a general setting, Multi Mamun seems to be a religious person, as he followed the footsteps of his father, an Islamic scholar, or at least what Mamun pretends to be.

However, his main job is confining businesspeople and employees to a torture cell and extorting money by taking compromising pictures.

He started by stealing money from his brother-in-law. With the money, he bought several shops and started a business.

In those very shops, he has two torture cells.

On April 11, Mamun with one of his gang members abducted Shibu Lal, a noted businessperson in Patuakhali, intending to collect around Tk 20 crore as ransom.

He planned to set up the biggest garment factory in the southern part of the country and start a transport business on the Dhaka-Patuakhali route. He also had plans to start his own bus company with the ransom.

However, the plan was foiled after Patuakhali police managed to rescue Shibu from the district's SP complex on April 12. After that, Mamun and his associate took shelter in Dhaka.

The district police then gave a requisition to the detective branch (DB) of Dhaka Metropolitan Police (DMP).

On information, DB finally arrested Mamun, his associate Pichchi Rana, BRTC bus driver Jashim Uddin and Ashiqur Rahman from the capital's Mirpur and Gulistan areas on Tuesday.

Rana used to work at a toll plaza, and Ashiqur is a rent-e-car supplier, said police. Law enforcers seized a car, cell phone and 4,000 yaba pills from the arrestees' possession.

As the Padma bridge is going to open for public movement within a couple of months, the criminals wanted to start a new business, like rent-a-car and tourism services, by collecting a huge sum of money through such criminal activities.
