BRRI Dhan-81 fails to live up to expectations

ANWAR ALI, Rajshahi

Production of BRRI Dhan-81 witnessed a sharp decline in Rajshahi during this boro season for bad weather and calamities.

This breed was the most promising among the high-yielding paddy varieties of Bangladesh Rice Research Institute (BRRI). Many farmers choose this breed due to its yield expectancy of eight tonnes of paddy, per hectare of land.

Department of Agricultural Extension (DAE) recorded an average of 3.75 tonnes of the yield of BRRI Dhan-81 in Rajshahi and Bogura this season, disappointing the farmers. Even last year's yield was 4.75 tonnes on average.

Dr Md Fazul Islam, regional chief scientist, said, the damage was marked on one-hectare experimental land in BRRI's regional centre in Rajshahi.

"It happened due to an unprecedented rise in the temperature, and rains," he told this correspondent.

During the paddy's sprouting stage, the temperature rose to 46 Degree Celsius in mid-April and that has never occurred in the last 10 years, he said.

"The paddy variety was only capable of sustaining temperature up to 35 Degree Celsius," he said.

BRRI Dhan-81 was introduced to farmers in 2017. It was termed one of the "premium quality" varieties, producing exportable rice.

Normally, its per hectare yield is 6 to 6.5 tonnes, but with proper care, a yield of eight tonnes is possible, BRRI and DAE sources said.

Abdus Salam, a farmer of Rajshahi's Uttor Chalkpara area, said he cultivated the paddy this year as he received a high yield last season.

"If I get 30 maunds of paddy in exchange for the same expenditures of BRRI Dhan-28, why would I not cultivate this paddy?"

"But this year I was bamboozled at the results as I got around 14 maunds of yield in per-acre land only," he said. "This year the paddy didn't grow tall like last year. The grains were smaller too."

Almost 150 farmers of Chalkpara Beel have experienced a similar fate as Abdus Salam this year.

Robiul Islam of the same area said, "If there are 200 grains in a paddy sheaf, I found only 80 of those grains in good condition. The rest was damaged."

"I cultivated this variety for the first time this year. Now, I'm mad at myself for making

Allow all agencies to send workers to Malaysia

JP lawmaker tells JS

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

An opposition MP in parliament yesterday demanded a quick decision on sending workers to Malaysia and opening up opportunities for all recruiting agencies instead of a syndicate of few agencies.

Jatiya Party MP Rustum Ali Faraji made the demand while speaking on a point of order.

Drawing the attention of the expatriates' welfare minister, the JP MP said the minister had repeatedly visited Malaysia to send workers to Malaysia.

"Malaysia is ready for hiring workers from Bangladesh. But no decision is being taken because of the syndicate," he said.

Faraji observed that it will cost Tk 3 to 4 lakh instead of one and a half lakh if workers go through syndicate.

"You [minister] make the right decision without any excuse. You should allow all the requesting agencies to take expatriate workers to Malaysia," he added.

On June 2, Malaysia agreed to hire 5 lakh Bangladeshi workers over the next five years through the syndicate system, with the first batch of documented workers from

Private ambulances a menace for MMCH

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Mymensingh

Private ambulances parked beside the emergency entrance of Mymensingh Medical College Hospital (MMCH) has become a serious nuisance for the hospital's emergency ward patients and their attendants.

Attendants said not only private ambulances, CNG and battery-run auto-rickshaws remain parked at the emergency entrance gate to get passengers.

Besides, private ambulances parked on both sides of the hospital's main gate often occupy a good portion of the four-lane highway in Charpara area, causing gridlock during rush period.

Locals also alleged that this illegal parking has continued for years now, resulting in a long-term suffering for the city's commuters, patients, and their attendants. Even when the authorities take steps against illegal parking and brokers of different clinics on the hospital premises, the situation remains unchanged.

"What's ridiculous is that there are stickers forbidding illegal parking on the premises but the place is packed with vehicles -- especially during busy hours," said Emran Ali, an attendant whose wife underwent a C-section operation.
