He alleged that the ticket money was deducted from his bKash account, but he did not get a seat on the train nor was he given a receipt. He filed a complaint with the authorities concerned the next day, which was left pending for a month.

Students from different parts of the country joined his movement separately.

On July 20, the Directorate of National Consumer Rights Protection fined online ticketing platform Shohoz for its negligence in selling tickets.

The High Court on the same day asked Deputy Attorney General AKM Amin Uddin Manik and ACC lawyer Khurshid Alam Khan to inquire about the steps taken on the issue.

This is not the first time Roni stood up against mismanagement and irregularities. In April, he started a hunger strike for the modernisation of the university's medical centre, after not being satisfied area, said, "The government declared one to two hours of load shedding, but we are dealing with blackouts for four to five hours or even more. The schedule is never followed."

Protesting excessive load shedding, around a hundred locals organised a sit-in in front of BPDB Division 2 office at Mirabazar around 11:00am yesterday. After getting assurance from the officials, they withdrew the protest after an hour.

Mohammad Abdul Kadir, chief engineer of BPDB in Sylhet, said, "Today [yesterday], our demand is 175 megawatts, while we were allotted only 93 megawatts. Yesterday [Sunday], the allotment was only 78 megawatts. With this supply, we cannot follow the schedule, and so, people are getting dissatisfied."

"We are also being deprived, when compared with all other divisional towns. While they are receiving around 60 percent [of power demand], we are getting around 50 percent or less. For that, people in Sylhet are witnessing more load shedding."

Meanwhile, as stores are bound to close by 8:00pm, increased load shedding is snatching away crucial business time, leading to serious losses.

Tahmin Ahmed, president of Sylhet Chamber of Commerce and Industry, said, "For years, Sylhet has been suffering from excessive load shedding due to mismanagement of BPDB."

Faruque Mahmud Chowdhury, president of Shujan, Sylhet chapter, said, "At homes, people's electrical appliances are being damaged due to excessive and unscheduled load shedding. Students, who just dealt with the floods, are facing problems preparing for exams."

"We understand the national crisis, but to keep people content, BPDB should maintain the schedule they publish, and the government must not discriminate against Sylhet in regards to power supply," he said.
