CHT Commission condemns govt directive of prohibiting use of the word 'indigenous'

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The International Chittagong Hill Tracts (CHT) Commission was shocked to learn about the government's prohibition on using the term "indigenous", said a press release published yesterday.

The Commission finds this position by the ministry very undemocratic, derogatory to the indigenous peoples, and a serious threat to the freedom of speech, said the press release signed by the commission's co-chairs Sultana Kamal, Elsa Stamatopoulou, and Myrna Cunningham Kain.

The information ministry has recently issued a circular directing all the electronic media not to use the term "indigenous".

It has asked the electronic media that university professors, experts, newspaper editors, and other members of the civil society should not use the term "indigenous" in any TV talk shows arranged on August 9, on the occasion of International Day of the World's

Patients suffer as intern doctors continue strike

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Sylhet

The strike that started on Monday to protest the attack on students of Sylhet MAG Osmani Medical College Hospital and harassment of a trainee doctor continued yesterday as well.

As the intern doctors enforced an indefinite strike, hundreds of patients are suffering at the division's largest public healthcare facility.

Hospital Director Brig Gen Mahbubur Rahman Bhuiyan said healthcare fell into a crisis due to the strike. "All the pressure is now on the mid-level doctors."

Many patients were seen returning to their homes being unable to see a doctor. Those who came from far had to suffer the most.

"The students and intern doctors have remained agitated, as police could not arrest some prime accused yet. The matter has been communicated to the health and foreign ministers, and we hope it will be resolved soon," he said.

Students also boycotted all classes and examinations for an indefinite period and locked the administrative building's gate in the morning. College Principal Prof Moydul Haque could not be contacted.

Police are yet to arrest all the accused in two separate cases filed on Tuesday. Earlier, two people were detained and later shown arrested in those cases.

On Sunday, an intern doctor of the hospital was harassed by a patient's relatives. Later, miscreants attacked the medical college students on Monday, injuring two.

Floodwater recedes in the north

Lowlands still inundated; Jamuna water level increases in Sirajganj

STAR REPORT

The flood situation in the country's northern region has been improving since the onrush of upstream water started to recede on Tuesday night.

Only low-lying areas in the northern region are still inundated in Lalmonirhat, Kurigram, Rangpur and Nilphamari.

"According to the numerical weather forecast of meteorological agencies, heavy rainfall in the north-eastern region and adjoining upstream regions of India [Assam (Barak basin), Meghalaya & Tripura] is unlikely in next 48 hours," said a Flood Forecasting and Warning Centre (FFWC) bulletin, released at 9:00am yesterday.

Teesta's water in Lalmonirhat has been flowing 10cm below the danger level at Teesta Barrage point in Lalmonirhat's Doani area, recorded around 6:00am yesterday.

Executive Engineer of WDB

Lalmonirhat Mizanur Rahman confirmed that the water level may lower further.

"Teesta lost much of its navigability due to sediment accumulation for a long time. If the water level rises slightly in the Teesta, the water overflows and inundates the surrounding areas," he said.

Lalmonirhat Sadar UP Chairman Kamruzzaman Sujan said the water has receded from most of the flood-affected areas. However, some areas are still inundated.

Nur Jamal (50), a farmer in the upazila's Sheikhpara village, told The Daily Star that the water has receded from his house.

"However, the roads are still under water, so it is difficult for us to move. If the water level rises again, we will suffer even more," he said.

Farmer Seher Ali (63) of Kurigram's Ghatishyam area said a sudden rise in Teesta's water level compelled them to

'ABDUCTION OF STUDENT' Two madrasa teachers arrested

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Lalmonirhat

Police have arrested two madrasa teachers over abduction and disappearance of a student in Hatibandha upazila of Lalmonirhat.

They were arrested from a house in Tangail on Tuesday night, said Hatibandha Police Station Officer-in-Charge Shah Alam.

The arrestees -- Riazul Islam and Rabiul Islam -- are teachers of Alimur Danga Hafizia Madrasa in Singimari village.

The missing boy, Rabbatul Islam Rabbi (14), is a student of the madrasa. Rabbi's father Rashidul filed a case against the two with a local court on July 17. Later, the case was registered with the police station on July 21. The two teachers went into hiding.

According to the case statement, at least 14 to 15 students -- including Rabbi -- went to tabligh for three days at a mosque in Sohagh Bazar on July 6. Rabbi disappeared from there.

Rabbi's father also claimed that the teachers kidnapped his son and hid him. Earlier, the two offered to teach Rabbi in Dhaka, he alleged, but he did not agree.

However, the arrestees and other students who went for tabligh claimed that Rabbi drowned while bathing in Teesta river on July 7. The OC said they are investigating the incident.
