

Dhalai river at the mercy of sand traders

DWOHA CHOWDHURY, Sylhet

An authorised balumahal (sand quarry) leaseholder has been extracting sand from the banks of Dhalai river in Sylhet's Companiganj, posing a serious threat to the environment.

The bordering upazila has been enduring environmental devastation due to illegal stone extraction from hillocks for decades until it came to a halt in 2020.

The trans-boundary river's balumahal was leased out by Sylhet District Administration on August 7 to Pragati Enterprise – against a bid of Tk 2.79 crore – excluding taxes.

The lessee was the sole bidder in the fifth episode of tender for the sand quarry.

The leaseholder has been violating selected terms of "Sand Quarry and Soil Management Act 2010" and "Sand Quarry and Soil Management Rules 2011" since the very beginning of the extraction.

Though residents of the riverbank have protested the extraction attempt outside the leased area, this illegal act continues unabated.

According to section 5 of the act, no bulkhead dredger can be used while extracting sand. Only industrial dredgers can be used, which can dredge while protecting the slope of the river and maintaining the uniform level of the riverbed.

The rules further elaborate the act and obligate the leaseholder to follow a hydrographic survey to extract sand accordingly.

Hydrographic survey is the science of measurement and description of features which affect maritime navigation, marine construction, dredging and related activities.

Meanwhile, section 4 of the act also states that no commercial dredging will be allowed if the dredging has the potential to cause river erosion or damage the river's geology.

While visiting the river and sand extraction area recently, this correspondent witnessed that bulkhead dredgers were being used to extract sand. The dredgers were seen lifting sand from near the bank without maintaining the slope.

"They are trying to extract sand from outside the leased area from the very beginning. They extract from a land very close to the riverbank, making way for river erosion so that they can extract more when it occurs," said Humayun Rashid Humon, a resident of Kalabari village on the riverbank.

"Extraction attempts outside the leased area have already put a public playground in the village under threat," he added.

Locals also alleged that illegal extraction has damaged a river protection dyke near Dhalarpur village.

Abdul Hye Al-Hadi, coordinator of Save the Heritage and Environment, said, "Dhalai lost its natural flow due to stone and sand extraction, but the situation got better after the extraction was stopped a few years back."

"But the administration again leased part of the riverbank, making way for the leaseholder to violate extraction laws."

Contacted, Mojir Uddin, proprietor of Pragati Enterprise and deputy office secretary of Awami League Sylhet district unit, said, "We are not breaking any law. The deed signed with the administration does not mention a prohibition on bulkhead dredgers. We are not extracting

According to section 5 of the act, no bulkhead dredger can be used while extracting sand. Only industrial dredgers can be used, which can dredge while protecting the slope of the river and maintaining the uniform level of the riverbed.

Clockwise from left, vessels carry sand extracted from the Dhalai river to dispatch it to traders. As dredgers continue to extract sand illegally outside their designated leased areas, its aftermath is reflected on the riverbank and a playground in Companiganj.

Violating regulations, AL constructing permanent office on Chhoto Jamuna riverbank in Dinajpur

KONGKON KARMAKAR, Dinajpur

In a step of blatant violation of relevant rules, a multi-storey office building of the ruling Awami League is being constructed on the bank of the Chhoto Jamuna in Dinajpur.

Officials and locals said once the structure is erected, it will obstruct the normal flow of the river if its water level goes high.

Surprisingly, the local administration is unaware of the building's construction, which began a month ago.

According to the office of Assistant Commissioner (land), around 38 decimals of land is located inside the Chhoto Jamuna flowing through the middle of Phulbari municipality area.

As per the RS and BS records, the land does not belong to the Water Development Board, said WDB officials in Dinajpur.

The land falls under the "Ka" category schedule, which the WDB has no scope to interfere in, said Rakibul Hasan, executive engineer of WDB in the district.

But the officials warned that if the building is erected it will impede the river water from flowing.

Officials at AC (land) in Phulbari said Haider Ali Shah, the then president of the upazila AL unit, applied on behalf of the party to the land office to allocate a piece of land in 2020.

Haider Ali died recently, said party leaders.

In response to the appeal, the land office leased six decimals of land to AL last year, which is located at I20/457 Daag of Gouripur Mouza in Phulbari upazila, according to the land record book.

As the leased land is under the "Ka" category schedule, the deputy commissioner's office is its ultimate authority, said land officials.

According to the lease condition, AL is not allowed to construct a permanent structure but rather a temporary one on the land, said AC (land) Shamima Akhtar.

On the other hand, the ruling party is defying an official rule of the Roads and Highways Department, the owning authority of a bridge
