'Bail on mere ground of age not rational'

Apex court criticises HC in full text of verdict in graft case against former land ministry official

ASHUTOSH SARKAR

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in the full text of a judgement has criticised the High Court Division for granting bail to the Land Ministry's former administrative officer Md Kutub Uddin Ahmed.

Kutub Uddin (62) -- who has been sentenced to five years imprisonment in a corruption case -- was granted bail by the HC on grounds of his old age, without hearing the pending appeal against his conviction in the case.

In the 20-page full text of the verdict, a three-member bench of the Appellate Division headed by Justice Md Nuruzzaman also mentioned that granting bail on the mere ground of age is not rational.

"The High Court Division didn't exercise its discretion judiciously, rather perversely in releasing the respondent -- convict (Kutub Uddin) on bail; hence, interference is called for."

Make the DAP fair for all

Demands Institute of Architects Bangladesh

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Criticising the way of determining floor area ratio in the new Detailed Area Plan (DAP), Institute of Architects Bangladesh (IAB) yesterday demanded the government determine the ratio keeping equity in mind.

Floor area ratio (FAR) is the ratio of a building's total floor area (gross floor area) and the size of the piece of land upon which it is built.

"The [low] FAR that was fixed [1.1 to 2.7] for peripheral areas like Gazipur, Rupganj and Kaliganj, Savar, Keraniganj and Narayanganj will not enable proper development. This will ultimately increase the dependency on central Dhaka for accommodation," said Iqbal Habib, convener of IAB's working group on DAP, at a press conference held at the institute's conference room.

Iqbal said the government has fixed FAR based on the characteristics of an area. But it will have to be fixed based on estimated population and development, keeping equity in mind.

Besides, IAB also demanded withdrawing any opportunity for conditional development on farmland and protecting flood-flow zones, 65 canals and other waterbodies.

Such conditional land use will put Dhaka city in danger of even more waterlogging and will decline its ground water, said Iqbal Habib.

On August 23, the government published the gazette notification for the 20-year (2016-2035) DAP, which covers 1,528 square km of Rajdhani Unnayan Karttripakkha (Rajuk).

Stressing the need for decentralisation and ensuring civic facilities, Mubasshar Hussain, president of the IAB, said the pressure on Dhaka city will increase further if the government fails to take care of people in peripheral areas of the capital.

Alleging that Rajuk is an organisation commonly associated with bribery, DNCC Ward-II Councillor Dewan Abdul Mannan said this DAP will just further disappoint people.

DNCC Ward-14 Councillor Md Humayun Rashid said they want a DAP that will meet the demands of the capital's residents.

'Killing rivers in the name of balu mahal'

Environmentalists call for proper survey before leasing out rivers for sand extraction

RECOMMENDATIONS

Punish perpetrating officials, illegal sand lifters

Fix ceiling of how much sand, stones can be lifted

Implement existing laws to protect rivers

Seek compensation from encroachers

According to government statistics, different district administrations leased out as many as 256 balu mahals in the 2021-2022 fiscal alone. The government earned over Tk 235 crore by leasing out rivers. Few government officials are killing these waterbodies only for some money.

Government officials in many districts are leasing out rivers in the name of "balu mahals" (a designated place from where sand is lifted), without proper survey, said environmentalists at a seminar yesterday.

Saying that such practice ruins rivers, they demanded punitive measures against the officials concerned.

They came up with the demand at a roundtable discussion titled "Environmental crisis and vulnerability of rivers due to sand-stone lifting and environment-pollution".

Bangladesh Environmental Lawyers Association (Bela), Association for Land Reform and Development (ALRD) And Water Rights Forum jointly organised the programme at Dhaka Reporters' Unity.

while approving the lease if needed, she opined.

Addressing the event, Bela chief executive Syeda Rizwana Hasan said river erosion in many areas has taken a severe turn, as sand and stone extraction from rivers continues unabated.

As a result, vast areas of farmland, households and properties are being lost to riverbank erosion every day, she said.

Shamsul Huda, director of ALRD, said different government officials are leasing out rivers to protect the interest of traders instead of protecting environment.

He also demanded legal actions against such officials and illegal sand lifters.

Nagorik Uddyog's chief executive Zakir Hossain stressed the need for strict implementation of existing laws to protect rivers from grabbers and illegal sand lifters.

Tuhin Wadud, professor of Begum Rokeya University, said only evicting illegal structures from riverbanks is not enough. Rather, the government must seek compensation from encroachers.

Around a dozen of environmental activists spoke at the event.

UN for regulating use of antibiotics

Says health minister

UNB, New York

Health Minister Zahid Maleque has expressed concern over the widespread sale of antibiotics amid call from the United Nations to regulate the drug's excessive use.

"The UN has urged its member states to formulate policies and laws so that excessive uses of antibiotics can be prevented," he told the news agency in New York on Sunday.

The minister is in the US attending the 77th UN General Assembly.

"This year, UNGA held three sessions on health in which I had participated. The antibiotics issue, particularly antibiotic resistance, was widely discussed during these sessions.
