World food prices fall for sixth straight month: FAO

AFP, Paris

World food prices fell for a sixth month in a row in September, UN data showed yesterday, as the prices continued to decline since they reached a record high following Russia's invasion of Ukraine.

The Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) said its price index, which tracks the monthly change in international prices of a basket of food commodities, averaged 136.3 points in September, a 1.1 percent drop from August.

The index, however, was 5.5 percent higher than in September 2021.

The monthly decline was driven by a "sharp fall" in the prices of vegetable oils, the United Nations agency said.

There were also moderate decreases in the prices of sugar, meat and dairy products.

The declines more than offset a rebound in cereal prices.

The FAO said wheat prices jumped due to "heightened uncertainty" about the continuation beyond November of a UN-brokered deal that has allowed Ukraine to ship its grains via the Black Sea.

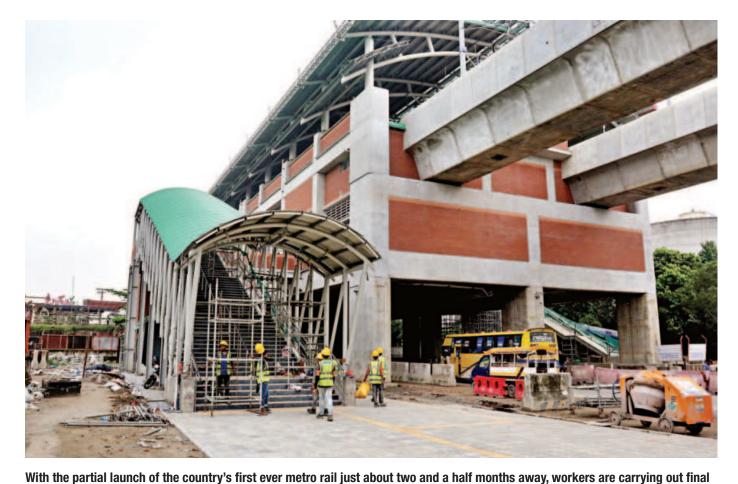

The deal lifted a Russian blockade that has raised fears of triggering famine in nations reliant on grains from Ukraine, one of the world's breadbaskets. Russia invaded Ukraine on February 24.

Dry conditions in Argentina and the United States have also contributed to the increase in global cereal prices.

The FAO lowered its world cereal production forecast for this year again, with a decline of 1.7 percent expected.

The agency said 45 countries, including 33 in Africa, nine in Asia, two in Latin America and the Caribbean, and one in Europe "are in need of external assistance for food".

The UN warned in September that more than one million people are at risk of famine and death without humanitarian aid.

Putin's nuclear threat brings world closer to 'Armageddon'

Says Biden; hundreds of bodies found in Ukraine's Kharkiv after Russian retreat

Russian President Vladimir Putin's threat to use nuclear weapons in Ukraine has brought the world closer to "Armageddon" than at any time since the Cold-War Cuban Missile Crisis, US President Joe Biden has said.

With his seven-month invasion unravelling, Putin celebrated his 70th birthday yesterday with fawning praise from some officials but little public fuss. That was a contrast to just a week ago when he staged a huge concert on Red Square to proclaim the annexation of nearly a fifth of Ukrainian land.

In a clear repudiation of Putin's record, the Nobel Peace Prize was awarded to group, Memorial, which Moscow shut down over the past year. A Ukrainian human rights group and a jailed campaigner against abuses by the pro-Russian government in Belarus were also awarded.

Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky said Kyiv's forces were swiftly recapturing more territory, including more than 500 sq km in the south where they burst through a second major front this week.

Meanwhile, Ukraine's Defence Minister Oleksiy Reznikov yesterday called on Russian troops to lay down their arms, promising them "life and safety." Biden said the prospect of defeat could Russia's most prominent human rights make Putin desperate enough to use nuclear weapons, the biggest risk since US President John Kennedy and Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev faced off over missiles in Cuba in 1962, reports Reuters.

"We have not faced the prospect of Armageddon since Kennedy and the Cuban missile crisis," Biden said in New York late on Thursday.

In the northeastern Kharkiv region where Ukrainian forces regained a large swathe of ground in September, the bodies of 534 civilians including 19 children were found after Russian troops left, Serhiy Bolvinov of the National Police in Kharkiv told a briefing posted online Thursday.

With the opening of Madhumati Bridge at the Kalna point, which will establish a direct road link between Bhanga and Benapole, there will be a major shift in the movement of vehicles, including those for cross border trade.

And most of the vehicles will use Bhanga-Narail-Jashore-Benapole road, experts and RHD officials said.

According to an RHD official, the distance from Dhaka to Jashore via Gabtoli-Paturia-Daulatdia-Magura-Jashore is 218km. It will be only 160km via Jatrabari-Padma Bridge-Madhumati Bridge.

In 2021, 475 cases were disposed, of which 76 were settled before they reached the trial stage. Till August this year, 346 cases were disposed of by the tribunal in Dhaka, with 36 being settled before trial.

Bangladesh enacted the Prevention and Suppression of Human Trafficking

Act-2012 to combat trafficking and protect victims. But it took the government nearly eight years to set up special tribunals - as mandated by the law -- to exclusively deal with trafficking cases. In 2020, the government also set up these special tribunals in Chattogram, Barishal, Rangpur, Khulna, Sylhet, Raishahi for ensuring speedy trials in human trafficking cases.

However, some 5,781 cases involving 29,181 accused were still pending in all seven courts as of June, according to the home ministry's database.

WHY SUCH A LOW

Experts and rights activists blamed the low conviction rate on the absence of proper evidence in the charge sheet, non-appearance of witnesses, outof-court settlements, the accused reaching a compromise with victims, and lack of expertise in dealing with
