

He never made it to the mosque

Pedestrian shot dead during AL factional clash in Munshiganj

A CORRESPONDENT, Munshiganj

Seventy-year-old Monir Hossain Mollah was going to the mosque for Isha prayers at Bokultala village of Munshiganj's Sadar upazila on Monday.

Unfortunately, he never made it there. He got caught in the line of fire during a clash between two factions of local Awami League.

He was referred to Dhaka Medical College Hospital from a local medical facility, where he succumbed to his injuries around 9:30pm on Monday.

Ten others have been seriously wounded during the same time, most of whom are currently undergoing treatment at DMCH.

However, not a single person has been arrested in connection with the shoot-out as of filing this report yesterday evening.

Monir Hossain's daughter Sonia Akhter was too grief-stricken to talk to this correspondent.

The clash broke out on Monday evening between the group of Ali Hossain, president of Ward-2 of Adhara Union Awami League, and general secretary of the same unit Suruj Hossain, over establishing supremacy in the area, locals said. There were a series of clashes, chases and counter-chases, crude bomb explosions and exchange of fire till 8:00pm.

said, "He [Monir] didn't have any political affiliations. But he got shot anyway."

When asked, she said they are yet to file a case as they are waiting for the body to arrive.

Hill razed for road

SIFAYET ULLAH, Ctg

A group of individuals has reportedly cut a hill by Chattogram city's Sarson Road to build a road, without getting approval from the Department of Environment (DoE), much to the dismay of locals and environmentalists.

For the road's construction, they cut a significant part of Joy Pahar, an old hill in the area, violating the law.

DoE officials confirmed that they visited the area and found evidence of hill cutting. The authorities issued a show-cause notice to the group.

During a visit to the area on Sunday, this correspondent found that the hill has been cut to build the 650-feet long road. Many trees have fallen victim too.

Some locals, requesting anonymity, claimed that the group is building the new road to make the hills accessible. After that, it will flatten the hills to make housing plots.

This hill is owned by the heirs of a person named Mozaffar Ahmad Miah.

This correspondent could not reach Abdul Kader, a son of late Mozaffar, despite several attempts over phone and text.

According to Bangladesh Environment Preservation Act 1995 (amended in 2000), cutting a hill without DoE's approval is illegal.

The punishment for breaking the law is up to two years' imprisonment or Tk 2 lakh fine, or both for first-time offenders. For subsequent offence, it is up to 10 years' imprisonment or Tk 10 lakh fine or both.

Mia Mahmudul Hoque, deputy director of DoE Chattogram's metro office, told The Daily Star that those who are building the road have been ordered to appear in person for a hearing at DoE office and explain why the offenders should not be penalised.

CHATTOGRAM TO PENANG

Body found in container yet to be identified

STAFF CORRESPONDENT, Ctg

The identity of the body that was found in an empty container shipped to the Malaysian port of Penang from Chattogram could not be known till yesterday.

The empty container, owned by South-Asia based main-line operator (MLO) Sinokor, was sent from private off-dock BM Container Depot to the port on October 4.

The vessel -- also operated by the same shipping company Sinokor -- left the port on October 6, carrying 1,008 TEUs of containers, and reached the Malaysian port three days later.

Chattogram Port Authority (CPA) Secretary Md Omar Faruk said when an empty container is sent from any off-dock, it is at first checked and scanned at the entry gate of the port and then checked again at the jetty before being loaded on the ship.

Narsingdi's Saturia gets lively with water lilies

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Narsingdi

For Narsingdi residents and visitors from its outskirts, visiting Saturia for sighting water lilies has become an ever popular activity. There are many canals and marshlands in Narsingdi where these pink beauties bloom.

From morning to evening, after managing a talpata and wooden boat, visitors throng the area just to get a breath of fresh air and behold the blaze of pink.

Many locals are also selling these flowers to make a livelihood. People are buying these lilies both for consumption and preserving its variety and beauty by planting them in their ponds.

Mubarak Hossain, a resident of Dewanerchar (beside Saturia), said, "I visit the marshlands with my friends to experience the scenic beauty. The water lilies attract visitors from far and wide."

Moniruzzaman Bhuiyan Jahangir, acting chairman of Belabo Upazila Parishad, said, "People are thronging a remote area like Saturia from morning to evening just to get a glimpse of the beautifully pink scene"

"If we can preserve these species of waterlily and our historical craft industries, this area can turn into a commercial tourist spot," he added.

Prof Mostak Ahmed, principal of Narsingdi Government College, said, "Many students and their guardians are thronging our pond where hundreds of bright pink water lilies have bloomed. Once upon a time, it was used to emit foul smell due to indiscriminate dumping of garbage."

"After planting the water lilies, not just visitors, many species of birds are coming here," he added.

Abdullah Al Kafi, former professor of the college's botany department, said, "There are many water lilies that grow naturally in the country's marshlands and ponds... but many of the varieties have gone extinct due to commercial fish cultivation and encroachment."

"I hope everyone will plant lilies in abandoned water bodies to conserve those," he added.
