Bashundhara's concern to buy 25pc CSE stakes

STAR BUSINESS REPORT

ABG Ltd, a concern of Bashundhara Group, signed an agreement with the Chittagong Stock Exchange (CSE) yesterday to buy a 25 per cent stake in the bourse in line with a demutualisation A demutualisation act was approved by the government in 2013 in a bid to break the monopoly of stockbrokers in the stock exchanges and ensure knowledge sharing with research-based strategic

ABG will buy 15.86 crore shares at around Tk 240 crore, with each share at Tk 15, according to the agreement, which was inked at the Radisson Blu Chattogram Bay View in the port city. Sayem Sobhan Anvir, managing director of

ABG, and Ghulam Faruque, acting managing director of the CSE, signed the contract on behalf of the respective organisation. On September 28, the Bangladesh Securities and Exchange Commission (BSEC) passed a conditional approval on a CSE proposal to take ABG as a strategic partner by selling a 25 per cent

ABG was registered with the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies and Firms (RJSC) in February

Thanks to the deal, the CSE found a partner four years after the premier bourse, Dhaka Stock Exchange, sold its shares in 2018 to take on Shenzhen Stock Exchange and Shanghai Stock Exchange as strategic partners.

The signing will link all that is missing to strengthen the CSE and the commodity exchange," said Prof Shibli Rubayat-Ul-Islam, chairman of the BSEC, at the event.

"The CSE has an eligible board which can run a commodity exchange with the help of a strategic partner, so it has been allowed to launch the exchange."

A commodities exchange is a legal entity that determines and enforces rules and procedures for trading standardised commodity contracts and related investment products.

According to experts, a commodity exchange allows farmers to lock in prices using forward contracts. This also reduces the risk of any drastic price changes.

Traders rarely deliver any physical commodities through a commodities exchange. Instead, they trade futures contracts, where the parties agree to buy or sell a specific amount of the commodity at an agreed-upon price, regardless of what it currently trades at in the market at a predetermined expiration date.

LDC graduation won't affect trade too much Senior commerce secretary says

STAR BUSINESS REPORT

Bangladesh's exports will not be as affected as feared following the United Nations country status graduation from a least developed to a developing nation in 2026, said Senior Commerce Secretary Tapan Kanti Ghosh

Bangladesh has the strength to avail a smooth graduation, he said.

Since the local exporters are staging a strong performance in the US markets even in the face of a 15.62 per cent duty, they can do the same in the European Union (EU) after the graduation, he said.

After the graduation, Bangladesh will lose its preferential market access to developing and developed countries, facing more than 9 per cent in duties on exports to the EU.

Ghosh is also not expecting too much from the initiatives of World Trade Organization (WTO).

According to him, the last WTO summit in Geneva in June this year, the 12th Ministerial Conference (MC12), failed to prove that it was an inclusive body, at least to the LDCs. The apex trade body's non-transparency also disappointed him.

"I was disappointed attending the ministerial conference of the WTO as it was not inclusive at the final stage of negotiations and was not transparent," Ghosh said.
