UN rights chief urges Iran as nations debate whether to launch probe

The UN rights chief yesterday urged Iran to immediately halt violence against protesters, as countries debated whether to launch an investigation into Tehran's deadly crackdown.

Volker Turk opened an emergency session of the UN Human Rights Council, where countries were called to discuss Iran's "deteriorating human rights situation" and determine if a high-level international investigation is warranted.

The meeting, requested by Germany and Iceland with the backing of more than 50 countries, follows two months of protests in Iran sparked by the death of 22-year-old Mahsa Amini, after she was arrested for an alleged breach of the country's strict dress rules for women based on Islamic sharia

"I call on the authorities immediately to stop using violence and harassment against peaceful protesters," said Turk, the United Nations' high commissioner for human rights.

Accountability is a key ingredient of the pursuit of justice for human rights violations," he told the 47-member council, urging the body to vote in favour of an investigation.

Afghan women protest on eve of UN day against violence; Taliban briefly detain three protesters

AFP, Kabul

INTERNATIONAL

More than a dozen Afghan women protested briefly in Kabul vesterday, calling for their rights to be recognised on the eve of the UN's International Day for the Elimination of Violence against Women.

Afghan women have been squeezed out of public life since the Taliban's return to power in August last year, but small groups have staged flash protests that are usually quickly shut down, sometimes violently.

"We will fight for our rights to the end and we will not surrender," read a sign in the Dari language carried by one of the protesters. They chanted "women, life, solidarity" as they marched.

Most of the group wore dark sunglasses, their heads covered with a veil and a surgical mask obscuring their Taliban fighters kept a close eye on proceedings, while cars carrying intelligence service officials circled the neighbourhood. Organisers said later that the Taliban had briefly detained three of the protesters, releasing them after they were "humiliated and insulted".

"The Taliban are very afraid of women's actions, even small ones... so they try to scare women into staying at home by arresting and imprisoning them," one organiser, who asked not to be identified, told AFP.

"Under Taliban rule, Afghan women are not recognised as human beings. Today, women cannot go to work, study, or even breathe

Most women government workers have lost their jobs -- or are being paid a pittance to stay at home -- since the Taliban returned to power. Women have also been barred from travelling without a male relative, and must cover up with a burqa or hijab when outside the home.

This month the Taliban barred women from entering parks, funfairs, gyms and public baths.

Schools for teenage girls have also been shuttered across most of the country.

Wednesday, officials telecoms in the central province of Uruzgan said women were no longer allowed to buy mobile phone SIM cards because shops did not have segregated areas for them to be served. The International Day for the Elimination of Violence against Women is usually marked around the world on November 25. According to the UN, violence against women and girls remains the most widespread human rights violation in the world, affecting one in three women -- a figure largely unchanged over the past 10 years.

Anwar sworn in as PM of Malaysia

AFP, Kuala Lumpur

perennial Malaysia's opposition leader Anwar Ibrahim was sworn in as prime minister before the king in Kuala Lumpur yesterday, ending a fiveday political impasse after inconclusive polls.

The ceremony at the palace closes the chapter on one of the most elections in dramatic Malaysia's history, after no party managed to secure a majority to form a parliament for the first time since independence in 1957.

Anwar's ascension to the premiership caps a turbulent political life, which has not only propelled him into the corridors of power but also landed him inside a jail cell.

"I. Anwar Ibrahim, after being appointed to hold the position of prime minister, solemnly swear that I will honestly fulfil that duty with all my efforts and that I will devote my true loyalty to Malaysia," the 75-yearold said while dressed in traditional Malaysian clothing.

INDONESIA QUAKE RUBBLE 'Miracle' rescue of 6-year-old boy

A six-year-old boy has been pulled from the rubble of a deadly Indonesia earthquake after spending two days trapped under debris without food or water, in a "miracle" rescue. The dramatic rescue captured on camera Wednesday evening revived hopes that survivors could still be pulled alive from the wreckage days after the strong tremor that hit Java town of Cianjur on Monday, killing 271 people. "Once we realised Azka was alive everybody broke into tears," said a local volunteer.

FOREST FIRE LYNCHING Algeria sentences 49 to death

AFP, Algiers

An Algerian court yesterday sentenced 49 people to death over the lynching of a man falsely accused of starting deadly forest fires in August last year, state media reported. The North African country has, however, maintained a moratorium on carrying out death sentences since the last executions in 1993. Onlookers had beaten 38-yearold Djamel Ben Ismail to death after he turned himself in at a police station in the Tizi Ouzou region. He had gone there upon hearing that he was suspected of arson, at the height of blazes which killed at least 90 people nationwide.

RECORD CASES Chinese cities impose Covid curbs

REUTERS, Beijing

China reported record high Covid-19 infections yesterday, with cities nationwide imposing localised lockdowns, testing mass and other curbs that are fuelling frustration and darkening the outlook for the world's second largest economy.

The resurgence of infections, nearly three years after the pandemic emerged in the central city of Wuhan, casts doubt on investor hopes for China to ease its rigid zero-Covid policy soon, despite recent more targeted measures.

The curbs are taking a toll on locked-down residents as well as including the world's biggest iPhone plant, which has been rocked by clashes between workers and security personnel in a rare show of dissent.

"How many people have the savings to support them if things continually stay halted?" asked a 40-year-old Beijing man surnamed Wang who is a manager at a foreign firm. "And even if you have money to stay at home everyday, that's not true living."

The streets of Chaoyang, the capital's most populous district, have been increasingly empty this week.
