

'Golden era' of UK-China ties is over Says British PM Sunak

REUTERS, London

British Prime Minister Rishi Sunak has said that the so-called "golden era" of relations with China was over, saying Beijing's "systemic challenge" to Britain's interests and values was growing more acute.

In his first major foreign policy speech on Monday evening, Sunak said Britain's approach to China needed to evolve and Beijing was "consciously competing for global influence using all the levers of state power".

"Let's be clear, the so-called 'golden era' is over, along with the naive idea that trade would lead to social and political reform," Sunak said in London's financial district, a reference to former finance minister George Osborne's description of Sino-British ties in 2015.

Some in Sunak's Conservative Party have been critical of Sunak, regarding him as less hawkish on China than his predecessor Liz Truss.

West Bank violence flares

At least four Palestinians killed; Israeli woman soldier wounded in car-ramming incident

AFP, Ramallah

Israeli troops shot dead three Palestinians in the occupied West Bank yesterday, Palestinian officials said, before a suspected car-ramming attacker was killed after wounding an Israeli soldier, Israeli medics and the army said.

The army confirmed its troops had fired on "rioters" who attacked soldiers in two separate clashes in the West Bank overnight.

The 20-year-old woman soldier was "moderately injured and evacuated to a hospital for medical treatment" following the suspected car-ramming north of Jerusalem, the army said. Jerusalem's Shaare Tzedek hospital confirmed the alleged attacker had been killed.

The West Bank has suffered spiralling violence this year, with near-daily Israeli army raids leading to scores of deaths – of Palestinian fighters and also civilians – while Jewish settlers have been increasingly targeted by at times deadly Palestinian violence.

In Kafr Ein, near Ramallah, two brothers were killed by Israeli fire, the Palestinian health ministry said.

A third man died of bullet wounds to the head fired by Israeli troops in Beit Ummar, near the flashpoint city of Hebron, the ministry said.

Commenting on the Beit Ummar clash, the Israeli army said it had opened fire on "rioters" who "hurled rocks and improvised explosive devices at the soldiers" after two vehicles got stuck during an "operation patrol" in the area.

Palestinian official news agency Wafa named the dead man as Mufid Mahmud Khalil, 44, from the Beit Ummar area.

The Israeli army said "a violent riot was instigated by a number of suspects," during "routine" overnight activity in the Kafr Ein area.

ANTI-LOCKDOWN PROTESTS Chinese cities under heavy policing

AFP, Shanghai

Security services were out in force across China's major cities yesterday, which for the time being appeared to have quelled nationwide protests calling for political freedoms and an end to Covid lockdowns.

The country's leadership faced a weekend of protests not seen in decades as anger over unrelenting lockdowns fuelled deep-rooted frustration with its political system.

A deadly fire last week in Urumqi, the capital of the northwestern region of Xinjiang, was the catalyst for the outrage, with protesters taking to the streets in cities around China.

The demonstrators said Covid curbs were to blame for hampering rescue efforts, claims the government has denied as it accused "forces with ulterior motives" of linking the fire to the strict Covid controls. By yesterday evening, a heavy police presence of hundreds of officers appeared to have been drawn back from the streets of a rain-drenched Shanghai.

All regions saw water extremes in 2021: UN

AFP, Geneva

All regions of the world saw water extremes last year – both floods and droughts – and billions of people had insufficient freshwater, the United Nations said yesterday.

Large areas of the planet recorded drier than normal conditions in 2021, the UN's World Meteorological Organization said in its first annual State of Global Water Resources report.

The report assesses the effects of changes in the climate, environment and society on the Earth's freshwater resources – limited supplies that are under growing demand – so they can be managed better.

"The impacts of climate change are often felt through water – more intense and frequent droughts, more extreme flooding, more erratic seasonal rainfall and accelerated melting of glaciers – with cascading effects on economies, ecosystems and all aspects of our daily lives," said WMO head Petteri Taalas.

"And yet there is insufficient understanding of changes in the distribution, quantity and quality of freshwater resources."

Some 3.6 billion people face inadequate access to freshwater at least one month per year. That is forecast to rise to more than five billion by 2050, the report said.

Between 2001 and 2018, 74 percent of all natural disasters were water-related, according to UN studies.

In 2021, all regions saw devastating water extremes, the report said.

There were record-breaking floods in western Europe and the Amazon, while water levels in rivers in Paraguay and southern Brazil dropped to an all-time low.

USAID
FROM THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

Request for Information (RFI)

USAID has issued a request for information to all interested partners—especially local entities and locally-established partners—who have the ability to implement a $10 to $50 million activity in the Cox's Bazar and Bandarban districts. The objective of the activity is to mitigate the direct and indirect socioeconomic and environmental impacts of hosting Rohingya refugees. Partners interested in responding to the request can find additional information on sam.gov and grants.gov. Please note that the release of this RFI in no way obligates USAID or constitutes an award commitment on the part of USAID nor does it commit USAID to pay for any costs incurred in the preparation of responses to the RFI.

USAID has issued a request for information to all interested partners—especially local entities and locally-established partners—who have the ability to implement a $20-40 million project focused on increasing access to finance for agricultural, micro, small and medium enterprises (MSMEs), as well as vulnerable and marginalized populations. The objective of this activity is to incentivize financial institutions and non-traditional lenders to provide loans to agricultural MSMEs using blended finance. Partners interested in responding to the request can find additional information on sam.gov and grants.gov. Please note that the release of this RFI in no way obligates USAID or constitutes an award commitment on the part of USAID nor does it commit USAID to pay for any costs incurred in the preparation of responses to the RFI.
