

Media’s role vital in ensuring child rights

Say speakers, 11 journalists win Meena Media Awards

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Media should give more importance to reporting on child issues, since journalism can play a vital role in making the country children-friendly, said speakers at Meena Media Awards yesterday.

Renowned journalists and academics also said the award has played a significant role in increasing awareness on child rights. Eleven journalists were honoured with the Unicef Meena Media Awards for reporting on child rights.

The award-giving ceremony was hosted by Unicef Bangladesh at a city hotel.

Unicef started the awards in 2005 after the popular cartoon character Meena.

Sheldon Yett, Unicef representative to Bangladesh, said the powerful reporting that is being honoured demonstrates the vital role that journalists play in bringing child rights to light and holding people in power accountable.

Editor and Publisher of Prothom Alo Matiur Rahman said media houses remain busy on different issues and reports on children and women do not get much attention.

“As journalists, we need to do more reporting on children-related issues to build a better Bangladesh in future,” he added.

Editor and Publisher of The Daily Star Mahfuz Anam, in a video message, said this award played a significant role

‘Crisis can also be an opportunity’

Russia-Ukraine war can shift the world towards green energy, say European diplomats

DIPLOMATIC CORRESPONDENT

The current global energy crisis caused by Russia-Ukraine war can turn into an opportunity towards clean and sustainable energy, said European diplomats yesterday.

“The current global energy crisis, largely caused by the Russian aggression in Ukraine, has affected us all. He said this at a discussion on “Green Energy Transition”, organised by the Team Europe Initiative at a city hotel. The event brought on board more than 150 people, including representatives from the embassies of Denmark, France, Italy, Spain, Sweden, The Netherlands, Norway, Switzerland and development agencies.

Whiteley highlighted the importance of the Team Europe support to green energy transition as part of the EU Global Gateway strategy.

MURADPUR CEMETERY

Renovation work drags on for 5 years

Even after going through the horrific experience of losing a loved one, families who had to bury their deceased relatives at the Muradpur cemetery faced another layer of suffering.

This is because the graveyard gets completely inundated after just a drizzle.

As a result, Dhaka South City Corporation undertook a development project in 2018 to renovate the age-old graveyard.

Since then, the modernisation work has dragged on for five years and the authorities have repeatedly failed to say when it will be completed.

According to DSCC sources, a two-storey building will be constructed on the south side of the cemetery. The ground floor will have a bathing facility for the deceased. The second floor will host an office room, ablution room, a toilet and the imam’s accommodation.

The graveyard ground will be raised through earth filling and the drainage system will be improved significantly. Besides, new boundary walls have already been set up around the graveyard as part of the project.

Visiting the graveyard recently, this correspondent saw workers filling the ground with sand to enhance the drainage capacity.

However, there’s a pent up anger among locals, as the facility has been closed for five years with no announcements on when it will be reopened.

Local resident Nazrul Islam said, “All of a sudden, they closed the facility for civilians some five years ago, saying it’ll be reopened shortly after renovation. But the work has been going on at a slow pace since then.”

Another local, Fazlur Rahman, said about one-third of the cemetery used to be under knee-deep water when it rained.

“So we were optimistic when the renovation work began, but we had no idea that we had to wait so long,” he added.

Contacted, Executive Engineer of DSCC (Zone-5) Saiful Islam Joy said the renovation work of Jurain and Muradpur cemeteries started together in 2018. During the Jurain Cemetery renovation, there was a budget shortfall.

As a result, in the first phase, only the Jurain cemetery was renovated. In the next phase, the work of Muradpur graveyard has started. “A lot of work has already been done. We hope to open this cemetery to public in the next three to four months,” he added.

SC grants Haji Salim bail in graft case

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The Supreme Court yesterday granted bail to Awami League lawmaker Haji Mohammad Salim, better known as Haji Salim, in a corruption case, clearing the way for his walk out of jail.

A five-member bench, headed by Chief Justice Hasan Foez Siddique, gave him bail after hearing his leave-to appeal petition challenging a High Court verdict that upheld his 10-year jail sentence in the case.

Salim is now in the prison cell at Bangabandhu Sheikh Mujib Medical University, where he has been receiving treatment.

Salim’s lawyer Sayeed Ahmed Raza said the apex court granted bail to his client on different grounds including those that there is no document or evidence in support of the charge brought against Salim of accumulating assets beyond known source of income.

ROHINGYA CRISIS, CLIMATE CHANGE

Unicef seeks $173.8m for children

DIPLOMATIC CORRESPONDENT

Unicef has appealed for $173.8 million in 2023 for the children in Bangladesh facing a complex humanitarian situation due to the protracted Rohingya crisis and climate-induced disasters — such as cyclones, floods, landslides and thunderstorms.

In a statement yesterday, Unicef said five years into the Rohingya crisis, Bangladesh hosts 943,529 Rohingyas in Cox’s Bazar, including 490,635 children. The refugees rely heavily on international aid and humanitarian assistance. As of August 2022, 26,043 Rohingya refugees had been relocated to Bhasan Char island.

Moreover, more than 8 million people in Rangpur, Mymensingh, Sylhet, Barishal, Khulna and Chattogram divisions (43 percent of them children) are affected by devastating floods and cyclones every year.

It is predicted that by 2050, one in seven people will be displaced due to climate change, said Unicef.

In June 2022, the northeastern region of Bangladesh suffered the worst flood in 122 years, severely affecting 7.2 million people, including 3.5 million children.
