treatment gap is huge," Helal said.
Besides, most mental health facilities are clustered in urban areas, particularly in metropolitan cities.
According to the action plan, the density of psychiatric beds in or around the capital is five times higher than that in the entire country, even though 70 percent of the Bangladeshi population live in rural areas.
Unlike countries in the European Union, there appears to be hardly any substantial mental healthcare service available at primary or secondary health facilities in Bangladesh.
Of all psychiatric beds available in community psychiatric units and mental hospitals,

Bangladesh has only one psychiatric bed for every 100,000 people, which is significantly lower than 52 beds for every 100,000 people in EU countries.
There were 0.13 psychiatrists per 1,00,000 people in Bangladesh compared to 12.9 for 100,000 in EU countries.
Helal also stated that less than 1 percent of the annual health budget is allocated for mental health, and medical training institutions keep less than 5 percent of the curriculum to teaching health professionals about mental well-being.
The new action plan was adopted to address these issues with four strategic actions, which include strengthening effective leadership and governance for mental health and well-being; providing sustainable, comprehensive, integrated and responsive mental health and social care services at all levels; implementing strategies for mental health awareness and risk reduction for mental health conditions; and strengthening information systems, evidence and research for mental health.

Speaking as chief guest, Health Minister Zahid Maleque said, "We will try to increase budgetary allocation as well as the workforce for the mental health sector. There is no room for taking the issue lightly."
High officials from the health ministry, the health directorate and other organisations also spoke at the event.

carrier, Azim said, "I want to ensure four things for Biman passengers. The first thing is arranging tickets at a fair price."
"I also want to ensure a good environment inside the aircraft, where the crews are well behaved. We also want to bring a variety of inflight food," he added.
The Biman chief also said he wants to ensure the timely dispatch of luggage and flights.
"I will not be able to achieve the goal alone. I will have to achieve them together with my teammates," he added.
Azim said Biman will also introduce feedback services for the passengers.
"Even 10 minutes before getting assigned the responsibility, I did not know it. At first, I was a bit confused. I have heard multiple times how challenging the job is," said the newly appointed MD.

"However, I have worked in different regulatory bodies on the policy level. Hence, I thought of it as an opportunity to serve in a bigger capacity. I have taken this job as a challenge and have nothing personal to gain from it," he added.
Azim addressed the diversity of skills that can be seen among Biman staffers.
However, the Biman boss also mentioned that there is a shortage of pilots for which the national flag carrier cannot use its state-of-the-art Dreamliner aircraft.
