

Second phase of Ijtema underway

STAR REPORT

The second phase of Biswa Ijtema began yesterday on the bank of the Turag in Tongi of Gazipur with sermons by Islamic scholars.

Several lakh devotees from home and abroad have joined the Ijtema. The number of devotees rose significantly during Juma prayers.

The second phase started with "ambayan" (general sermons) after Fajr prayers with the participation of a large number of devotees, including the followers of Indian preacher Moulana Muhammad Saad Al Knadhalvi.

The sermons were delivered by Pakistani scholar Moulana Mohammad Osman and were translated into Bangla by Maulana Zia bin Qasim as Maulana Saad did not attend this year's Ijtema.

Mohammad Sayem, coordinator of media for the Ijtema, said three

Robbed off a playground for 16 years

Even a year after renovation, Golapbagh field still not opened

According to the Dhaka South City Corporation (DSCC) website, Golapbagh field is the single biggest playground in south Dhaka. This ground was closed for 10 years from 2006 as construction materials of the Mayor Mohammad Hanif Flyover were kept on the ground.

In 2017, the authorities started renovating the field, which ended in 2021. But even after one year, the ground has not been opened to locals. Youths of the area are robbed of a playground and an open space for 16 long years.

The authorities said locals will be able to use the ground once a management committee is formed.

DSCC sources said a boundary wall and fencing, a gymnasium, basketball court, pavilions, dressing rooms, waiting rooms, walkways, a library and market buildings were set up at the playground for Tk 16 crore. It was done under a project, titled "Different Infrastructure Development of Dhaka South City Corporation".

The contractor of the playground's renovation work, UDC Construction, completed the project by the end of 2021 after extending the deadline a couple of times.

A lottery for allotment of 43 shops in the market building was also held on April 12 last year.

Arable land ravaged by industrial pollution

MOKAMMEL MRIDHA, back from Shreepur, Gazipur

There were very few people on the road. Even the shops and tea stalls were vacant in Gazipur's Dokhola in the afternoon. It seemed life was calm and peaceful for the locals, even though the reality was far from it.

The area lies under Mauna union of Gazipur's Shreepur upazila, the district that has several factories, accused of heavily polluting the environment.

Like the other areas of the district, there are many factories, dyeing and washing plants at Dokhola.

The vast areas of Mauna union's agricultural land have been ravaged due to untreated effluent from many of those factories, said locals.

"Ten years back, our fields were adorned with paddy and different types of vegetables round the year," said 70-year-old Azam Ali of Dokhola village.

"But now we cannot cultivate crops since our fields lost the ability to produce them due to the effluent discharge from factories."

"Almost 1,000 acres of land in our locality lost crop production capacity since the land remains submerged by effluent from the factories," added Azam.

Due to the sheer amount of effluent disposed into the canal from nearby factories, the canal overflows and submerges nearby arable lands.

Talking to this correspondent, Azam informed that the inundation has been occurring in their area ever since the Labalang canal flowing through their locality lost its navigability due to excess waste dumping.

"Let alone our crops, even the tins of our houses don't last for even two years. They get rusted due to chemical-induced air from the factories," said Abdul Jalal of the same area.

Haque Road, around one kilometre from the Mauna intersection on the Dhaka-Mymensingh highway, this correspondent saw several factories on both sides of the road.

Many of the factories have dyeing units and discharged liquid into drains covered with concrete slabs.

Ideally, the effluent was supposed to be treated and cleaned before discharging, but most factories don't obey the rule.

The truth came to light when this correspondent reached the Labalang canal.

A deep brown liquid was coming out from the drains and kept mixing with the canal's dark-coloured water, indicating that it has been polluted for a long time.

"Vast agricultural lands have been ravaged on both sides of the canal, stretching around 50 kilometres from Shreepur upazila to Mirzapur upazila's Bhawal in Tangail," said Khorshed Alam, a member of National River Conservation Committee, Shreepur unit.

"In the early phase of the pollution, factory effluents were being drained out through Labalang canal and straight to Turag River. Once the canal bed had filled up with waste dumped by the municipality and factories, the canal overflowed and the untreated factory liquid spread in the arable land," he said.

"We have been protesting the pollution for eight years with rallies, processions and human chains. However, none of the authorities paid any heed," Khorshed added.

ASM Muaidul Hasan, agriculture officer of Shreepur upazila, said in a rough estimate, around 350 hectares of agricultural land have been reduced in the last 3 to 4 years in the upazila. However, a vast survey is required to determine the exact picture of land loss.

"Not all factories, but dyeing and washing factories are the main polluters in

Foreigners' directive on democracy not welcome: Quader

BSS, Dhaka

Awami League General Secretary and Road Transport and Bridges Minister Obaidul Quader yesterday said the directives of foreigners will not be allowed as democracy prevails in Bangladesh.

"The talk of democracy does not suit BNP as they are the very party that destroyed it. We will continue with our democracy. The orders of foreigners will not be allowed to this end," he told an event at AL's Bangabandhu Avenue central office in the capital.

As per the directives of AL President and Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina, the party's relief and social welfare sub-committee organised the event to distribute warm clothes among the cold-hit people.

Quader said Hasina is trying her best to flourish democracy in the country despite various obstacles.

Terming the obsolete caretaker government system a "dead issue", he said the next general elections will be free, fair, neutral and participatory, while the government will discharge its routine work during the election.

He also urged BNP to join the next polls if it wants to change the government.

"The Awami League never hatches plots rather it has become the victim of conspiracies. The Awami League does not believe in the politics of killing but it fell
