banning the unplanned disposal of wastes around the riverbed.

Since then, wastes are being dumped on the highway, as the municipality has no dumping ground.

"Strong stench coming from the waste and fly infestation has made this residential area unliveable. We cannot even open the windows because of the stench," said Kalam Talukder, a local.

While most renters have chosen to relocate to other neighbouring areas, the elderly living in Dakshin Bongo Briddhashram -- just 100 yards away from the main entrance to the area -- have no other option but to live in this unhealthy environment, said Zakir

Hossain, director of the old home.

Meanwhile, kerosene is used to burn garbage, which is detrimental to the environment, said Dr Ekramul Nahid, municipality medical officer.

Contacted, Patuakhali Municipal Mayor Mohiuddin Ahmed said a dumping ground is being constructed on 16 acres of land located on the other side of Laukathi river in Lohalia at a cost of around Tk 27 lakh.

However, it's not possible to transport the waste materials as the bridge connecting the two areas is still under construction. "Once the bridge is ready, we will ensure that waste is disposed of in a planned manner," he added.
