“We heard the sounds of gunshots being fired from the Indian side and subsequently came to know that Babu was shot dead by the BSF,” he said.

2 BCL leaders

Rajib Hossain Robin, vice-president of Shaheed Sergeant Zahurul Huq Hall BCL, were expelled for breaching discipline and tarnishing the organisation's image, said a party press release yesterday.
On Friday, a Dhaka court sent the duo to jail in a case filed with Shahbagh Police Station after police arrested them from Suhrawardy Udyan for allegedly extorting four people while posing as police officials Thursday night.
Similarly on February 12, the BCL expelled 21 leaders and activists, 15 of whom were of the DU unit, for violating organisational discipline.
According to BCL insiders, they were expelled after being accused of mugging and fighting for dominance in dormitories.
Five of the 15 expelled DU BCL activists were also suspended by the university.
The DU administration is yet to take academic action against Emon and Robin.
“Following an investigation, we will take disciplinary action against the accused students in accordance with university rules,” said DU Proctor AKM Golam Rabbani.

the ECNEC's approval.
DNCC and Bangladesh Army (24th Engineer Construction Brigade) implemented the project at a cost of around Tk 1,012 crore.
According to the project details, the flyover looks like the English alphabet 'Y'. The previously four-lane roads have been widened to six lanes in view to ease passenger commute.
The main four-lane flyover runs from ECB Square towards Kalshi and Mirpur DOHS, while a two-lane ramp descends from Kalshi intersection to Kalshi Road.
According to DNCC, the project also includes an extension of a PC girder bridge, the construction of two-foot over-bridges, a public toilet, two police boxes, a 7.40km RCC drain and saucer drain, a 1,755 metre RCC pipe drain, a retaining wall, 3,383 metre communication duct, 8,00,000 linear metre sand compaction pile, separate cycle lane, and six bus bays.

The project is expected to ease travel among the areas of Mirpur, Mirpur DOHS, Pallabi, Kalshi, Mahakhali, Banani, Uttara and Airport.

India lashes out that their definition, their preferences, their views must override everything else,” he said.

Indian tax authorities raided the BBC's offices in New Delhi and Mumbai just weeks after the broadcaster aired a documentary on Modi's actions during deadly sectarian riots in 2002.
Jaishankar singled out philanthropist Soros, who recently highlighted Modi's close ties with fraud-accused businessmen run by ally Gautam Adani and suggested that while India was a democracy, Modi “is no democrat”.
Jaishankar denounced the 92-year-old Hungarian-born financier as “old, rich opinionated and dangerous” and someone who “still thinks that his views should determine how the entire world works.”
“He actually thinks that it doesn't matter that this is a country of 1.4 billion people -- we are almost that -- whose voters decide how the country should run.”
Soros has long funded projects promoting transparency and democracy, making him the subject of countless conspiracy theories and politically motivated attacks.
“People like him think an election is good if the person we want to see wins. If the election throws up a different outcome, then we actually will say it's a flawed democracy,” Jaishankar said.
The BBC documentary explored Modi's time as chief minister of Gujarat state during religious riots that killed at least 1,000 people, most of them minority Muslims.
The programme cited a British foreign ministry report claiming that Modi met senior police officers and “ordered them not to intervene” in anti-Muslim violence by right-wing Hindu groups.
The two-part series featured a BBC interview with Modi shortly after the riots, in which he was asked whether he could have handled the matter differently.
Modi responded that his main weakness was not knowing “how to handle the media”.
Modi's Hindu nationalist Bharatiya Janata Party says the two -- the documentary and the raids -- are not connected, but rights groups say the BBC raids this week show the parlous state of press freedom in the world's biggest democracy.

Rampal power price

“Also, the dollar exchange rate is about Tk 106 now, up from Tk 84 at the time of the implementation agreement,” an official said, preferring anonymity.
Recently, local conglomerate Bashundhara won a contract to supply 8 million tonnes of coal at $232.33 per tonne under the index of ICI-2 to reach the product up to the jetty of the power plant, a source at the BIFPCL revealed.
The Unit-1 of the Rampal coal-fired plant resumed production from Wednesday after a month-long shutdown caused by coal shortage.
The plant is still under a test run that started in August.
Though the plant has resumed its partial production, officials still worry about its uninterrupted operation due to the dollar crisis that may again disrupt the import of coal.

During a briefing session on Thursday, Subhash Chandra Pandey, the project director of the BIFPCL for the Rampal plant, said there is no substitute to coal import if the plant is to be kept operational.
“The coal used in the plant is of high standard and not available in the subcontinent,” he told reporters who visited the plant.
According to official sources, Unit-1, having 660 MW capacity was forced to shut down on January 14.
The authorities of the power plant were unable to open any letter of credit (LC) to import coal due to the dollar crisis.
After a lot of persuasion at the government's policy level, LC opening was allowed for importing coal and the supplier sent a consignment of 30,000 tonnes.
BIFPCL officials said the supply of foreign exchange required for import of coal for the plant is not under their control.

The official said another consignment of 50,000 tonnes of coal is also coming to the country soon.
With the current stock of coal, the plant can run until April this year, said the project director, adding that the unit-1 needs about 4,500 coal per day to keep it operational with full capacity.
“Unit -2 is expected to come into operation in June this year, and at that time it will require about 9,000 tonnes of coal per day,” the official of the project said.
He said though the unit-1 is now under test run as the BPDB which has a power purchase agreement (PPA) with the BIFPCL has not given the go-ahead yet for start of the commercial operation of the plant.

Woman pregnant

Rekha, mother of a four-year-old child, died because of the doctors' negligence during the operation around 1:00am on Friday.
She was 13 weeks into her pregnancy, police said.
Her husband Mahbub Alam, a labourer, filed a case accusing the hospital's Managing Director Rahikul Islam, physicians Arif Robbani and Ashraful Haque Mollah, and three others, said Shah Kamal Akanda, officer-in-charge of Kotwali Model Police Station.
The surgery started around 1:00am and as Rekha's condition deteriorated around 3:00am, the nurses took her to another hospital where doctors pronounced her dead.

“When I asked why she had died, the hospital employees threatened me with life and told me to keep quiet,” Mahbub told The Daily Star.
The hospital authorities and its employees fled from the facility the next morning.
Rekha's body was handed to the family members after an autopsy at Mymensingh Medical College morgue.

Quader warns BCL activists

Referring to the trials of the Biswajit murder case and Buet student Abrar Fahad murder case, he said, “Sheikh Hasina does not spare any criminals. Were the killers of Bishwajit and Abrar spared because of their Chhatra League identity? No.”
Quader, also the road, transport and bridges minister, said, “I have told the home minister that only expelling them from the party will not do. They will have to be brought to book. The image of the Awami League cannot be tarnished by a few miscreants.”
“Money launderers should also beware. Sheikh Hasina is taking a tough line. Nobody committing crimes using the party's identity will be spared. We are making so much progress and we will not let a few misdeeds besmirch it.”

Addressing the BNP, he said, “Games will be played in the election. Participate in the election instead of talking gibberish. There is no point threatening us. We will not run away, you will.”
“We will not deviate a single inch from the constitution [in conducting the polls] ... Forget the caretaker government.”
He also said the AL will hold different programmes every day until the national election.
Speaking at the rally,
