MEMORIES, MAGIC, MUSIC

JOY BANGLA CONCERT 2023

The story of Joy Bangla Concert 2023 was a culmination of bite-sized magical moments – whether it be Carnival's Bhrom resonating throughout the voices of thousands, or a couple of teenagers, teary eyed, experiencing their favourite band live for the first time. Army stadium, for one day, was Chirkutt's fabled Jadur Shohor in an instant, and Artcell's apprehensive Pathor Bagan in another. We present to you some select photos of a night where memories, magic and of course, music reigned supreme. Here are some moments that we captured during the show.

TV TALKIES

The IT Crowd: There was a time before smartphones?

Hailing from the times of button phones and dial up internet The IT Crowd is a true British comedy that is rife with early 2000s humour, but smoothly done. The story follows two IT geeks whose life take a turn when a female supervisor is sent into their basement. Roy (Chris O'Dowd) is the more social one among the geek duo, the counter part being a mixed awkward Moss (Richard Ayodade) with a side afro. The series takes on a beautiful reflection of dry-wit and office humour through the relationship that these two share, with their colleague Jen (Katherine Parkinson). Recorded in front of a live audience, the series sometimes takes on a stand-up type of atmosphere as the actors play for the camera and the audience. However, as the seasons progress, both the actors on and off screen find their dynamic and blend seamlessly into a funny, weird inventions and bad dates filled friendship.

WHAT'S ON THE GRAM

The SAG Awards concluded recently and there wasn't a shortage of beautifully decorated celebs. Among them, 90s girl-next-door Amanda Seyfried stunned in a beautiful emerald short dress. She had posted about her SAG awards look on her Instagram, thanking her stylist for the beautiful look. The actress was adorned from head to toe in a 60s inspired look. Her buffed hair was beautifully complemented by subtle eyeliner and a soft glammed face. In terms of accessories, the Mean Girls actress kept it simple with a pair of pear-dropped, emerald and diamond earrings from Cartier. Her outfit was complemented by black strappy heels and a similar diamond bracelet on her wrist.
