DIPAN NANDY and SAJJAD HOSSAIN

Fire Service and Civil Defence will start a survey to identify risky market buildings in the capital from today, said its director general Brig Gen Md Main Uddin.

“We will survey as per Bangladesh National Building Code (BNBC),” he said yesterday.

“A market, building or an establishment is supposed to have enough exits and entrance points, and fire safety measures in proportion with the number of people who visit or stay there,” he said while talking with reporters in front of the fire service headquarters, after visiting Bangabazar, which burnt to ashes in a devastating fire on Tuesday.

Main said fire service members, along with market owners, will conduct a survey and tell the market authorities about their next course of action.

He said, “We will start the survey from Gausia Market in the capital’s New Market area, and Rajdhani Super Market in Tikatuli, as we think those may be vulnerable to fire.”

In reply to a query, the fire official said they have a list of risky markets and buildings, but he could not immediately say how many are on the list.

“Fire-hydrant systems exist in all developed cities. But these mechanisms only exist in some Dhaka factories,” he added.

In a building, a fire-hydrant system is a safety measure or emergency equipment that provides

Quick work visa for right amount of bribe

7 recruiters bribed two Saudi diplomats Tk 154cr, finds CID

SHARIFUL ISLAM

A syndicate of seven Bangladeshi recruitment agencies reportedly sent Tk 154 crore to Saudi Arabia as bribe for two diplomats who used to work at the Saudi embassy in Dhaka. In return, a huge number of work visas were issued for Bangladeshi migration-seekers, revealed an investigation by the Criminal Investigation Department (CID).

CID has also found that the bribe money was sent through two money exchangers in the capital's Gulshan and Banani.

Owners of the seven agencies and an organised gang used to invite the two Saudi nationals to a Gulshan hotel, give presents and arrange parties for them.

In exchange, the Saudi embassy officials set a rule so that one recruiting agency cannot submit more than 20 visa applications in a week and an agency can submit Sources said the Saudi embassy in Dhaka started charging recruiting agencies $220 to $250 for every work visa about a year ago. The embassy stopped taking the charge after the two Saudi diplomats returned to the gulf country after they were suspended two and a half months ago.

applications only once a week, but exempted the seven agencies from this rule. These seven were allowed to submit as many applications as they wanted. The embassy used to issue work visas against their applications when the two officials were working in Dhaka, CID officials said.

Identities of three of the seven agency owners have already come to light after they were arrested in Saudi Arabia. The three are – ZU Sayed, proprietor of United Manpower Consultancy; Ashraf Uddin Akanda, managing partner of O-Sons International; and Mohammad Nasir Uddin, proprietor of Narcissus.

Six other Bangladeshi nationals – Alamgeer Hussain Khan, Shafeeq Al Islam Shahjahan, Al Ameen Khan, Zaid Uossied Mafy, Abul Kalam Mohammed Rafeeq Al Islam, and Aziz Al Haq – were also arrested in the middle-eastern country in connection with the alleged corruption.

The CID officials, however, did not disclose the names of the other four recruiting agencies and their owners linked with the crime. They also did not reveal the names and addresses of the two money exchangers for the sake of investigation.

CLEAN ENERGY Country needs $1.53-1.71bn a year to reach target: study

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Bangladesh needs between $1.53 billion and $1.71 billion of annual investment from 2024 to 2041 to meet the ambitious target of producing 40 percent of power from clean energy sources by 2041.

The Institute for Energy Economics and Financial Analysis (IEEFA) yesterday estimated the figure in a study, saying that the country's existing power system can incorporate 1,700 megawatts (MW) to 3,400 MW of solar power and 2,500 to 4,000 MW of wind power.

However, the total cost did not include the cost for grid modernisation and storage facilities.

The study, titled “Charting an Electricity Sector Transition Pathway for Bangladesh”, also mentioned that the country could manage such investments with the help of funding channels, including local resources and international sources like multilateral agencies, climate funds and global pension, private equity and infrastructure funds.

“The government should translate the renewable-energy policy target into a year-wise action plan, backed by a monitoring mechanism to track its progress,” said the study's author Shafiqul Alam, energy finance analyst at IEEFA.

Last year, high prices of fossil fuel and increased power generation costs led to a subsidy burden of $2.82 billion, a steep rise of 152 percent from the previous year, and 301 percent from fiscal 2019-20.

Besides, Bangladesh Power Development Board saw a massive 33.7
