No gas in Ctg for 2 days

Situation may improve today, to normalise within a week

MOHAMMAD SUMAN, Ctg

Gas supply has been suspended in Chattogram's residential areas, filling stations, and industries for two consecutive days, causing significant sufferings to city dwellers.

Many people have been forced to buy food from restaurants due to the crisis, while some have resorted to buying alternative kitchen items such as gas cylinders, kerosene, and induction stoves, which are being sold at higher prices.

The gas crisis was caused by the suspension of gas supply from two floating LNG terminals at Maheshkhali in Cox's Bazar since 11:00pm on Friday due to Cyclone Mocha.

State Minister for Power, Energy, and Mineral Resources Nasrul Hamid said it may take 12 to 15 days to start LNG supply, but gas distribution officials have announced that residential customers in Chattogram

However, gas supply to the residential sector was completely stopped from Sunday morning.

KGDCL has announced that it may take 6/7 days to normalise the supply, and many residents have reported difficulties in finding kerosene stoves or induction cookers in the markets.

Besides, gas supply has remained suspended at all CNG pumps and filling stations in the city since Saturday morning, resulting in a decrease in the number of vehicles on the roads.

Aminur Rahman, general manager (Marketing-North Division) of KGDCL, said they expect to resume NLG supply by Monday evening and that gas supply will return to normal within a week.

With the latest eviction, a total of 250 families have been evicted since Saturday night from Akbarshah and Lalkhan Bazar areas.

According to DC office, the families have been taken to temporary shelters.

Senior Executive Magistrate and NDC of Ctg district administration Md Towhidul Islam said, "We conducted the eviction drive in Moti Jharna and Batali Hill areas and evacuated 100 families. Despite the threat of cyclone, they did not shift to save themselves so we launched the drive."

"We have also identified 50 to 60 illegal establishments which are very vulnerable to landslide. We asked the local councillor to take steps," he added.
