NBFIs told to hold hybrid meetings to cut costs

STAR BUSINESS REPORT

The Bangladesh Bank yesterday asked non-bank financial institutions (NBFIs) to hold hybrid meetings wherever possible in order to cut operating costs and the use of gas and electricity.

The hybrid meetings, which involve a mixture of in-person and remote attendees, have to be organised by taking into account the importance of the meeting and the need of in-person presence, said the central bank in a circular.

On April 26, the BB instructed banks to hold hybrid meetings.

The BB came up with the move as a part of the government's austerity measures aimed at cutting down costs in different development projects and government spending.

The country is still struggling to meet its energy demand amid the ongoing Russia-Ukraine war while its foreign currency reserve has been depleting.

As such, the government has largely banned government officials from foreign trips, curbed the imports of non-essential and luxury items, and prioritised the implementation of development projects to ease pressures on the reserves, whose level has fallen by about 28 per cent in the past one year.

BSCIC to set up salt research and training institute

Aims to improve quality, quantity of production

SUKANTA HALDER and MOSTAFA YOUSUF

The Bangladesh Small and Cottage Industries Corporation (BSCIC) has taken up a project to enhance local salt production so that the country becomes self-reliant in meeting its demand for the seasoning.

As per the project details, the "Bangabandhu Sheikh Mujibur Rahman Salt Research and Training Institute" will be set up on a 30-acre plot in Chowfaldandi union of Cox's Bazar.

Through the institute, the BSCIC aims to train up 7,250 farmers and 3,000 entrepreneurs on how to produce high-quality salt, creating employment for about 50,000 people in the industry.

Besides, unemployed people and women will get priority in receiving the training.

Having completed the feasibility study, which indicates the initiative will cost about Tk 194.13 crore, the BSCIC prepared a Detailed Project Plan (DPP) that will be forwarded to the industries ministry on May 25.

After that, the finalised project details will be sent to the planning ministry for approval.

As per the DPP, it will take about three years to implement the project starting from July 23, 2023.

BSCIC data shows that Bangladesh currently requires about 23 lakh tonnes of salt each year, but local production meets up to 80 per cent of this amount while the rest comes from imports.

For example, 18.30 lakh tonnes of salt were produced in the country last year.

Through the institute, the BSCIC aims to train up 7,250 farmers and 3,000 entrepreneurs on how to produce high-quality salt

However, local salt production reached a record-high this year with 18.39 lakh tonnes having been produced so far thanks to favourable weather.

With the production season running from November to May, the lack of rainfall during these months has resulted in the highest yields seen in six decades of commercial production, farmers say.

Other than household use, salt is mainly consumed by fisheries, livestock, food-processing, soap, paper and glass industries.

As such, the demand for salt among industries has increased significantly with the BSCIC estimating that the sector will require 12.10 lakh tonnes annually in the next five years.

Likewise, the overall demand for salt will reach 25.30 lakh tonnes at the same time.

Md Forhad Ahmed, general manager of the BSCIC's planning and research division, said they are hopeful of completing the project on time.

"Land acquisition usually causes delays but there have been no complications in this regard so far," he added.

The DPP shows that the BSCIC already owns 1.33 acres of the required land while 17.24 acres were leased from the district administration.

Ahmed, also the deputy commissioner of Cox's Bazar, then assured that the remaining 11.43 acres of land would be acquired from their private owners in the quickest time possible.

HM Shahid Ullah, president of the Bangladesh Salt Farmers Association, said this is a really good initiative as salt is currently produced using unhygienic techniques.

"So, it would be useful for farmers if the institute provides a modern method," he added.

The domestic salt industry, which offers opportunities for direct and indirect employment to about 15 lakh people, contributes some Tk 1,200 crore to the national economy every year.

At present, there are 34,553 farmers engaged in producing salt across 67,751 acres of land in Cox's Bazar and greater Chattogram.

Bata Shoe profit nearly doubles

How to maximise return on savings certificates

JASIM UDDIN RASEL

What is the best investment area to maximise your return?

Considering the available investment areas in Bangladesh, saving certificates are a secure investment sector because these instruments are issued by the government and they will give you the highest return.

There are four categories of saving certificates but the interest rate is different. Let's discuss all of the savings' certificates.

Pensioner savings certificates

The interest rate is 11.76 per cent and this is the highest interest rate among the four saving certificates.

But this is not eligible for all investors. Only the retired officials of the government, semi-government, autonomous, semi-autonomous and their deceased family members are eligible to invest.

So, if you fall under the categories, it will be a good decision to invest your money into this savings tool.

Family savings certificates
You will get the second-highest return from family saving certificates. The interest rate is 11.52 per cent.

This rate is also not available for all. Only the women, disabled men and women, and 65-year-old men and women are eligible to invest in this category.

The investors who are not eligible for pensioner saving certificates may first invest in this certificate. To avail the highest return, you may invest money in the name of your wife or mother.

If the investment limit exceeds, then invest in two other certificates in your name. All are eligible to invest in these two categories.

Three-month profit earning savings certificates

The interest rate is 11.28 per cent, which will be disbursed every three months. If you require a regular income stream to meet your family expenses, this is the best investment sector.

Five-year Bangladesh savings certificates
The interest and the actual investment will be disbursed at the end of the maturity. So, if you do not require any return or money for the next five years, you may decide to invest in this certificate. The interest rate is 11.04 per cent.

Important points to remember
The total investment limit is Tk 50 lakh, it may be in one category or in all four categories collectively.

The interest rate will decrease if your investment exceeds the limit of Tk 15 lakh in each savings certificate. So, it will be wise to limit investment to Tk 15 lakh and then move to the next savings certificates with a view to availing the highest interest rate.

The tax at source is 10 per cent and it will be deducted at the time of interest disbursements. However, no tax will be charged if your investment in the pensioner savings certificates is Tk 500,000 or less. Now make up your mind to get the highest return on your investments.
