AL, JP can spend up to Tk 4.5cr each for electioneering

Some EC officials say they lack mechanism to check spending

MOHIUDDIN ALAMGIR

Although there are laws in place to limit the expenditure of political parties in electioneering ahead of polls, the Election Commission lacks a mechanism to monitor such spending, according to some EC officials. According to the Representation of the People Order, 1972, a party that has fielded over 200 candidates can spend up to Tk 4.5 crore. There are 266 candidates from Awami League and 265 from Jatiyo Party in the upcoming election. This means, both these parties can spend up to Tk 4.5 crore in campaigning. "The Election Commission caps campaign spending for a party in line with the RPO. Parties are already aware about it," said EC additional secretary Ashok Kumar Debnath. Besides, the EC allows each candidate to spend up to Tk 25 lakh for electioneering. Several EC officials said the objective of setting expenditure caps is to prevent the spending of undisclosed money ahead of polls. However, they admitted that EC does not have any effective means to check whether the parties are abiding by the law and spending within their limits. Asked, Ashok said, "I am not in a position to make any comments regarding the matter". According to the RPO, parties that have fielded over 100 candidates but not more than 200 can spend Tk 3 crore. Trinamool BNP and National People's Party fall in this category for the January 7 polls. The parties have fielded 135 and 122 candidates respectively. Parties that have fielded more than 50 candidates but less than 100 are allowed to spend up to Tk 1.5 crore. Bangladesh Congress has 95 candidates, Bangladesh Supreme Party 79, Jatiya Samajtantrik Dal 65, Bangladesh

Expatriates can be the face of 'positive Bangladesh'

Says foreign minister marking National Expatriates Day

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Expatriate Bangladeshis can play an important role in "branding" a positive Bangladesh across the globe under the government's public diplomacy effort, said Foreign Minister AK Abdul Momen yesterday. "I want to increase investment [in Bangladesh] and for this a change in branding is required. Our [present] branding is of a poverty-ridden Bangladesh," he said, adding, the world has yet to know that Bangladesh is going to be the ninth largest consumer market by 2030. He was addressing an event marking the first National Expatriates Day organised by Expatriates' Welfare and Overseas Employment Ministry at the capital's Bangabandhu International Conference Centre. Last year, the government announced December 30 as National Expatriates Day which was observed for the first time this year. Addressing yesterday's event as chief guest, Momen said as part of its public diplomacy, the foreign ministry has established "Bangabandhu Corners" at its 81 missions worldwide. The initiative's one of the aims is to involve expatriates through workshops and seminars with media, universities, and opinion builders of those countries throughout the year. He said many Bangladeshis have attained success overseas as professionals and businesspersons by utilising their talent and working hard. He urged them to invest their assets in Bangladesh. The government will provide all kinds of support and facilities for investing in Bangladesh, he added. He also said on an average, Bangladesh received $17.5 billion in remittance each year between 2009 and 2022, but the amount is not significant compared to the workforce sent abroad. One main reason behind this is lack of skilled migrant workforce, he said, adding, only 1.5 percent Bangladeshis in the Middle East are professionals. He said ensuring safe, orderly, regular and responsible migration is a duty of the government as well as other stakeholders like recruiting agencies and civil society.

Chairing the event, Expatriates' Welfare Minister Imran Ahmad echoed the same. The world will seek to hire people from Bangladesh if they are prepared with adequate skills training, he said. He emphasised that his ministry has ensured sending more migrant workers and called for relevant institutions to take adequate steps to increase remittance. Mahtabur Rahman, president of NRB CIP Association, urged the government to readjust interest rate provided for US dollar bonds considering rates provided in the international market. This can significantly address the country's ongoing foreign currency reserve crisis, he added. Foreign Secretary Masud Bin
