Kudrat-E Khulna unit president of SANAK (Sacheton Nagorik Committee), said the city authorities should have researched more before reducing a canal to a concrete drain.

Natural drain and concrete drain are not the same. Constructing a concrete drain means the canal will be killed permanently. A few years later, when the temper of the concrete will reduce and break down, the whole canal will vanish, he said.

Seeking anonymity, a supervisor of KCC said it is unfair and punishable to kill a canal. High officials who are involved in design and supervising should know the difference between open canals and concrete drains.

KCC Mayor Talukder Abdul Khaleque said, "The canal is already dead due to encroachment and pollution by locals. Now it is practically a drain and is beyond saving by digging it up. So, we will construct concrete walkways on both sides to serve public needs."
