A year ago, attending school was a distant dream for 10-year-old Alamin Islam.

Due to financial constraints, his father, a worker at the capital’s Postagola crematorium, wanted to admit him to a madrasa.

However, hope arrived in the form of “Alor Iskul”.

“My father admitted me to class one last month,” Alamin shared, excitement evident in his voice.

“The school provided me with books, pens, and paper just after my admission. They also gave me a bag, a school dress, a sweater, and a new shoe,” Alamin added.

This Valentine’s Day, the school also organised a programme where 106 students, including Alamin, received all the necessary school materials. Of them, 67 are in nursery, 24 in class one, four in class two, four in class three, and five in class five.

Under the initiative of the Shyampur Zone of the Wari Division of Dhaka Metropolitan Police, “Alor Iskul” started its journey in 2019 to cater to underprivileged children of Dhaka.

Khurshid demanded a fair trial for the incident.

SSC exams underway

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The Secondary School Certificate (SSC) and equivalent examinations began across the country with Bangla (first paper) yesterday morning.

During a press conference held at the International Mother Language Institute yesterday, Education Minister Mohibul Hassan Chowdhury urged everyone to refrain from using loudspeakers excessively during religious or cultural programmes.

He emphasised the negative impact of such noise pollution.

The minister specifically urged religious leaders to move away from this practice. Besides, he said cultural programmes should not be held during exam periods.

Breaking away from tradition, the new education minister did not visit any examination centres. He explained that such visits create a stressful and disruptive environment for students, causing “a kind of harassment, mental torture, and public suffering”.

According to the Secondary and Higher Education Division, a total of 20,24,192 examinees are expected to sit for their SSC at 3,700 centres from 29,735 educational institutions this year. Among them, 10,31,314 are girls.

Meanwhile, 14 candidates from Mukhi Pallisebok Bahumukhi High School in Mymensingh’s Gafargaon upazila could not appear for SSC exams because they did not receive admit cards, due to a mistake by the school authorities.

A total of 9,731 students were absent on the first day of SSC examination this year.

‘TRIBAL’ QUOTA IN MBBS
Admission of eight Bangalee students cancelled

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The nominations of eight Bangalee students for admission under the “tribal quota” following the recently held MBBS entrance tests for 2023-24 academic year have been cancelled.

These quotas will be filled by indigenous students who passed the exam, Prof Md Mahiuddin Matubber, director (medical education) of the Directorate General of Medical Education, told The Daily Star yesterday.

At the same time, the eight students have been show-caused to explain why they selected the quota, he said.

The development came following a report titled “Bangalee students in ‘tribal’ quota,” published in this newspaper on February 14.

He said five out of the eight Bangalee students who got nominated have already admitted that they are not from any indigenous community.

The admission committee is working to take necessary steps in this regard, he added.

The director also said they had already informed the principals of respective medical colleges not to admit those eight Bangalee students.

Something like this did not happen for the first time, as in 2017, four Bangalee students got nominated at the admission test for dental units of government medical colleges. After media reports, the authorities cancelled their admission and selected students from indigenous groups.

The MBBS entrance test for 2023-24 was held on February 10, and results were published the following day, revealing the selection of eight Bangalee students within a designated quota meant for indigenous communities.

HC stays leasing of 5 balumahals in Someshwari

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The High Court yesterday stayed all tender proceedings for leasing out five Balumahals (designated sand quarries) of Someshwari river in Netrokona’s Durgapur upazila till further order.

The HC bench of Justice KM Kamrul Kader and Justice Khizir Hayat Lizu passed the order following a petition filed by Bangladesh Environmental Lawyers Association seeking necessary orders to implement its previous directives on this issue.

According to the petition, Netrokona district administration floated fresh tenders on January 28 to be submitted by February 15 for leasing out the balumahals of Someshwari river, violating the Balumahal and Soil Management Act, 2010.

In response to a petition earlier filed by BELA, the HC in July 2015 issued a rule upon the government asking why the leasing out of balumahals in the river should not be declared illegal.

It also asked the authorities concerned to show causes why they should not be directed to declare Someshwari river as ecologically critical.

The HC also directed the local administration to regulate and monitor sand lifting in leased-out areas to prevent damage to the river and its ecology, and assess its impact.

Since the district administration further floated tender to lease out the balumahals even though the HC directives are still unimplemented, BELA submitted the petition recently seeking necessary HC orders.
