We can still limit temperature rise to 1.5°C: Saber

UNB, Dhaka

The window to limit temperature rise to 1.5°C is still open, said Minister of Environment, Forest and Climate Change, Saber Hossain Chowdhury yesterday.

"Climate change is an existential threat, but we have not yet entered the era of overshoot," he said.

Saber said this while speaking at the Munich Security Conference held yesterday in a panel titled "The unavoidable master risk? Addressing climate overshoot". He urged the developed world to honour climate commitments.

"If emissions peak by 2025, are halved by 2030, and we achieve net zero by 2050, then the worst impacts of climate change can still be avoided," he said. Saber said climate change is already exacerbating the existing social, economic, and geopolitical vulnerabilities, putting national peace and stability at risk.

He also said climate change is already causing more frequent and extreme weather events, which are leading to the displacement of people. By 2050, an estimated 13.3 million people in Bangladesh will be displaced by climate change, making it the country's number one driver of internal migration.

Giving a brief description of the country's overall development, she said they have made huge socio-economic developments in Bangladesh.

we focus on the development at the grassroots," she said.

Terming the BNP as the party of looters, she said the party did nothing for the well-being of the people.

She criticised BNP for not taking part in the 12th parliamentary election.

The PM claimed that BNP did not take part in the election as they knew people would not vote for them, and resorted to arson and killing.

She said the 12th parliamentary election held on January 7 was the most free, fair and credible election since 1975.

Crack Platoon shook the Pakistani army's confidence in Dhaka in 1971 with guerrilla operations, representing growing resistance against the occupation. It exposed that even the capital Dhaka was not completely under the control of the occupying army, which boosted the confidence of the Mukti Bahini.

The guerrillas stunned the Pakistani authorities by organising attacks in the vicinity of Intercontinental Hotel (InterContinental Dacca), on police checkpoints and electricity substations.

Habibul said Fateh was part of almost all the operations carried out by the Crack Platoon in Dhaka. He was born in 1949. His house on Hatkhola Road during 1971 was used by the freedom fighters, especially those from Crack Platoon.

After independence, Fateh became a teacher at Government Haraganga College, Government Tolaram College and worked with Bangladesh Industrial Development Corporation.

He was also a director of CSL, which provided logistic support as an associate to foreign companies doing business in Bangladesh.

Fateh was a pioneer of progressive socio-cultural movements and a believer of non-communal spirit, said Shahriar Kabir, president of Ekatattor Ghatak Dalal Nirmul Committee and brother-in-law of Fateh.

Fateh was engaged in several activities of the Nirmul Committee, advocating for the trial of war criminals, led by Jahanara Imam, and the restoration of the 1972 constitution.

Fateh was also the brother of eminent journalist, editor and freedom fighter Shahadat Chowdhury.
