

#FICTION

Dhaka 2084: Interview of a Time Traveller

The sudden appearance -- and the equally sudden disappearance -- of a middle-aged woman named Eli Kaizer, who claimed to be a time traveller has caught the attention of not only our city but the entire world.

Social media went raging on after her press conference, where she declared that she was a time traveller from the year 2084 and that she was a celebrated engineer from the future.

People debated whether she was an imposter, about her intentions, and particularly why she chose to open up to the public even if she indeed was a time traveller.

On the other hand, the few who believed her pointed out that there is absolutely no record or ID of her past;

no one could even identify her. Her supporters theorised that she was here to warn us about a catastrophe or disaster that would strike shortly.

Although many people considered this whole matter to be a publicity stunt, her disappearance has now added fuel to the fire.

After that press conference, Star

Lifestyle had the opportunity to interview Eli Kaizer. This publication does not endorse her story in any way. It is the readers' discretion to believe her or not.

And hence, we present you, Dhaka 2084: an exclusive interview of a time traveller.

Illustration: Sazzad Ibne Sayed

