

Endi cotton, raw silk, and toshor are also great handloom options for dusters. Muted shades like olive, khaki, sage, and coffee look earthy and elegant while fun colours like cobalt, claret, moss green, or terracotta will bring pizzazz to your wardrobe. You could take things up a notch by embellishing them with subtle embroidery or block print even!

A silk duster is elegant and perfect as evening wear. Opt for richer embellishments like zardozi, aari and dabka to elevate it and wear it on top of your eveningwear. Your ruby Jamdani will look so much more elegant and sophisticated with a navy or espresso silk duster replete with stunning embroidery.

You could also wear it with a brocade tunic and trousers. A plain black silk shirt and teal brocade skirt ensemble will be elevated on a whole another dimension with the addition of a golden duster on top!

The best thing is dusters are versatile and will stay in your wardrobe as a staple for years to come. It is an investment worth making, so go all out in terms of fabrics and embellishments for it is an absolute staple and timelessly elegant!

By Sabrina N Bhuiyan
Photo: Salek bin Taher
Models: Joly, Linda
Wardrobe: Sozpodor by Tenzing
Makeup: Nipun Makeover

