

SCC felling trees for beautification

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Sylhet

At least eight trees on the bank of Malnichhara canal in Sagardighir Par area of Sylhet city are being felled to facilitate a beautification project.

Sylhet City Corporation officials claimed these trees are too close to the planned guard wall of the canal, where the city corporation is expanding a walkway.

In 2022, while constructing the first part of the walkway there, SCC was praised for preserving all trees on the bank.

After two years, the walkway is being expanded at a cost of around Tk 15 crore; only this time, eight large trees are being sacrificed in the process.

According to an engineer of SCC, the corporation called in a tender for chopping the trees, and the highest bidder, who is also the contractor of the walkway, got the contract for Tk 20,000.

While visiting the spot yesterday, this correspondent spoke to a man who requested anonymity and claimed to have been subcontracted for the job.

The person claimed the estimated value of the timber was at least Tk 5 lakh.

This correspondent also witnessed that the guard wall was being bent to avoid the removal of a police box, which was also located on the canal's bank.

Nur Azizur Rahman, chief engineer of Sylhet City Corporation, said, "These trees are close to the guard wall. If we wished to save them, their roots would have to be cut, and this would eventually weaken the trees."

Asked about the design change to save the police box, which is in a similar position to the trees that are being felled, he said, "I will visit the spot and inspect the situation there."

Abdul Karim Kim, general secretary of Bangladesh Paribesh Andolon's Sylhet chapter, said, "Sylhet City Corporation has chopped over 1,000 century-old trees in the last two decades. It is necessary to investigate the reason behind the repetitive felling of trees, even after a new council is in charge."

When everything comes in polybags

Decade old law failing due to lax enforcement

PARTHA CHAKRABORTTY

In 2002, the government banned thin polythene and plastic bags, making Bangladesh the first country in the world to slap such a restriction.

The law states that, "Manufacturing, importing, marketing, selling, displaying for sale, storing, transporting, polythene shopping bags or any other material, which is harmful to the environment, is prohibited."

Although hailed as a major step towards reducing environmental pollution, the ban, however, was largely unsuccessful due to poor enforcement by the authorities concerned.

Almost 22 years later, the extent to which polythene and plastic materials are being used in marketplaces, one would hardly believe that the material was banned in the country. Polythene is everywhere.

Visiting the 161 small and large markets in nine upazilas of Bagerhat, including Badhal Bazar, Kachua Bazar, Signboard Bazar, Daibaggahati Bazar, Bagerhat Bazar and Khanjahan Ali Mazar Bazar, this correspondent saw all shopkeepers are using polythene bags to sell goods including fruits and vegetables, fish, meat, bakery, groceries, medicine, etc. to the consumers.

Once discarded, these bags eventually accelerate environmental pollution in a myriad of ways.

Packets of candy, biscuits and chips, mini packs of different brands of shampoo, single-use poly-bags, and packets of different juices were seen floating in canals, waterbodies and rivers in Gopalpur, Tangkhal, Sangdia villages under Kachua upazila.

A similar scenario prevails in all nine upazilas of Bagerhat.

"These polythene bags and packets are choking the waterbodies, and harming the fertility of soil," said Gouranga Kumar Some, a teacher of Kachua Degree College.

"Poly-bags are everywhere. It's beyond control in our country. I purchased several items including fish, potato, sugar, and puffed rice. Every item came in a poly-bag," said Abu Bakar Siddique, who was shopping at Badhal Bazar.

"Vendors say net bags or other environment-friendly bags are costly, so they give poly-bags and we have to use these," he added.

A shopkeeper at Badhal Bazar said, "There are more than 400 shops in this market and every shop uses around 1kg of poly-bags of different sizes daily."

Mahfuzur Rahman Mukul, Khulna divisional coordinator of Bangladesh Environmental Lawyers Association, said, "We are very much concerned about it. BELA filed a case in 2019 regarding single use polythene. It was said during the time that the use of polythene will be controlled gradually within 2023, but the reality is otherwise."

"The Department of Environment said they do not have sufficient manpower to control it. We have sent letters to every government department regarding the issue," he added.

Md Kamruzzaman Sarkar, deputy director of DoE in Bagerhat, said, "We seized 1,304 kg of polythene in January this year during mobile court drives. We are trying to raise public awareness against use of polythene."

Bangabandhu is a source of inspiration: Quader

UNB, Dhaka

Awami League General Secretary Obaidul Quader yesterday said that even though Bangabandhu is not alive, he is always a source of inspiration for the people of the country. "Bangabandhu's birth means the birth of Bangladesh's independence," he said.

He expressed his doubt over whether Bangladesh would have become independent if a leader like Bangabandhu had not been born.

Quader, also road transport and bridges minister, came up with the remarks while talking to reporters after paying homage to the portrait of Bangabandhu in front of Bangabandhu Memorial Museum at Dhaka's Dhanmondi-32, marking the 104th birth anniversary of the Father of the Nation and National Children's Day-2024.

Deep fake videos of BNP leaders being circulated: Rizvi

UNB, Dhaka

BNP Senior Joint Secretary General Ruhul Kabir Rizvi yesterday claimed a speech of the party's acting Chairman Tarique Rahman has been distorted with deep fake technology using artificial intelligence (AI).

He said the deep fake video is being spread through a few pro-govt online platforms and media outlets and being used for extorting BNP's well-wishers from home and abroad.

A group is also making deep fake videos of BNP standing committee member Gayeshwar Chandra Roy and other leaders, he added.

He said it in a press briefing held at BNP's Nayapaltan Central Office.

Rizvi said after an investigation done by BNP's IT department, they have found that a man named Nahid Rain, who has been accused of fraud in the past, is involved in making such videos with the help of Awami League.

Ruhul Kabir Rizvi demanded the immediate arrest of Nahid Rain.

Pedestrians, motor bikers and cyclists take to the footpath as the Ambarkhana-Chouhatta road in Sylhet city remains blocked for road works, obstructing movement for all. Meanwhile, locals continue to use the road amid risks due to the absence of an alternative route. The photo was taken yesterday. PHOTO: SHEIKH NASIR

ENCROACHMENT ON KUAKATA CANAL

A bad situation to turn worse

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Patuakhali

Residents of Kuakata Municipality in Patuakhali district have expressed concerns over construction of a new structure that they allege is encroaching on a vital canal. The structure, a large tin-shed house, is reportedly being built by an individual named Ali Haider on a newly-constructed box culvert at Kuakata canal, potentially restricting water flow.

A local gang has already grabbed both banks of the canal, leaving it shrunken over time. The west side of Kuakata canal has been filled up and taken over by some squatters, while a fish enclosure has been made on the east side.

The new structure on the canal will further add to its woes, said locals. The construction work has not stopped even though the Kuakata Municipality authorities, local land officials and upazila administration have been informed in this regard.

Contacted, Ali Haider admitted to have occupied the canal and culvert for building the house.

"There will be no problem with the flow of water. Drainage through culverts will not be affected. The municipal councillors, mayor and land office are aware in this regard," he claimed.

Md Taibur Rahman, councillor of Ward-2 said, "The canal has been encroached by some influential in numerous ways, including construction of this house. Encroachment cannot be prevented as land officials do not take initiative to protect the canal," said Md Taibur Rahman, councillor of Ward-2.

Contacted, ANM Muradul Islam, assistant land officer of Mahipur union, said he was unaware about the matter and higher authorities will be informed in this regard after inquiry.

Kuakata Municipality mayor Anwar Hossain Howladar also said the same.

"Action will be taken after inquiry over the matter," he added.

Contacted, Kalapara UNO Md Jahangir Hossain said the union land officer has been instructed to take action in this regard.
