

JAMURKI'S SANDESH

A hidden gem of Tangail

MIRZA SHAKIL, Tangail

When it comes to sweets, Tangail is mostly known for the famous Porabari Chamcham.

However, the Chamcham isn't the only good thing in Tangail in terms of sweet delicacies, as there are many hidden gems in the district that a person with a sweet tooth would love to know about.

One such hidden gem of the district is the traditional "Sandesh of Jamurki," which has a wonderful taste and mind-blowing aroma. Anyone who eats it once will desire to have it over and over again.

The popularity of this sandesh can be attributed to the use of milk and other pure ingredients to ensure high-quality standards for consumers.

Around 80 kilometres from the capital and 20 kilometres from the district town of Tangail sits Kalidas Mistanna Bhandar, right next to the Dhaka-Tangail highway.

During the British period, Jamurki and its surrounding areas were inhabited by Zamindars. One Madan Mohan Saha from the village would make sweets and sell them to the Zamindars.

After his death, his son Kalidas Saha took over the family business. Later, he started producing and selling two kinds of sandesh made with milk, sugar, and molasses (patali gur). With the passage of time, the reputation of his sandesh spread throughout the district.

Many eminent figures, including Bangabandhu Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, were impressed by the sandesh of Kalidas. This sandesh was among the dishes served to former President of India Pranab Mukherjee when he visited Mirzapur.

Even to this day, Jamurki's sandesh is ordered across the district during special occasions like weddings, Eid, Puja, Pahela Baishakh, etc.

After Kalidas passed away, Samar Saha, one of his two sons, carried on the family business.

During a recent visit to Kalidas Mistanna Bhandar, this correspondent saw the owner sitting in the shop and selling sweets along with a few employees. Behind the shop is the factory where the sweets are produced. Around 8-10 employees were busy making sweets in the factory.

Most of the customers visit the shop for its famous sandesh.

Milon Sarkar, a resident of Gazipur's Mouchak, said he first tasted the sweet when a relative brought it for him. Now, whenever he is in the area, he comes to purchase this special sandesh.

Only a few days ago, each kg of sandesh was sold for Tk 700. However, it is now being sold for Tk 800 per kg, he said.

Samar Saha claimed that rising prices of commodities, including milk, have resulted in an increase in the price of their sandesh.

"We use pure milk and high-quality molasses from Rajshahi. Therefore, if we don't increase the price, the quality will fall," he said.

Samar also shared that there is no other branch of Kalidas Mistanna Bhandar anywhere else.

Since the GI tag for Tangail's famous Chamcham has already received recognition, initiatives are already underway to claim the GI tag for Jamurki's sandesh.

Tangail Deputy Commissioner Kaiserul Islam said the application is currently being processed.

Malaysian authorities to improve the situation for Bangladeshi workers and ensure their labour rights are protected.

BCSM expressed concern about the situation of Bangladeshi workers who migrated to Malaysia for employment in 2022. The group claims that "extra migration costs" and widespread joblessness have intensified the problems faced by these workers.

Citing government data, BCSM said over 4,00,000 Bangladeshi workers have migrated to Malaysia since 2022 through a "syndicate system" operated by recruiting agencies.

Media reports, according to BCSM, suggest that between 1,00,000 and 2,00,000 Bangladeshi workers are currently facing difficulties, including joblessness, in Malaysia.

The statement concluded by urging the Bangladesh High Commission in Kuala Lumpur to be more vigilant in verifying and approving demand letters from Malaysian companies.

She also visited Hatiya, a climate-vulnerable island in the Bay of Bengal.

Accompanying the princess were Ulrika Modéer, UN Assistant Secretary-General and Director of External Relations and Advocacy at UNDP, and Swedish Minister for International Development Cooperation and Foreign Trade, Johan Forssell.

had decreased, but they were still worried about blood pressure.

"Then the whole night, I was no longer allowed to see Poly. At 4:00am on Tuesday, I was told that Poly's condition deteriorated. Then she was taken to the ICU. The doctors did not tell us anything about Poly's condition throughout the next morning."

"I called the doctor more than 20 times, but she didn't respond. Around 1:00pm, they told me that the patient had a heart attack and that the doctors had nothing else to do," alleged Asif Roy.

"Poly was bleeding profusely following both surgeries, but doctors did not take steps to stop it. She had chest pain, her blood pressure was dropping. There was negligence everywhere; they didn't care." The hospital said proper protocol was followed for both procedures and consent was taken from the patient and relatives at every step.

Following the death, the hospital formed a four-member committee to investigate whether there was any negligence, said Ibn Sina Trust's Senior Assistant General Manager (Administration) Nur-e-Alam Sabuj.

Sharmeen Mahmud, gynaecologist and associate professor at Bangabandhu Sheikh Mujib Medical University Hospital (BSMMU), performed both surgeries on Poly.

She told The Daily Star yesterday, "I have talked with Poly's relatives about this matter. The treatment that was given to Poly was according to protocol. An investigation committee has been formed from the hospital. Let them investigate and then I will talk."

BNP with Boycott

written statement, he mentioned that at least 63 parties, including BNP, had expressed solidarity with the boycott.

"The country's independence and sovereignty have been sold to stay in power. India is not on the side of the people of Bangladesh; it is on the side of Awami League," he said.

People believe India is responsible for snatching voting rights, killing democracy, disappearances, murders, and injustice, Rizvi alleged.

"People are expressing their anger by boycotting Indian products. The 'India Out Campaign' is now everywhere, including social media. This is not a political programme but a spontaneous movement of Bangladeshi people," he stressed.

Almost all the ministers are intoxicated with "Bharat Vandana", Rizvi claimed, adding, "It seems from their words and behaviour that Bangladesh has now become a satellite state of India."

given the recruitment notice in response to the demand of the ministry," he added.

However, Kanon Alam said the 2018 rules are applicable for this recruitment, not the 2019 rules.

A candidate for the recruitment test, wishing anonymity, said, "I'm concerned about the recruitment process. The circular says it will be a permanent recruitment, whereas the rules say the appointment has to be done through outsourcing."

"This might create complications after retirement in receiving pensions for those who will get recruited in the posts," the candidate added.

Md Azizur Rahman, secretary of the Health Education and Family Welfare Department, could not be reached for comments despite repeated phone calls.

distinct facial features such as slanted eyes, a flat nose, and a small chin.

According to the Population and Housing Census 2022, out of a total of 23,61,604 persons with disabilities, 1.08 percent or 25,505 are diagnosed with Down syndrome. However, there are no statistics on the number of children with this condition.

Parents of children with Down syndrome all have different struggles.

"When the doctor informed us about the condition of our son Ramim", his father struggled to accept the reality," said Ruksana Amin*.

"And one day, he left us. From then on, I raised Ramim alone, despite all the odds," she said.

"Over time, as Ramim excelled in his academic and personal life, his father realised his mistake," Ruksana added.

Raisul Alam*, a factory worker in Mohammadpur, is extremely worried about how to raise his daughter, Fatima*.

"It is hard for me to take care of her with my salary. She always stays at home because it's unsafe outside. Out of fear, we did not admit her to school either," he said.

"What worries me most is who will marry her? Will she find someone who loves her as much as we do?" Alam added.

Stressing that social stigma still exists regarding disability in the country, Prof Tahmina Akhter of Institute of Social Welfare and Research at Dhaka University said, "The first obstacle comes from family. Parents sometimes see the child as an outcome of some sin. The rest of society bullies children with disabilities and their parents, while also not allowing these children to grow up like other kids."

"The government provides a disability allowance. To avail this, a form has to be submitted through the civil surgeon. But many disabled persons are deprived of the allowance as their caregivers are not aware of it," she said.

Prof Tahmina also said children with Down syndrome are very talented and will have employment opportunities if they are given skills-based training.

"We have laws to secure the rights of people with disabilities. If these are successfully enforced, social inclusion will increase. At present, families are more aware. Earlier, the families used to hide their children with special needs, now they are coming out of the house and letting the world know," she added.

Mahmudul Hasan, assistant director of SWID Bangladesh, said generally, children diagnosed with Down syndrome have mild levels of autism.

"They may develop their own expertise in different professional fields and function well in workplaces if they are given vocational training and cultural support," he also said.

He recommended developing the overall curriculum and infrastructure of educational institutions, considering the needs of children with disabilities.

"Names have been changed to protect the identity of individuals."

many patients were told at the initial stage that they could be treated at home instead of being hospitalised. Later on, the patients' condition worsened. As a result, when they were later admitted, they could not be given proper treatment. Due to this, the death rate is high," Taposh said.
