14 die as truck ploughs into five vehicles

6 of a family, 4 wedding guests among the dead

STAR REPORT

A car and three battery-run auto-rickshaws were crawling in a queue to pay the toll for the Gabkhan Bridge in Jhalakathi around 1:30pm yesterday.

A small truck carrying furniture ahead of the car paid its toll and trundled on at the northern end of the bridge.

Then the car paid the toll to the collector. The moment it was about to accelerate away, an out-of-control cement-laden truck ploughed into the vehicles in the queue crushing them and the people inside them.

Eyewitnesses were stunned as they could only watch the three-wheelers being reduced to scrap metal.

The truck shoved the car into the rear of the smaller truck. The car was crushed beyond recognition and the smaller truck flipped to its side.

Fourteen people, including six of a family and four guests of a wedding reception, were killed. Twelve others were injured, five of them critically.

Md Mohitul Islam, additional superintendent of police in Jhalakathi, told The Daily Star last night that the trucker, who has been apprehended, claimed that his brakes had failed. He also said the driver did not have the licence to drive heavy vehicles.

ROAD SAFETY

Maladies every step of the way

TUHIN SHUBHRA ADHIKARY

The entire road transport sector has long been plagued by multifaceted problems, which are worsening every day amid sheer apathy from the authorities responsible for ensuring road safety.

Two major back-to-back crashes, which took away 28 lives in last two days, are yet another manifestation of these deep-rooted problems.

When it comes to the drivers of commercial vehicles, they do not just lack formal training, they are overworked.

A large number of the vehicles are unregistered and lack mandatory fitness scans, while the fitness clearances of many are questionable.

Meanwhile, safety audit is not done on most roads, while a large number of them are in poor condition and riddled with accident-prone spots. Illegal roadside structures increase the vulnerability of the roads.

The weakness of the regulatory authority and other relevant bodies tasked with enforcing laws and procedures only compounded the situation.

They not only face a shortage of capacity and manpower, but many of their officials remain involved in corrupt practices, perpetuating anarchy on the roads.

Meanwhile, some vested quarters, who have been benefiting from this situation, want to maintain the status quo for their own interests.

The Daily Star has come to this conclusion after speaking to over a dozen experts, road safety campaigners, transport leaders and officials of the government agencies concerned.

"We'll not be able to rid ourselves of this situation unless revolutionary steps involving political leaderships are initiated immediately. If we fail to do so, things will keep going downhill," Prof Moazzem Hossain, former director of the Accident Research Institute at Buet, told this correspondent yesterday.

On Tuesday, 14 people, including five of a family, were killed in a road crash in Faridpur. The bus involved had no route permit, fitness clearance or tax token, while the pickup it collided with was carrying passengers illegally.

Yesterday, 14 others were killed in a road crash in Jhalakathi when a truck ploughed through several vehicles.

The driver of the truck had no valid licence.

ROOTS OF THE PROBLEMS

Almost all drivers of commercial vehicles do not receive any formal training and instead learn driving from their seniors.

Bank Asia to take over Bank Alfalah's Bangladesh unit

MD MEHEDI HASAN

Bank Asia is likely to acquire the Bangladesh operations of Karachi-based Bank Alfalah, according to information disclosed to the Pakistan Stock Exchange yesterday.

The disclosure, by Bank Alfalah itself, said its board approved in principle the non-binding offer given by Bank Asia to take over Bank Alfalah's Bangladesh operations, subject to compliance of all applicable laws and regulations as well as the necessary regulatory approvals.

"We will now seek approval from the State Bank of Pakistan for Bank Asia to commence due diligence on Bank Alfalah, Bangladesh," the bank said in the disclosure.

Bank Asia Managing Director Sohail RK Hussain said negotiations are still underway.

"But it is not linked to the ongoing discussion about the merger of some weak banks [with other banks]," he told The Daily Star yesterday.

He added that Bank Alfalah's Bangladesh unit is running smoothly.

Bank Asia's board will convene a meeting on Sunday,

Witnesses and sources said six of the deceased were in the auto-rickshaws. The fourteenth person to have died, Shahidul Islam, was asking for alms on the side of the road.

Of the six killed in the auto-rickshaws, four on two vehicles were going to the wedding reception.

Nazrul Islam, 35, was one of the four. Nazrul's mother Mira Begum was inconsolable after she saw her son's body.

Cattle farmers of Bara Khalisha village in Khulna's Dacope upazila have built small canopies on their field to shelter the cows from the scorching sun. The intense heat has caused surrounding waterbodies to dry up, prompting the farmers to collect water from other places to keep the cows hydrated and healthy.
