Rizwana vows stern action against corruption

BSS, Dhaka

yesterday warned that stern action will be taken if anyone from her ministry is found involved in corruption.

She made the remarks while exchanging views with the officials at the Forest Department.

Rizwana said the Wildlife Crime Control Unit should monitor bird markets at Katabon regularly.

"Legal action should be taken against all types of illegal bird trade and against traders who are cruel to animals," she said. She sought cooperation from students to this end. Earlier, the adviser visited the DOE and gave instructions to take effective steps against hill razing and river pollution.

She also urged for transparency and accountability from the DoE, including in the issuing of environmental clearance.

Students paint walls for a secular Bangladesh

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Bagerhat

A group of Khulna University students started a painting project on the walls of the Kachua Upazila Parishad in Bagerhat.

Led by KU student Fariha Khan, in collaboration with other local institutions, the project seeks to reflect the rich cultural heritage and inclusive values of Bangladesh. Parmita Farhim, another student from KU, said, "We are not doing this to promote any political agenda. Our only aim is to contribute towards a Bangladesh where everyone is treated equally, regardless of their religion or ethnicity.'

The paintings, which depict various symbols of national unity -- include motifs representing the different secularism."

religious and cultural traditions of Bangladesh.

Zuhayd Siddique, a student from Government Brajalal College who is also part of the team, said, "In these times of division and discord, we believe it is important to remind everyone of our shared values. The paintings are our way of contributing to the national discourse on unity and

TRAFFIC MANAGEMENT Buet gives safety items to students

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Students, alumni, and teachers from Bangladesh University of Engineering and Technology have distributed essential safety equipment to the studentvolunteers engaged in managing traffic on the roads.

The student-volunteers were given safety vests, traffic buttons, laser lights, whistles, umbrellas, glucose and food at different locations in Dhaka including Buet, Dhaka University, Shahbagh, Science Lab, Dhanmondi, Farmgate, Mohammadpur, Adabor, Shyamoli, Technical, Mirpur, Badda, and Banani, said a press release.

So far, around 500 safety vests, 50 laser lights, 85 buttons, 132 umbrellas, 170 whistles, and food materials have been distributed since August 7, said the organisers under the banner of "Reform Bangladesh: Intelligent and Safe Mobility for All".

If necessary, more will be provided, the release added.

Chittaranjan Das, DSCC ward-5 councillor, said they have been conducting garbage management and mosquito control activities over the phone since August 7.

However, 28 other services are not functional currently, he added.

"We are waiting for the direction of the interim government, as without security we can't join the office," said Chittaranjan, whose office was vandalised and looted.

Chittaranjan said their insecurity derives from the non-operation of the local

Five killed in Dhaka

Some people rescued and took them to Jatrabari for the last couple of days. Police Station, said Samrat Sheikh, a scout member who was discharging duty at the police station.

Of them, two were taken to DMCH, where doctors declared them dead, said Bachchu Mia. Later, people brought the other youth's body to DMCH in the afternoon.

Samrat said they came to know that locals beat them up over an allegation that the three youths raped a woman, tying up her husband in the hotel.

Shilpi Akhter, mother Yasin, denied allegation.

"Yasin was working as a volunteer on the streets On Tuesday morning, he left the house at Dhalpur Boubazar, saying he would work at night. An unknown caller called me this morning saying Yasin's condition was not good, and told me to go to Jatrabari Police Station. I immediately went there and found Yasin in serious condition," she said.

Shilpi said her son was still able to speak while being taken to the hospital.

"My son told me that they were beaten on false charges. They did not commit any crime," she
