Mymensingh-bound vehicle from Phulpur skidded off the road and fell into a roadside ditch in the Tarakanda area.
Abdur Rouf, 35, of Rupchandrapur in Tarakanda, died on the spot, said OC Md Wazed Ali of Tarakanda Police Station.
Two others — Rahat Mia, 32, and five-month old Tamim — died at Mymensingh Medical College Hospital.

The injured — Taslima Akter, 20, mother of the child, and her elder sister Tanjila, 25 — were admitted to the hospital.
In another accident, an unidentified motorcyclist was killed and two of his co-riders were injured as the bike plunged into a ditch beside Mymensingh-Phulbaria road in Laxmipur area of Phulbaria.

In Panchagarh, a schoolgirl died as a tractor ran her over on Debiganj Bhaulaganj road in Sabujpara of Debiganj upazila.
The deceased — Sneha Moni, 9, daughter of Shahinur Islam of Sabujpara — was a student of class III at Taltola Sher-e-Bangla Government Primary School. Aggrieved locals set the tractor on fire and handed the 17-year-old driver to police.

In Thakurgaon, a man was killed after a microbus hit him on Ranishankoil-Balliadangi road in Nekmarad area, said police.
The deceased is Raisul Islam, 25, from Dinajpur.

lives in a rented house in Khagrachhari town, though their village is in Matiranga upazila.
"My family moved to town for me and my siblings' education," Sujan said.
Sujan's relative, Ranjit Tripura, who was by his side at the hospital, shared that Sujan had been rushed to Khagrachhari Sadar Hospital for initial treatment on Thursday last night.
"They referred him to CMCH, and we admitted him here at 4:30am today [Friday]," he said.
Saad, an on-duty doctor at CMCH, said, "Sujan's condition is stable. We cleaned and bandaged his wounds. We will clean the injured area regularly until it heals."

CMCH Director Brig Gen Taslim Uddin said that all the patients brought in from the Khagrachhari incident are out of danger.
"We are providing them with the best possible care," he said.
Earlier, hours after arson attacks and violence in the district, three indigenous people died of their injuries at a hospital in Khagrachhari on Thursday and early yesterday.

Many questioned how students can assume the role of oath administrators to senior university officials.
In separate statements yesterday, both university authorities and the anti-discrimination student movement coordinators claimed it was all just a "misunderstanding".
According to both sides, the unexpected oath was a spontaneous moment during what was meant to be a harmless views-exchange session.
Polash said, "After discussing the July revolution, we merely requested them to take an oath in the spirit of the uprising. There was no intent to disrespect the teachers."

He also apologised to the university officials "as a gesture of goodwill".
Meanwhile, the pro-VC blamed "over-enthusiasm".
"It happened in the excitement of the moment, and we are embarrassed by the situation," he said, before adding that an official press note had been released to clear the air.
In the official statement signed by the university's acting registrar Syed Solim Md Abdul Kadir, the authorities said the oath was never intended to be a formal ceremony.
"The students have since sought forgiveness, and both sides have moved on," read the official statement.

journalist?" he said.
"Neither Billal nor I could understand why they beat him. We don't even know them," added Arif.
At one point, Billal ran to save himself from the beating. Later, Arif took him to the 300-bed hospital with the help of locals, where he received primary treatment, he said.
Billal was later treated at a local private hospital.
While talking to this newspaper, journalist Billal Hossain said, "I often drink tea there. Suddenly some people came and beat me up severely. But I don't even know them."
Nazrul Islam, officer-in-charge of Narayanganj Sadar Model Police Station, said police are looking for those who attacked the journalist.

A youth platform

"A member must also be a supporter of the mass uprising. Besides, we don't want anyone from the fascist regime," he added.
Samanta explained the "Bangladesh Cause," saying, "While we may have differing beliefs and political ideologies, all state institutions and forces must function properly, with accountability ensured. Everyone should align on constitutional matters. This collective vision for building a new Bangladesh is what we refer to as the Bangladesh Cause."
The platform believes a fresh political settlement is necessary as the post-1971 and post-1990 political systems have failed.
"Once we can bring together these various perspectives, we can begin to envision a new political settlement. We're engaging with different groups involved in the movement, working to unite them so we can seize this opportunity," added Nasir.
Meanwhile, in Chattogram, indigenous people held a demonstration at the Cheragi Pahar intersection yesterday morning, demanding justice for the attacks.
They gathered at Jamal Khan intersection around 10:00am, before marching to Cheragi Pahar, where they held a rally at 11:00am.
Speakers at the rally accused vested interests of attempting to disturb peace in the Hill Tracts by fuelling conflicts between "indigenous people and settlers".
On Thursday night, students at Chittagong University (CU) held a torchlight procession and formed a human chain at the university's zero point in solidarity with the victims of the attacks.

However, they anticipate challenges from established political parties.
"Conflicts may arise if our proposals differ from theirs," said Samanta, "but we will keep the doors open for dialogue," she added.
The platform has expressed concerns over law enforcement and mob justice, urging the government to restore public trust.
Nasir said, "The law enforcement agencies must reconnect with the people. We also need to build an organised political community to stop mob-justice."
In addition to political reforms, the committee is advocating for a media commission to reform the media sector, which they see as crucial for maintaining communication between the government and the public.
Nasir said the committee plans to operate on three fronts — cultural, political, and social — while emphasising the need for young leadership.
He also noted that they are considering to form a Constituent Assembly to address constitutional issues.
Nasir concluded, "The people united during the uprising with a one-point demand. We believe they can unite again to protect future generations and create a new political and social system."

Contacted, Additional Deputy Commissioner (Motijheel Zone) Rezwanul Islam said, "The altercation took place between the followers of the former Khatib and the current Imam. I have heard that the former Khatib had been absent for a long time. When he returned to lead the Friday prayers today [yesterday], another group opposed him, which resulted in the scuffle."

Police said they, along with Rab and the army, arrived at the scene and brought the situation under control.

toll has reached 124, and the number of cases has risen to 2,22,65. In the first 20 days of September alone, 9,424 cases were recorded, up from 6,521 in August.
At Suhrawardy Hospital, associate professor HM Nazmul Ahsan reported that all 100 beds in the hospital's two dengue wards were filled by Thursday night, leaving no space for new admissions.
Many patients had to be turned away on Friday due to the shortage.
In response, the hospital has decided to open two additional dengue wards from Saturday.
"We expect the number of patients to rise further in the coming days, and the bed shortage will likely worsen," Nazmul warned.
DGHS data shows that the highest number of dengue patients is currently undergoing treatment at Dhaka Medical College Hospital (118), followed by Mitford Hospital (104), Mugda Hospital (98), and Suhrawardy Hospital (101).
HM Nazmul Ahsan urged all to consult doctors at the first sign of fever and perform a complete blood count test on the third and fourth day, even if the NSI test comes back negative.
He also warned of dengue's danger signs, including nausea, abdominal pain, and reduced urination, stressing the importance of hydration for those recovering at home.
