

PARIS AID CONFERENCE $1b raised for Lebanon

AFP, Paris

A Paris conference on aid for conflict-stricken Lebanon raised around $1 billion yesterday but saw little diplomatic progress as fighting continues between Israel and Hezbollah.

"In total, we have jointly gathered $800 million in humanitarian aid," French Foreign Minister Jean-Noel Barrot told the conference closed.

He added that there was a further "$200 million for the security forces," bringing the total to "almost a billion, even more than a billion... with the latest contributions".

The total far outstrips both France's target of 500 million euros and the 400 million originally requested by the UN for Lebanon, where Barrot said over 2,500 people had been killed and "almost one million" displaced in fighting since late September.

Israel launched a ground offensive against Iran-backed Hezbollah in southern Lebanon after a year of exchanging fire over the border following Hamas' October 7, 2023 attack.

But while there were repeated calls for a ceasefire, diplomatic progress in Paris was limited by the absence of key players Israel and Iran, while America was represented only by a deputy to Secretary of State Antony Blinken.

"We have risen to the occasion" with financial support, Barrot told participants, with major pledges including 100 million euros ($108 million) from France, 95 million from Germany and at least 15 million pounds ($20 million) from Britain.

Nevertheless, "we cannot limit ourselves to a humanitarian and security response... we have to bring about a diplomatic solution," he added.

BACK TO 2006?

France, which has historic ties to Lebanon and hosts a large Lebanese diaspora, is pushing alongside the US for a 21-day ceasefire to give space to find a more lasting truce.

Paris wants a return to UN Security Council Resolution 1701, which sealed the end of the last Israel-Hezbollah war in 2006.

"The war must end as soon as possible, there must be a ceasefire in Lebanon," President Emmanuel Macron said sitting alongside the country's Prime Minister Najib Mikati.

Middle East on brink of full-scale war: Putin

AFP, Kazan

Russian President Vladimir Putin told a BRICS summit on Thursday that the Middle East was on the verge of full-scale war.

"The military action that started a year ago in Gaza has now spread to Lebanon. Other countries in the region are also affected," Putin told a meeting in Kazan attended by several world leaders.

"The level of confrontation between Israel and Iran has sharply risen. This is all reminiscent of a chain reaction and puts the whole Middle East on the verge of full-scale war," Putin said.

Violence in the Middle East will not end until the creation of an independent Palestinian state, Putin said at the summit, attended by Palestinian leader Mahmoud Abbas.

"The key demand for restoring peace and stability on Palestinian territories is carrying out the two-state formula approved by the UN Security Council and General Assembly," the Russian president said.

He added that this would be "correcting the historical injustice towards the Palestinian people".

"Until this question is resolved, it will not be possible to break the vicious circle of violence."

Overnight raids rock Beirut

3 Lebanese troops killed; residential complex levelled:
Hezbollah fires rockets at north Israel

AFP, Beirut

Israel conducted at least 17 raids overnight that levelled six buildings, according to Lebanon's official National News Agency, sending a huge ball of fire enveloped in a tower of smoke soaring into the night sky.

The Lebanese army said yesterday that three of its soldiers were killed by Israeli fire while carrying out a rescue operation in the south where Israel is fighting Hezbollah.

"The Israeli enemy targeted

Lebanese army personnel in the vicinity of Yater village, in the Bint Jbeil area of the south, while carrying out an operation to evacuate wounded, which led to the deaths of three martyrs, including an officer," an army statement said.

Lebanon's official National News Agency (NNA) reported an unspecified number of dead in a strike "on a house in Yater". It said paramedics were wounded when the Israeli air force struck a second time as they tried "to rescue the casualties".

The NNA also reported "a new wave of Israeli attacks on villages" in the southern districts of Tyre and Bint Jbeil overnight.

The Israeli military said yesterday it hit Hezbollah weapons production facilities in the group's south Beirut bastion.

In south Lebanon, also a stronghold of Hezbollah, the group said its fighters were clashing at close range with Israeli troops in a border village.

BNP won't sit idle

Jagrata Bangladesh organised the discussion titled "The responsibilities of the interim government and political parties in the current context of the country".

Gayeshwar questioned how so many Awami League leaders crossed the border and went abroad. "Who encouraged and assisted them in escaping? Who will answer for this? Who gave the criminals the opportunity to escape without facing justice? What will be the government's answer to this question?"

The BNP leader called upon the party leaders and activists to remain vigilant to prevent a constitutional crisis in the country.

The interim government on Wednesday night banned Pro-Awami League student body Chhatra League.

The home ministry issued a gazette notification in this regard, stating that the government invoked the Anti-Terrorism Act-2009 to ban Chhatra League.

Hasina has not resigned

"Bangladesh's current situation is taking it towards a failed state like Pakistan or Afghanistan," said Nanak.

He also said Haisna "turned Bangladesh into a role model in front of the world and placed the country's name on the list of developing nations".

"Today, the fascist Yunus government is degrading the country."

About the ban on AL's student front Bangladesh Chhatra League, Nanak said, "Whereas the government itself is illegal, where do they get the right to ban Chhatra League? An unconstitutional, illegal government has no right to ban Chhatra League or any other organisation."

Nanak alleged the Yunus government "increased the prices of essential goods, failed to maintain law and order, and granted indemnity to criminals".

Nanak said the demand for President Mohammed Shahabuddin's resignation was "unfortunate". "According to the constitution, the president is the guardian of the state. The disrespect shown towards the president is alarming."
